Martial Law Enforced In Lima As President Resigns

FOUR DEATHS REPORTED IN MINOR CLASH

Hopes to Avoid Bloodshed In Transfer of Government Are Frustrated

FOREIGNERS ARE SAFE

Whereabouts of Former President Uncertain But He and Sons Missing

LIMA, PERU, Aug. 25.—(UP)—Lima today as the new Peruvian military committee sought to prevent further bloodshed in the transfer of the government from civilian to military hands.

Four deaths in minor clashes ruined hopes for a bloodless revolution. But the authorities resorted promptly to the uncontrolled spirits of the exuberant Peruvians by immediately ordering the observance of all regulations of martial law.

The present whereabouts of former President Augusto B. Leguia, who resigned and then left the country, were uncertain. He was known to be aboard the Peruvian warcraft Admiral Grau. Together with at least two of his three sons and a few other supporters. But where the vessel was cruising or what disposition would be made of the man who ruled for 11 successive years was a problem.

Gen. Manuel Maria Ponce, president of the military committee, assured the students who acclaimed the revolution that the Admiral Grau still was in Peruvian waters, and added that Leguia would not be allowed to leave the jurisdiction of the government "unless the people desire it."

All foreigners here were safe since no calls for assistance were received at the various embassies and legations. Reliable sources stated that a number of foreign representatives, including the American charge d-affaires, Ferdinand L. Mayer, had requested the military government to guarantee the lives of various figures in Leguia's regime who had taken refuge in the legations. The request, it was said, was granted.

Word of the revolution's success was sent throughout the country by the new government.

GERMAN FLIERS HOP OFF FOR NEW YORK FROM NOVA SCOTIA

Plan To Be In New York This Evening

Flight Will Complete Trip Across North Atlantic From Germany

HALIFAX, N. S., Aug. 26.—(UP)—Captain Wolfgang Von Gronau and his three companions departed in their veteran Dornier Wahl seaplane today, bound for New Work harbor and the end of their flight from Germany.

With the same unconcern that marked their quiet flight across the Atlantic ocean to the American coast, the German aviators started the 600-mile flight to New York at 10:45 a. m. today.

The German plane, which arrived here yesterday after a flight via Iceland, Greenland, Labrador, and Queensport, was fuelled at Bedford basin before departing on the last stage of the transatlantic venture.

Rising from the basin, the big ship flew over the city and then turned southward over the harbor. The weather was clearing rapidly after dense fog that hampered the flight here from Labrador and there was a slight breeze.

A Moth plane from Halifax rose to accompany the German plane on the first few miles of its trip.

Captain Von Gronau was expected to bring his plane down in New York harbor, near the Statue of Liberty, late in the afternoon. He described the flight from Germany which started a week ago yesterday, as a "trial flight" such as is customary for students at the aviation school which he conducts in Germany.

The German flyer has communicated with Dornier company officials in New York and asked that arrangements be made for landing in the harbor there.

The flight was considered remarkable inasmuch as the northern route followed often offers serious weather hazards, such as the thick fog that forced the Dornier craft down at Queensport en route from Cartwright, Labrador. Capt. Von Gronau and his companions, however, made steady and almost uninterrupted progress across the ocean.

LON CHANEY, FAMOUS STAR, PASSES AWAY

"Man of Thousand Faces" Called By Death After Blood Transfusion

The end came with a hemorrhage of the throat at St. Vincent's hospital where he was taken last Wednesday when he became seriously ill.

Just a few minutes before his death he was conversing quietly with members of his family.

Although it was known that the noted character actor was suffering from carcanoma of the bronchial tubes and that his life was to be shortened by that form of cancer, his passing was unexpected.

Physicians did not believe he could live more than several months but they considered that he was temporarily out of danger when a blood transfusion was made successfully after a hemorrhage last Saturday.

Mrs. Chaney and their son, Creighton, were with the character actor when the hemorrhage started.

They immediately called Dr. John C. Webster but Chaney already was beyond medical aid.

Film Favorite

Chaney's death was a shock to all Hollywood. He was one of the most beloved and successful of the film favorites.

News of the actor's serious illness first was generally known in the screen colony shortly after he finished work on his initial talking picture, "The Unholy Three."

He had planned to take a long vacation before working again but instead hastened to New York to consult with specialists about his throat ailment.

Apparently much improved, he returned from the east three weeks ago and went to his cabin in the high Sierras.

The first of three hemorrhages forced him to enter the hospital last Wednesday. His condition was regarded then as critical but when blood transfusions were successful, optimistic reports were given out.

Late yesterday, the improvement appeared so pronounced that Dr. Webster, in an official bulletin, said "Mr. Chaney spent the best afternoon since he came to the hospital."

Wife Prostrated

Mrs. Chaney and the son were broken up by the actor's death. The Chaneys had been married more than 22 years.

Chaney was born in Colorado Springs, Colo., April 1, 1883.

He always was interested in the stage and shortly after he concluded his education in Colorado he went with a stock company.

His histrionic ability was recognized immediately and he acted as a property man for the company. He was fond of reminiscing about how expert he became at shifting scenery.

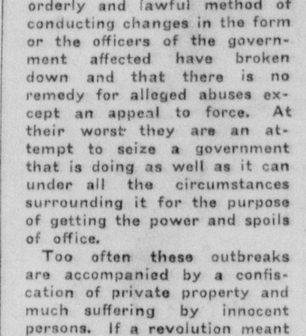

He graduated to the dual role of transportation agent and actor with another small stock company and finally was hired as a dancing comedian by the famous team of Kolb and Dill.

His turn from the stage to motion pictures was quite unexpected and resulted only from becoming stranded with another stock company in Santa Ana, Calif.

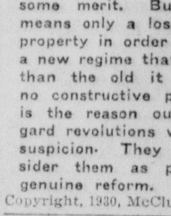

Without sufficient money to return east, Chaney decided to try

Calvin Coolidge Says

BY CALVIN COOLIDGE
Former President of the United States

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Aug. 26.—The reports of a revolution making headway in Peru are disquieting and discouraging.

Revolutions have long been the curse of some sections south of the Rio Grande. They indicate at their best that the orderly and lawful method of conducting changes in the form or the officers of the government affected have broken down and that there is no remedy for alleged abuses except an appeal to force. At their worst they are an attempt to seize a government that is doing as well as it can under all the circumstances surrounding it for the purpose of getting the power and spoils of office.

Too often these outbreaks are accompanied by a confiscation of private property and much suffering by innocent persons. If a revolution meant a cleaning up of a bad situation and the substitution of a stable, permanent and free government it would have some merit. But when it means only a loss of life and property in order to substitute a new regime that is no better than the old it accomplishes no constructive purpose. That is the reason our people regard revolutions with so much suspicion. They do not consider them as productive of genuine reform.

CLOSE RACES CALLING OUT ELECTORATE

WEATHER IS IDEAL

Reports From Various Parts Of State Show Rural Districts Are Interested

ORANGE COUNTY voters today, favored by ideal weather, went to the polls to nominate, and in some instances, elect, state and county officials. A heavier vote than had been anticipated by political workers and County Clerk J. M. Backs seemed to be rolling in when a check of the situation was made shortly before noon.

The check, made at 17 of the 56 polling places in Santa Ana, revealed that just a fraction under 25 per cent of the total registered vote for the 17 precincts had been cast at 11:30 a. m. This is at least five per cent more than at the same time during the primary election four years ago.

An unusually heavy morning vote also was reported at the office of the county clerk from various parts of the county. A check made by The Register at noon in various points throughout the county, showed that approximately the same percentage as in Santa Ana applied in Fullerton and the Newport harbor district, with unusually heavy voting at Anaheim and Laguna Beach. In Orange there had been a 15 per cent vote cast at 11:30 a. m. All points indicated that there would be an extremely large vote cast during the afternoon and evening before the polls closed at 7 o'clock.

In Santa Ana the 17 precincts checked showed that 1035 voters had visited the polls during the usually quiet morning hours, out of a total registered vote of 4288 for these precincts. A heavy vote during the noon hour, was anticipated when many workers will avail themselves of the noon day pause to cast their ballots for their favorites in the primary. Another rush is expected by election workers after industries, shops and offices close at 5 p. m. The unusually heavy vote is regarded in some quarters as possibly accounting for some changes in the anticipated results.

The precincts checked in Santa Ana and the results shown were as follows: No. 1—Sycamore street fire station, votes cast, 50, registered vote, 180; No. 2—Willard junior high school, votes cast 86, registered 272; No. 3—Buick garage,

ARIZONA CANDIDATES WAGE BITTER FIGHT

PHOENIX, Ariz., Aug. 26.—(UP)—Democratic gubernatorial candidates have entered the final two weeks of their campaign activities with a verbal barrage on their stand against or for certain measures.

Fred D. Coulter, who addressed a large audience at Scottsdale last night, declared those who have been charged with safeguarding of Arizona's fights in the Colorado river, "had failed miserably."

"The future of Arizona is doomed unless her great water supply is conserved," he declared. "The demand for water is increasing daily. The Colorado is our only source of supply and the only hope for the future."

QUARTET QUITS PAN AMERICAN TRADE PARLEY

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Aug. 26.—(UP)—The first clash in the Pan-American reciprocal trade conference, in session here this week, today had resulted in the withdrawal of four members of the Argentine delegation including Dr. Huan Carlos Godoy, consul general for that country at San Francisco.

No definite reason was given by the resigning delegates for their action, but it is known that Dr. Godoy was keenly disappointed in the failure of his delegation to support his candidacy for permanent president of the organization in opposition to Simon J. Lubin, of Sacramento, elected to the post Sunday.

The other delegates who withdrew were Dr. Jose C. Castellano, Cordoba; Eduardo Blanchard,

RESCUE SHIP GETS HONOLULU CHEERS

HONOLULU, Aug. 26.—(UP)—The Ventura, rescue ship for the passengers of the stricken Tahiti that floundered recently in the South seas, arrived here today amid cheers from a large crowd that assembled to welcome Capt. W. R. Meyer and his crew.

A special tug, loaded with an official committee and 15 Hawaiian maidens who sang Alohas, advanced into the bay to meet the rescue ship.

Eighty-eight passengers from the Tahiti were aboard. As many of them as space will permit will continue to San Francisco when the Ventura leaves this afternoon. The rest will follow on the steamer Maui, which departs for the same destination Wednesday.

Returns From Election To Be Broadcast

Comprehensive election returns will be furnished to the voters of Santa Ana tonight by The Register.

Polls will close at 7 o'clock, but it is doubtful if any indicating reports will be received much before 8:30 o'clock.

Returns from all parts of the state will be furnished by the United Press over its leased, high-speed wire.

Approximately 40 trained workers will gather the returns in Santa Ana and flash them into The Register office.

Correspondents throughout the entire county also will send in returns from the outside precincts.

Results will be megaphoned at The Register and in addition Radio Station KREG will give the latest returns from time to time.

FLOWERS SENT "MA" KENNEDY BY EVANGELIST

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 26.—(UP)—Mrs. Minnie A. Kennedy, surrounded by $100 worth of flowers sent by her evangelist daughter, Aimee Semple McPherson, indicated today that the family quarrel is all over—except for one little detail.

"I shall insist," Mrs. Kennedy said, "that sister pay for my two nasal operations, even if I have to sue."

Mrs. Kennedy has charged she received the injuries to her nose in an altercation with her daughter. Mrs. McPherson insists the injury was received when her mother

PUBLISHER IS NOT PERMITTED TO CAST VOTE

J. F. BURKE, PUBLISHER of The Register and Mabel S. Burke, his wife, were registered from the Register building in precinct No. 4, their voting place being the Buick garage of the Reid Motor Company. Upon presenting themselves to vote this morning, they were promptly challenged by H. D. Connell, inspector of the board at that precinct.

This was done before their names were looked up in the register. The challenge was made on the ground of the legal residence being in Panorama Heights, rather than in this precinct, and that they should have registered in the other precinct and so voted.

Mr. Burke said it had not been his intention to change his legal residence from Santa Ana, and had taken it up with the County Clerk, who had assured him that the intent would govern the legal

MAN STABS WIFE IN L. A. POLICE STATION

Strauss, a dagger in his hand, was arrested on a charge of assault with intent to commit murder, while his wife was removed to the receiving hospital for treatment of a wound in her side.

The Strauss couple, married six months, met in the station and were advised by police to settle their differences amicably. They walked into an anteroom and a few minutes later the officers heard Mrs. Strauss scream. They ran in to find her dangerously wounded. Strauss offered no resistance.

FRANKIE CAMPBELL, FIGHTER, DIES FROM INJURIES IN BOUT

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 26.—Frankie Campbell, 25, local heavyweight boxer, died today from injuries received when he was knocked out last night in the fifth round of his fight with Max Baer of Livermore.

Police were immediately dispatched to the downtown hotel where Baer has been detained since the fight, instructed to arrest him on a technical charge of manslaughter.

At St. Joseph's hospital, Campbell never rallied from cerebral concussion induced by one or several heavy head blows administered in the course of a close and savage battle.

Aith his young wife and aged mother waiting in an anteroom, Campbell died at 11:45 a. m.

In addition to ordering Baer's arrest, Police Chief William J. Quinn also ordered that everyone connected with staging the fight be brought to the hall of justice for questioning.

MRS. SCHROEDER AND DAGUE FILE APPEAL

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Aug. 26.—(UP)—Defense counsel today began its final fight to save Irene Schroeder, former Wheeling, W. Va., waitress, and gun-girl, from the electric chair. An appeal from the decision refusing a retrial of her death sentence verdict was filed with the supreme court here.

Similar action was filed for Glenn Dague, who with Mrs. Schroeder, was convicted of first degree murder in the Brady Paul slaying last December. The appeal asked a stay of execution until the case had been received by the high court.

POLICE RESERVES, STRIKERS IN CLASH

Several of the strikers, many of them girls, were reported to have been injured when police broke up the strikers' demonstration.

When police ordered the strikers not to congregate in front of their places of employment, the crowd rushed police. A committee went to the West Thirtieth street police station to protest against what they charged was unnecessary violence by police. More than 8000 dressmakers and raincoat makers are out on strike, which began this morning. The raincoat makers are trying to renew their old agreement with the Manufacturers' association, while the dressmakers are trying to force union condition in their industry, which is overwhelmingly non-union.

OIL PRODUCTION IN OKLAHOMA BOOSTED

TULSA, Okla., Aug. 26.—(UP)—Stringent probation rules failed to have much effect on new producers in Oklahoma during the past week and oil production increased 28,580 barrels over the previous week, the weekly report of the Oil and Gas Journal showed today.

Total production for Oklahoma for the week ending August 23 was 566,335 barrels compared to 537,755 for the previous week. The Oklahoma City field showed the largest increase with a jump of 37,595 barrels, due mostly to new completions.

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—(UP)—Hack Wilson, Chicago Cubs' centerfielder, set a National league record for home runs today when he hit his 44th of the season off Larry French of the Pittsburgh Pirates in the seventh inning.

residence, and that if he had intended legally to keep his residence in Santa Ana, he could do so. Connell insisted on his taking an oath that this was his "legal" residence, and Burke demurred, on the ground that he didn't want to himself determine by an oath as to the "legality" of residence, as he was not sufficiently familiar with the California law.

He took it up with Joe Backs, county clerk, and Mr. Backs again said that the "intent" governed, but that he had expected that if the residence would be established there, that there would be a room provided for living purposes, which had not been done. Mr. Burke took it up further with legal counsel. He further said that while he was thoroughly convinced that he had a legal right under the law to retain his residence in Santa Ana for voting purposes, as do thousands of people who have homes elsewhere than their legal residences, yet it was so apparent that there was a plan to cause him trouble under the circumstances, that he did not propose to afford any one the satisfaction of even apparently declaring that he had voted illegally.

PRISON REFORM URGED IN TALK TO ROTARIANS

Making a powerful plea for prison reform, Dr. S. P. Soldan, who for a number of years was chaplain of the Leavenworth penitentiary in Kansas, spoke before the members of the Rotary club at St. Ann's inn this noon.

The musical program was furnished by Georgia Belle Walton, Eddie Burns and Ruth Armstrong. Miss Walton played several violin selections, accompanied by Burns on the 'cello. Miss Armstrong played the piano.

The speaker started out by telling members of the club why they should be interested in prison work. He said that they should be interested from a humane point of view if not because they were taxpayers. Thirteen billion dollars is spent every year in taking care of criminals, Soloan stated. Penology as a science is not recognized by the citizens of the United States, the chaplain said.

Speaking of the Leavenworth prison, which he said was the largest of the penitentiaries, the speaker said that it was built to accommodate 1800 and that there are now 4044 people crowded within its walls. There is no real work for the convicts to do but they keep the prison spotlessly clean inside and out, Dr. Soldan said.

Physically the men do not suffer in the penitentiary, the speaker said, but mentally the men who come out are never the same. Dr. Soldan said that a prison audience was much more well behaved and sensitive than many church congregations.

In closing, the speaker told of some of the interesting personalities that he came in contact with and made a strong plea for the segregation of criminals which, he said, is the only way crime can be lessened.

Hollywood.

Rose from Ranks

He rose from the ranks of the extra and his work in the "Miracle Man" definitely established him as a film star.

Always he had experimented with make-up—even when he was a scene shifter.

"I just liked to putter around with that stuff," he often related, "and I found out I could do some rather good stuff with it."

Screen producers also learned that Chaney "could do some rather good stuff" with makeup and he became the greatest of all make up artists and has registered one hit after another in the Hunchback of Notre Dame, The Phantom of the Opera, Laugh Clown Laugh, While the City Sleeps, West of Zanzibar, and others.

Through all his screen career, Chaney achieved his grotesque appearances through his own skill at making up.

He refused to permit others to aid him and he refused to divulge his secret of how he made himself so unpleasant looking for such pictures as the Hunchback of Notre Dame, The Phantom, West of Zanzibar and the Unholy Three.

Prior to his appearance in the Unholy Three, Universal sought unsuccessfully to have Chaney talk in a revived version of "The Phantom of the Opera." Finally that studio was forced to announce the picture with the line "Everyone Talks But the Phantom."

Follower of Sports

Chaney was an avid follower of sports.

He enjoyed riding, swimming and golf and until his illness a ringside spectator at all prizefights in Los Angeles and Hollywood.

In addition to his widow and son, Chaney leaves two brothers, John Chaney of Hollywood, and Frank Chaney, newspaper publisher of Martinez, Calif.

Arrangements for funeral services were not completed today.

Visitors to the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer lot, where Chaney worked in recent years, always were amazed at the artistic results of his makeup.

When Chaney wanted a scar the length or breadth of his face, he manufactured a scar that was just as convincing and horrifying at a distance of two feet and under natural light as it was later on the screen at a greater distance and after it had been shot under the Kleigs.

The introduction of talking pictures did not please Chaney. He and Charlie Chaplin were the foremost opponents of diaglogue in films. Both believed that the greatest art of motion pictures was the depiction of a plot without the aid of words to explain it.

Friends of Chaney's sometimes believed that his throat affliction probably intensified his feelings against the talkies although no one ever suggested it to Chaney.

When he finally appeared in "The Unholy Three," it was announced in such studio posters as "Chaney talks" and "as many voices as faces."

DOG PROVES GOOD AS FISH CATCHER

AUBURN, Calif., Aug. 26.—(INS)—"Pat," a pointer dog owned by Jacob Crandell, local barber, is almost as good a fisherman as his master and the two form a combination against fish that is almost unbeatable.

Crandell, out fishing, caught a pike which flopped out of his basket and began "flip-flopping" about in the general direction of the stream. But Pat was on the job, hooked Mr. Pike by the tail and carried him back to the basket.

County Clerk J. M. Backs stated this morning that the unusually heavy morning vote being reported would lead him to think that the total vote in the county might exceed the estimate of 40 per cent which he had previously made.

At mid-day the vote throughout the state, as reported by United Press, showed indications of a total vote of approximately 1,000,000 in the 10,283 precincts when final tallies were made. Los Angeles, San Francisco and Oakland all reported a light vote during the first five hours but election officials predicted a rush later in the day. Rural sections were reporting a heavy vote.

Receivership Suit Against Film Firm Dismissed by Court

DOVER, Del., Aug. 26.—(UP)—The receivership suit filed in Chancery court at Wilmington last Friday against Warner Brothers Pictures, inc., and Renraw, inc., by Ira I. Nelson, of Boston, Mass., was dismissed here today by Chief Justice James Pennewell.

The motion for dismissal was made by former Federal Judge Hugh M. Morris, of Wilmington, local counsel for Warner Brothers Pictures, inc. Nelson owns 300 shares of the corporation's stock.

The bill of complaint was dismissed by the court on the ground that it was not verified or sworn to by the complainant.

Chief Justice Pennewell heard the motion because Chancellor Wolcott signed a certificate of disqualification due to the fact he owns some Warner Brothers stock.

Buenos Aires, and Ruben Bence-Pieres, of Buenos Aires.

In a message sent to Lubin shortly before the visitors packed their bags and left Sacramento, they expressed "good wishes for the success of the conference."

The action taken by the four delegates will not interfere with Argentina's participation in the conference, it was announced by Lubin, who said that 15 other representatives are remaining to carry on the work under the leadership of Mario Estrada, Buenos Aires engineer, who conceived the idea of the conference.

A resolution pointing out that people of the United States have neglected to study the "idosyncracies, characteristics and habits of living of the Latin-American people, thus hindering the development of trade relations," was adopted by the round table session of north coast of South America representatives with the United States and Canada.

A plea for more liberal credit facilities was made by Carlos J. Ley of Argentina and Castro F. Lopez of Caracas, Venezuela. Ley declared that farmers of South America need and want to buy California made machinery and implements, but cannot purchase because American manufacturers require the payment of spot cash.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 26.—(UP)—The retrial of Mrs. Walburga Oesterreich for the murder of her rich husband, Fred, will be started at once, state's attorneys announced today after the jury in the first trial was discharged for failing to reach a verdict.

The jury of six men and six women received the cast last Saturday and deliberated until late yesterday. It was revealed after Judge Carlos Hardy had discharged the jurors that the count stood 10 to 2 for conviction of second degree murder, with the six women voting for conviction.

DEATHS

A WORD OF COMFORT

It would be stupid to invite a blind man to look at a beautiful picture or to suggest to a cripple that he be entered in a footrace.

It is no less vain for people to urge you, a broken-hearted man, to rise in your own strength and make something splendid and fine of yourself. You simply can not do it.

But God has not left you alone. When you take Him into your confidence and enter into His the story is different. Even that seemingly impossible thing of transforming and uplifting your life is within His power, and He yearns to give you the satisfaction of your deepest needs.

SMITH—In Santa Ana, August 25, Mary Alameda Smith, aged 66 years. Mrs. Smith, a resident of this city for more than twenty years, is survived by her husband, Ernest W. Gilbank, of Arcadia, California; one sister, Mrs. W. L. Valentine, of Hiawatha, Kansas; two brothers, the Rev. E. L. Geyer, of Baldwin, Kansas, and N. H. Geyer, of Leavenworth, Kansas. Services will be held from the Winbigler Funeral home, Wednesday, August 27, at 10 a. m., followed by interment in the Fairhaven Cemetery.

COCHRAN—August 25, 1930, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John L. Cochran, Rural Route No. 5, Santa Ana; Vada Ruth Cochran, age 15 months. MARKEL GIVEN CONTRACT FOR NEW BUILDING

Awarding of the contract for the erection of a three-story and basement, 40 foot addition, to the Santa Ana telephone building to Jules Markel and son was announced by E. S. Morrow, district manager of the Southern California Telephone company. Approximately $30,000 will be expended for the new structure, work on which was started yesterday.

The new portion of the building will be similar in design to the present building. It will be of reinforced concrete and brick and will be placed directly to the rear of the present central office. Rapid growth of the Santa Ana exchange and increase in long distance traffic has created a need for additional space for switchboard

Work on the addition is to be completed about the middle of October, in time to start the installation of three additional sections of long distance switchboard about November 1. The equipment will be placed in service during the early part of 1931 and will provide facilities to care for long distance traffic growth for the next few years. Today the Santa Ana operators handle approximately 35,500 inter-exchange, 12,100 incoming and 2550 originating long distance calls daily, a total of more than 50,000 calls. Five years ago they handled approximately 18,400 local, 2600 incoming, and 1100 long distance calls daily, or a total of more than 22,100 calls. There are now more than 7068 telephones in the Santa Ana exchange, while five years ago the number was 4604.

Three calculagraphs, or large time clocks, have been ordered for the new section of long distance switchboard. A ticket, giving a complete record, is made out for each long distance call at the time it is placed with the operator. The ticket is laid alongside the calculagraph, located in front of the operator, and the time stamped at the moment the conversation commences. When both parties have finished talking, the operator makes a second record on the ticket by use of the machine. Thus the exact hour, minute and second the conversation began and ended are recorded.

Arab Steed Given French President

PARIS, Aug. 26.—(INS)—The president's new Arab steed recently presented to him by a Chieftain on his visit to Algeria, marched in the big parade on Bastille Day and then went off to his new stables of the president near the Pont de l'Alma. There is no accommodations for horses at the Elysee Palace. The horse will be one of a company which can boast of illustrious masters, for these are the quarters where live the chargers of the Marshals of France. One of his near neighbors will be the horse of Papa Joffre which the Marshall has not ridden for two years.

S. A. FIRM IS IN INSURANCE BUSINESS RACE

Engaged in its fourth contest with other offices of the same company throughout California, the Santa Ana office of the Jefferson Standard Life Insurance company, of Greensboro, N. C., is running neck and neck with the Los Angeles office. The local branch, which is under the direction of James H. Sewell, Southern California agency supervisor, has shown its heels to all other offices in the state in the three previous contests.

In the present contest, which resulted from a challenge issued by Sewell, the San Francisco office is running in third place. The contest will close on the last day of August and the Santa Ana workers are again expecting victory. Men who are assisting in the contest are E. C. Cornett, who has been in life insurance business for the past eight years; George T. DeRoulhac, former Orange county manager for a vacuum cleaner company and D. E. Mason, formerly connected with a Santa Ana roofing concern. M. E. Beebe is the Anaheim agent for the company.

Since the Santa Ana office opened at the first of the year, the men working out of this office have written $600,000 in insurance, Sewell reported. The company with which he is connected has made an unusual growth during the first six months of the year, as shown by reports to the semi-annual meeting of the directors at the home office. Julian Price, president of the company, reported a gain of $2,067,000 in assets for that period, reaching a total of $50,813,000. New business in the 25 states in which this business amounting to $28,653,700 is in company operates.

AUDIENCE UNABLE TO HEAR SHULER

A group of people who gathered in Birch park last night with the understanding they were to hear over the radio an address by the Rev. "Bob" Shuler, on behalf of Buron Fitts, were unable to hear the address when it was found that lights in the park had not been turned on and the amplifying equipment was not ready for use.

Charles Havens, one of those interested in the meeting, appeared before the city council at its meeting last night and the council informed him that it then was too late to act on his request for use of the park inasmuch as the custodian had not been notified to make arrangements for the proposed meeting. Havens said he had talked to a member of the council about the meeting several days ago, but the council explained to him that a formal request should be acted on by that body before the park could be used.

BLIND STUDENT IS DOUBLE FOR LINDY

BATON ROUGE, La., Aug. 26.—(INS)—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh has a double in Diedrich Ramke, a 23-year-old senior at the Louisiana State university, who strikingly resembles the famous aviator in appearance.

And Ramke is like the "Lone Eagle" in courage and persistence for, despite the fact that he is totally blind, he has proved himself a leader on the campus and in the classroom.

Ramke has a deep admiration for Lindbergh, his famous double, whom he hopes to meet some day.

DOLLAR STORE MAN ACQUIRES HILL INTEREST

E. H. Elmer, who has for the past three years been in charge of the Santa Ana branch of one of the large Dollar store chains, has acquired an interest along with J. S. Hill in the Hills Dollar store at Fourth and Broadway, which has been in operation for the past two years.

Elmer has had a wide and varied experience in the Dollar store field of merchandising. This, and his unlimited confidence in the future growth of Santa Ana, he states will make it possible to give patrons even greater values in his new store.

Plans have been completed for extensive interior and exterior alterations in the present Hill store. New merchandise from eastern markets is now enroute to Santa Ana, and when completed, Elmer stated the Hill Dollar store will be one of the most up to date dollar stores in Orange county.

A close out sale of the present stock of the Hill store will start Thursday at 9 a. m., under the direct supervision of Elmer, who stated that the contractors and carpenters must have room quickly so all profits and costs will be forgotten for this sale.

Elmer expressed to the people of this city his appreciation for the wonderful support given him during his three years of serving them in his former position and stated that, with the fine and modern Dollar store that he formerly managed and the newly remodeled Hill Dollar store under his supervision, the thrifty shoppers of Santa Ana will be asured of values equaled by no other city in Orange county, for one dollar.

MAKES CHANGE

E. H. Elmer, below, who has been in charge of the Santa Ana branch of a large Dollar store chain for the past three years, announced today acqusition of an interest, with J. S. Hill, in the Hill Dollar store at Fourth and Broadway.

F. M. Ward, 55, and George Sherman, 49, both of 814 East Second street, were arrested yesterday afternoon by city officers after they are asserted to have engaged in a fight at their home. They are charged with disturbing the peace.

POSTPONE GAME IN LOCAL CITY LEAGUE

Santa Ana City leaguers preferred watching the Stars play Whittier to playing themselves last night and as a result only one end of a scheduled double-header was run off and that was semi-official, neither the umpire nor the scorekeeper appearing at the park.

The Dennis Printers unexpectedly defeated the strong Richfield Oil company, 8 to 2. Everett Lutz, making his debut as a pitcher, stopped the Oilers with four hits.

The Auto club-Excelsior creamery game was postponed.

The American Legion plays the Orange County Builders' exchange tonight. The Peek's market-Courthouse game has been postponed on account of the election.

U. S. Cars Travel 168 Billion Miles

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—(INS)—The 26,501,443 passenger cars, motor trucks and buses in the United States traveled approximately 168 billion miles last year, according to estimates just completed by the Chicago Motor club.

Average gasoline consumption for the machines was 12 miles per gallon, according to the club's calculators.

PACIFIC ELECTRIC TO REMOVE DOUBLE TRACKS AND ABANDON ORANGE-S. A. PASSENGER LINE

Authority to discontinue its street car service between Santa Ana and Orange, substituting therefore an adequate bus service, to be operated by the Motor Transit company, was granted the Pacific Electric at the regular city council meeting held last night. The authority for abandoning the street car service was contained in a resolution adopted by the council.

It was granted, however, on the distinct understanding that the Pacific Electric remove the double track on North Main between Fourth and Sixth streets, and replace the same with a single track, the change to be made at such time as requested by the city authorities.

While no time was set for the abandoning of the street car service, the communication from the Pacific Electric stated that the company is desirous of making the change at the earliest practicable date.

While it was the desire of the city authorities to have the transportation company remove the street car tracks on North Main street, a request to that end was withdrawn because the tracks are needed for handling freight traffic. Such traffic, however, will only be handled at night, it was explained.

Dr. K. H. Sutherland, county health officer, who also is acting as city health officer, appeared before the council with a request that the present ordinance governing the keeping of animals and fowls, including chickens, on residence lots, be changed to extend the distances prescribed in which animals may be near dwellings used for residence purposes. In case of larger animals, such as horses, cows and the like, the distance was changed from 50 to 75 feet from a dwelling, and in case of fowls, including chickens, the distance was changed from 25 to 50 feet. The prohibitory clause applies to any dwelling used for residence purposes, including that occupied by the owner of the animals and irrespective whether located on the owner's lot or adjoining property. Dr. Sutherland said that a number of complaints had reached his office regarding noise as well as other undesirable conditions resulting from keeping chickens on small lots.

A request was received from the Santa Ana board of education, asking that steps be taken to put in sidewalks on all streets surrounding new schools now under construction. The request, the communication stated, was prompted as a safety measure for the children going to school. Lack of sidewalks would force the children to walk on the streets, it was explained.

Contract for paving Parton and St. Andrews streets, including a number of half-block streets, was awarded to P. P. Janich, Long Beach contractor, at $47,543.91. The improvement includes curbs and sidewalks. Altogether six bids were received.

SERVICE CLUB CONCERT PLAN OF S. A. BAND

BY RUTH ANDREWS

Announcement was made today that the regular weekly concert program which will be offered in Birch park next Thursday at 7:30 p. m. by Santa Ana Municipal band, under the direction of D. C. Cianfoni, will be especially dedicated to members of Santa Ana service clubs. Musical selections chosen for presentation are of popular nature, several having been taken from modern light operas.

James Sewell, local baritone, who is a favorite on service club programs, and who will be remembered for his leading role in "The Belle of Havana," light opera by Charles Wakefield Cadman, which was featured here in Santa Ana so successfully during last Music week festival, will appear as soloist on next Thursday evening's concert. Sewell will be accompanied by Miss Ruth Armstrong.

One of the most interesting selections from light opera to be offered will be a band arrangement from the appealing "Maytime," by Sigmund Romberg, composer of the sensationally popular "Desert Song." "Maytime" is equally admired for its many gems of melodic beauty.

Romberg, its composer, who has produced many very successful modern operettas, was born in Saga, Hungary, and as a young man studied engineering at the University of Vienna. Great love for piano and violin influenced him, however, toward a musical career.

Coming to American 14 years ago, Romberg's musical compositions were brought out in rapid succession. His first production, "The Whirl of the World" was quickly followed by eleven productions for the famous Winter Garden of New York City.

In addition to the famous "Desert Song" and "Maytime," some of Romberg's best-known works include "Blossom Time," "The Blue Paradise," "Sinbad," "Her Soldier Boy," "The Student Prince," "Robinson Crusoe, Jr.," "Bombo" and "Princess Flavia."

The overture "Morning, Noon and Night in Vienna," by F. von Suppe, another popular Austrian composer, will be offered, also a unique descriptive fantasie of modern style, "A Vision of Salone," by J. Bodewalt Lampe, suggested to its composer by the picturesque story of John the Baptist and Salome, the exotic dancing girl of Hebrew Bible lore.

AIR DISORDERS MINIMIZED BY MODERN PILOTS

DENVER, Aug. 26.—(INS)—Danger from "rolling sky ceilings"—an air condition that has been a bugbear to airplane pilots in mountainous states since the birth of aviation—has been reduced to an absolute minimum.

No longer are pilots who are flying over a country where the variation in the topography make the sky ceiling resemble a turbulent ocean forced to explore the upper regions and find to just what altitude they may elevate their planes before becoming engulfed in clouds of fog that once made mountain flying such a hazardous business.

Instead of following the old policy of "first hand exploration" the pilots need but look to the United States weather bureaus located along the arteries of air travel for the needed information. Every three hours the score of stations issue bulletins to transmountain flyers and thus add another victory in the battle to make transcontinental flying a safe undertaking.

Three years ago Julius M. Sherier, Denver district weather forecaster, began the development of such a series of aerial forecasts—forecasts that after passing through a long experimental stage have at last become practically infallible. The frequent reports supplied by the weather bureaus are of such accuracy and timeliness that they obviate any excuse for ignorance of air conditions.

A rough estimate of the ceiling may be made by the measurement of the altitude of the overhanging clouds, but in its safety campaign, the observation posts have developed a new and more precise system of calculation. Government forecasters now employ small balloons with a known rate of ascent, similiar to those that delight children. At night the height of the cloud covering is found by means of a ceiling protractors. This apparatus resembles a search light and reflects a beam of light upon the base of the clouds.

CLERK WORKS FOR 50 CENTS MONTHLY

PARIS, Aug. 26.—(INS)—Jean Delure, a clerk here, is not permitted to receive a salary greater than 2 cents a day. No matter how hard or how late he works, his pay check remains 12 cents a week, a possible 50 cents a month. M. Delure is forbidden to receive more, by the government, because he has a small income on which he can just live.

A law, passed in 1924, prevents any clerk benefitting from an income or pension, from receiving a salary which, added to that money, will amount to a greater sum than he earned previously. Many professors and other employes are suffering under this law. The case of Delure is being taken up by deputies here as an example of the evil wrought by such a law, and a movement is under way to take it off the books.

BEAR LATEST GOLF HAZARD

"Quit puttering-a-round and bear down on that club," is what Pronto, a small brown bear, guardian of the ninth hole at a miniature golf links in Los Angeles, probably was saying as he posed for this picture. Pronto is America's most unusual golf hazard and has a yearning for golf balls, which was developed when he was given one dipped in syrup to play with.

Editor Register:—I wish to thank you for your editorial, "An Arraignment of American Education," in your issue of August 20. It shows an understanding of the situation that is necessary before the remedy can be used.

Mark Sullivan says in his book, "Our Times," that it was through William McGuffey's influence that our country gained its prestige. Why not have his readers made over and cut out the dead stuff and follow his advice about teaching the children to read, teaching the alphabet and the spelling of the words as he advises in footnotes and in his "First Reader?" He says "spelling is of the utmost importance in securing the progress of the young learners." Now the children must not learn to spell a word the first year and many children never get over the wrong start. I would add that the thorough teaching in mental arithmetic had a great deal to do with the thorough teaching of his (McGuffey's) time. Arthur Brisbane in L. A. Examiner, July 28, quotes Einstein as saying "The most important work the world has on hand is to improve the education of the young."

It is almost six years since I began to work for the children.

Sincerely yours,
ETTA GRIFFITH.

CHAPTER 22

Max Everett paced back and forth in the open space across the front of the darkening courtroom. He had thrust the empty chairs to one side to leave a clear passage for his tramping feet. From the rail of the jury box, past the deserted lawyers' table, to the side windows—from the windows past the table to the railing—sixteen paces, turn, sixteen paces.

He forced himself to cross the room and return ten times before looking again at the watch which he held open in his hand. There was a clock on the back wall of the courtroom, but its minute hand moved in a series of jerks, between which time stood still. The racing second hand of his watch was better—at least he could watch it move.

The jury had been out two hours and forty-three minutes. For two hours and forty-three minutes they had been balancing Aline's life in their hands. "No prejudice against the death penalty." But they couldn't do that to her? He veered sharply, shuddering away from the thought. The corner of the table struck his side, but he did not feel the pain of the blow; he merely pushed at the obstruction, blindly, and continued his tramping from railing to wall. Prison—prison would be a living death.

"Beyond reasonable doubt." What were they finding to say for two hours and forty-three minutes? How could those twelve minds determine her guilty or innocence—they, who did not even know her? Nine—ten. Two hours and forty-seven minutes now. Would they never come? Could he bear to have them come?

Midway between the judge's bench and the side wall he crossed a slanting oblong patch of light on the floor, from the open door of the judge's chambers. After accompanying Aline and the sheriff across the yard to the jail when the jury retired, he had slipped back to the courtroom, unnoticed by the newspapermen and lawyers who were whiling away the time of waiting inside. The courtroom was dark now, and he could consult his watch only when, once in ten times, he paused on the rim of the patch of light. Four of the men within were playing cards, the others were smoking and talking. Fragments of their chatter pierced his consciousness dimly.

"The wisest thing you ever did was not to cross-examine Kurtner. I've seen that done too often. He's an old hand at the game, and you can't trip him anywhere," someone was telling Linforth.

"Once when I was a boy I accepted a suggestion to put my tongue on a frosty iron pump handle—once was enough," Linforth laughed.

"It was great stuff, pulling Kurtner as a surprise witness—but all that technical jargon sometimes goes over the jury's head."

"That was a top-hole speech you made, anyhow—I wouldn't be surprised if it fetched 'em."

"I wouldn't bet a plugged nickel on the way any jury in creation is going to jump."

Max tried to recall just what it was that Linforth had said in his closing argument. He had held himself in his chair by main force while he listened—his hands had twitched to knock the man down. But he listened again in his mind now, trying to hear how it would sound to the jury.

"Would not any woman lie to save not only her reputation but her life? Her story of an unselfish motive which led her to take a gun in her hand and shoot down an unarmed man is an obvious attempt to play upon your sympathies. Against that tale of outraged sisterly love is a misconduct so bold, so brazen that it has come to the knowledge of all of you."

Travis had objected to that. Objected! Linforth had dragged her through the mud, and Max could not save her. He could only sit, white-lipped, and hear Travis "object." The objection was sustained, but what did that matter? The mud had found its mark.

"Will you allow her pretty face to free this woman from the consequences of a brutal crime?" Linforth had turned even her beauty against her, had taunted the jury until they would be ashamed to free her lest they be suspected of weak susceptibility. "A high priced, smart city lawyer has come to you, has presented as evidence the technical jargon of a college professor. But it dosen't take a knowledge of chemistry to see plain facts. It doesn't take a college education. Hard common sense which the citizens of Hangtown possess in good measure, even if they don't wear silk shirts, is quite sufficient."

Thus he had enflamed the age-old antagonism between city and country—the antagonism which had already flared against Aline, and which, to be fair to them, she had done nothing to alleviate.

"Ladies and gentlemen, I will not try to impress and confuse you with talk of forensic ballistics and chemical analysis. I will speak to you of simple facts. It requires no laboratory to place before you a woman with motive, opportunity and disposition to commit this murder. Her act, by her own showing, was not unpremeditated. She had to find her husband's pistol, take it with her, walk down the path to the lodge—and, to make her evil purpose sure of accomplishment, fire not one shot but two, at a helpless, unarmed man. The defense of temporary insanity is too often invoked in such cases; but she did not even dare to plead that threadbare defense—it would be too absurd in the face of her conduct.

"By her own confession she killed Don Mortison. She does not deny that she fired the shot into his lung which, regardless of any other shot, would in itself have been a mortal wound."

Travis had objected to that as an opinion for which there was no evidence. They had wrangled about "reasonable inference," Max remembered. The judge had separated them like quarreling children, and Linforth had gone on to his horrible conclusion.

"Even her own version of the events of that afternoon is not a legal defense. Ladies and gentlemen, there is no question of justifiable homicide in this case, no question of the protection of another. She had tried to whitewash her motive, to make you believe that it was outraged love, not hate, which took her down that path with the pistol in her hand. It was indeed outraged love, but not sisterly love. It was jealousy, fear of discovery of her liasion, the guilt in her heart before guilt had yet touched her hands, which led Aline Everett to commit wilful and premeditated murder!"

The steps of the man in the dark courtroom insensibly quickened. He remembered that Travis' hand had clutched his arm in a vice of steel, or he would have jumped from his place and struck Linforth full across the mouth.

Three hours and five minutes. Were they recalling Linforth's words, even as he recalled them?

The voices of the bridge players drifted out to him, suddenly loud.

"Well, I went down two," Travis' clear, unruffled voice was saying, "but I got every trick to be had out of the hand—against any defense."

Yes, Travis had got every trick out of the hand, but he had lost it nevertheless. "Against any defense." The words repeated themselves with symbolic meaning to the rhythm of Max's tread. Travis had daring and subtlety; he appraised every detail of the situation before him, took into account every minute effect. But he was not at his best as a jury leader; the one element outside his control was his own nature. He knew well the value of emotional appeal—but such an appeal, falling from his lips, would have been a burlesque, defeating its own purpose by its incongruity.

Yet there had been a sense of restrained power in the man as he stood before the jury and addressed them without gesticulation, in his clear, incisive voice. The drive of intellect was there—but would it sway the man and women of a Hangtown jury? Could he compel them to follow by the sheer force of his terse reasoning? He had cut clean as a scalpel to the vital points of the case—but would they feel those sure knife-thrusts as they had felt the bludgeoning of Linforth's appeal to their emotions?

"I do not ask your sympathy for my client," he had said. "There have been times, as we all know, when the youth and beauty of a defendant have swayed the deliberations of such a body as this, leading them away from the strict and narrow path of justice. The prosecution has warned you to beware of this appeal to your instincts of chivalry. But I warn you that if personal attractiveness does not imply innocence, neither is it an indication of guilt. I warn you lest in your commendable determination to stand upright you should bend backwards, and commit the injustice which you are most anxious to avoid. I do not ask that you show her mercy because she is a woman. I ask that you judge her, not according to her sex and age and personality, but only according to the facts before you. I ask that you do not condemn her for those things to which she was born and which she cannot help. I do not ask you to approve those things—I only ask that you dissociate them from the one question with which we are concerned.

"Would you condemn her because he rtraining has been different from yours? You may visit on the results of that training the full weight of your moral condemnation. But remember, we are not here to judge of Mrs. Everett's character. We are here to decide only one thing—not whether she is such a woman as you admire, but only whether she killed Don Mortison.

"Insinuations of her misconduct have been allowed to reach your ears in this court, although you have been cautioned to disregard them. Against that gossip I would call to your attention only one thing—the attitude of the husband who has sat beside her throughout this trial. Max Everett, though he came among you as a stranger, is the type of man whom you can all understand. Would any man, deceived and betrayed, a man whose wife had slain her lover, uphold her with the absolute, unaltered confidence which Max Everett has displayed?

"Look in your own hearts, and then look upon the face of this husband—and tell me whether the faces of any one of you could fail to show the torment of jealousy, of outraged trust, if there was justification for these suspicions. Against the gossip of outsiders I place the belief in her integrity of the person who knows her best, and who would be most sensitive to her failure to keep faith with him."

Thank God—thank God for that! Max had felt so passive, so helpless; but perhaps he had been of some aid after all.

Then, as if he had cleared the ground for the single vital issue, Travis had thrown back his shoulders and raised his tall, lean figure to its full height. His voice was not raised, but it seemed to burn with a white, vibrant flame, like an acetylene torch.

"I tell you frankly, ladies and gentlemen, that the defense stands or falls by the testimony of one man—Emil Kurtner. I do not ask you to bow to him as an expert; I only ask you to understand him. The prosecution has cast slurs upon the 'technicalities' of this testimony. But that testimony is supported by two witnesses who are far from technical. Remember that Mr. Piper, a disinterested witness, noted that the body of Don Mortison was already stiffening when he found it. Remember that Mrs. Everett was puzzled because Mortison did not look up when she stood in the doorway and fired through the window. And remember that when they noted these things, neither one of them knew the meaning of what they saw!

"The prosecution has asked you to rely on common sense against the findings of experts. True, you have not made an intensive study of bullets nor of chemistry. But you are also experts. You know sheep—and you know mines. You grade those sheep according to certain characteristics. Suppose I came to you and told you that you were wrong—that it was impossible to tell a good sheep from a bad one, because all sheep look alike to me. Suppose I came to you with a bit of rock in my hands, and you told me that the shining streak across its surface was not gold, but worthless quartz. These things are beyond my knowledge, but they are not beyond yours—therefore I would believe you, because you know. And if you explained to me how you knew, I would listen and try to understand."

Yes, he had somehow made Emil Kurtner one of them. He had not touched upon the great criminologist's record of wizardy, his lofty attainments and international reputation. Max wondered what Kurtner would have thought if he had heard himself placed on a level with ranchmen and prospectors. And then, at the end, Travis had swung back to the tone of his beginning.

"I do not ask you to approve of this woman. But I offer you a challenge. I challenge you, because you disapprove of much that she has done, to make a special effort therefore to be fair to her—to find her not guilty of the crime which was beyond her power to commit, since it had already been committed."

As Travis' voice dropped, Max had looked at the jury with agony in his eyes. With dull and inscrutable faces they had filed from the room. And a sthe familiar words were intoned, "Remember the admonition of the court—" Aline had faced them, and, withdrawing a red-and-gold cylinder from her bag, had deliberately rouged her lips.

She asked no quarter! There was magnificence in the sublime folly of her pride. But did they see—as Max saw—that the arched line of the lip-stick wavered and broke in an unguided smear of red across her mouth?

Nine—ten. As Max bent to look at his watch in the oblong path of light, he shook his head impatiently. He could not see. A shadow blocked the doorway. He flung out his arm as if to brush the shadow away, as Peter, with a casual glanceb ackward to make sure that his departure was unobserved, lounged from the light into the darkness of the courtroom.

Three Bottles Helped Her

"I cannot praise your good medicine enough. After my baby came I was rundown. I had to go to bed often through the day. I took three bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I felt like a different woman. If any other mother has those tired feelings like I had, I advise her to take Lydia E. Vacation..? Some OILS won't do....

An oil you may not be able to find when you want it, simply won't fill the bill. And if it won't meet the strain of summer driving — heat and speed — it won't do either.

There's a best in everything — among motor oils, it's Pennzoil. Perhaps that's why you'll find it everywhere — why more western dealers sell Pennzoil than any other high-grade oil.

SHAFER TALKS ON FARM EDUCATION

Editor's Note: The complete text of the talk by Ross Shafer, of which an extract is printed below, will be published in full on the Farm page of the Register next Saturday.

In a talk over KREG last night Ross Shafer, prominent Tustin orange grower and Farm bureau leader, discussed agricultural education and the need for it in Orange county.

"The educational committee of the Orange County Farm bureau, with the assistance and advice of some of the best specialists in agricultural education in California, have come to the conclusion that the introduction of a system of agricultural education in the schools of the county could best be brought about by making a start in one of the junior colleges," Shafer said.

He also pointed out that the cost of agricultural education had led the Farm bureau directorate to the consideration of a union of junior college districts.

SANTA ANA WINS LEAGUE CHAMPIONSHIP

HOOKS and SLIDES

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

One of the longest home runs ever hit was one Ruth socked over the right field wall at Shibe park, Philadelphia . . . The onion sailed over a row of apartment houses and landed on top of a house facing the second street beyond the park. . . . Customers sitting on the roofs of the houses to watch the ball game marked the spot where the ball landed, and the next day the distance it carried was measured. . . The apple flew just 481 feet before it fell. . . Jimmy Foxx once hit a ball over the double-decked left field stand. . . They measured that one also . . . and the tape showed 467 feet. . . Betting Commissioner Tom Shaw, in a fit of beautiful generosity, gave a bettor 150 to 1 on Jim Dandy in that race. . . . The gent laid 50 at that figure . . . which is better than a punt in the jodhpurs, but not for Tom Shaw.

BASEBALL REPARTEE

This Dan Taylor, they tell us, is a mean man with a word. His wise-cracking on and off the diamond has done much to relieve the strain under which the Cubs have been battling.

Dan is the new face and voice in the Cub outfield. He has been taking the place of "Old Hoss" Stephenson, who hasn't been feeling so well lately. Dan came to the Cubs this year from Reading, where he led the league in hitting last season with a mark of .367. He was up in the big show once before, with Washington, but drifted to Memphis. His home is Lash, Pa.

Dan is new to the big leagues, but a member of a very old school of baseball players, the same school that graduated "Rabbit" Maranville and some others with a quick tongue and the ability to use the right word in a tough spot. During the recent crucial series in which the Cubs battled Brooklyn, Dan got off what "Gabby" Hartnett tells us he thinks is the best wisecrack of the season.

It popped out while the Cubs were at bat. There was a runner on third and one out, with "Hack" Wilson at bat. The Brooklyn infielders moved in. Dan Taylor shouted over to your Uncle Wilbert:

"Hey, Robbie! Do you see who's at bat? You better move back those infielders or next thing you'll have to pry one of your boys off the fence with a putty knife."

MINCES NO WORDS

As choir leader of the raucous-voiced kidders of the big leagues, we nominate Mickey Cochrane, with Dan Taylor in the role of what track handicappers call a "keen contender." His crack during the last world series cannot be forgotten.

It seems that during the game at which President and Mrs. Hoover were spectators, some very off-color language was being passed around by the players. Judge Landis heard it plainly from his box seat, figured the presidential party must be hearing it too, and told Messrs. McCarthy and Mack to have their boys be more discreet.

After the message was relayed to the players between innings, Cochrane put on his armor and went to the plate. The first Cub batsman was a little slow getting to the dish, and Mickey turned and called out in a quavering soprano voice, "Come on, girls, let's be up and doing."

GETTING GOATS

Sometimes kidding wins ball games. It was Dan Taylor's remark to Adolfo Luque, the hot-tempered Cuban, that sent Adolfo up in the air in the tenth inning of one of those hectic Cub-Dodger tilts.

Luque buzzed a fast one close to Danny's skull and Mrs. Taylor's boy shouted a few words to the Cuban that turned the back of Adolfo's neck a violent red. On the next pitch Luque, blind with rage, laid one through the middle and Danny drive in the winning run.

What di d Danny say to Adolfo? It went something like this:

"Hey, there, Luque, did anybody ever tell you you're a ? ! " * ??"

Why, the rude fellow!

Campbell, Knocked Out, Near Death

FEAR FOR LIFE OF FIGHTER IN RING CONTEST

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 26.—Frankie Campbell, heavyweight boxer who has been unconscious since he was knocked out here last night by Max Baer, has only a fighting chance to live.

Following an examination at 9 a. m., when Campbell had been unconscious for 10 hours, the three physicians in attendance announced that it was doubtful that Campbell ever would regain consciousness.

A withdrawal of Campbell's spinal fluid, physicians reported, showed that blood from the brain pan has entered the spinal column. The spinal fluid, it was reported, is badly discolored by blood.

The brain is suffused with blood clots.

Campbell Falls Unconscious

Campbell slumped to the ring, unconscious, during the fifth round of a scheduled 10-round match. Baer's right and left handed punches to his head as he sagged against the ropes in a corner and forced him to drop his hands and his knees suddenly collapsed under him.

"He is suffering from cerebral contusions," Dr. Frank Sheehy, surgeon, said tersely after a three-hour examination. "The prognosis is poor. The critical stage will continue 24 hours."

Baer, who had gone to his home in Oakland, shortly after the fight, returned here early today at the request of Captain Frederick Lemon of the police department. Lemon asked that Baer spend the remainder of the night with Ancil Hoffman, promoter of the match, at a downtown hotel so that he would be close at hand if officials wanted him.

Outcome Stuns Fans

The outcome of the contest stunned 15,123 fans who had paid $35,106.74 to see the bout and jammed Recreation park.

For more than 15 minutes Dr. Sheehy tried to bring Campbell back to consciousness while he lay in the ring. Almost forgotten was the fact that Campbell had lost his claim as the outstanding heavyweight in the far west to the youthful and comparatively inexperienced Baer.

An emergency hospital ambulance was called when those at the ringside became more apprehensive and Campbell was taken to St. Joseph's hospital.

Dr. Edmund Morrissey, brain specialist, was asked to help in the attempt to save the San Francisco boxer's life, endangered by hemorrhages in the brain.

Priest Is Summoned

Dr. Tilton Tillman, family physician, reached the hospital with close relatives of Campbell and joined the other two physicians.

A Catholic priest was summoned to administer the last sacrament of the church.

Campbell, 25 years old and a local pride, has been in the ring for five years. He had knocked out his last 13 opponents. Baer, who weighed 197 pounds, or 15 pounds more than his opponent, has only been boxing professionally for a year but in that time he has been considered as having the possibilities of Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion who started on his road to fame in the same park, and has scored 19 knockouts in 26 fights. He is 21.

Floored In First Round

In the first round Baer sent Campbell down for a nine count but the local boxer came back, apparently still strong. He smashed hard punches against Baer's jaw a half dozen times and was plainly discouraged when they failed to slow up his opponent. He held the margin in the third round.

Then in the fifth Campbell fell back against the ropes and, as many near the ringside shouted for Referee Toby Irwin to stop the contest, he collapsed.

STARS BEAT QUAKERS, 6-4, CAPTURE TITLE SERIES IN THREE SUCCESSIVE GAMES

Santa Ana's Stars today were in the green pastures of honey and plenty—the promised land of night baseball.

Undisputed champions of the National Night league as a result of their third successive triumph over Whittier, 6-4, at Whittier last night, the Stars rested on laurels honorably won after a 39-game, four-month season while their board of strategy prepared to go in executive session tonight to determine when and where they start against Colton a series for the Southern California championship.

"Absence makes the heart grow fonder," sings the terrible radio tenor—but he doesn't know the half of it.

None but the Santa Ana Stars themselves know the tremendous satisfaction derived from their return to Championland, vacated after a year of occupancy in 1928. None but the players realize the obstacles, the difficulties, the problems surmounted in this pellmell drive to the top—an offensive inspired by developments of the most interesting and unusual season in the history of after-dinner baseball.

Beat "String" Again

The Stars cinched the series by beating for the second time the lanky ace of "Rube" Ellis' pitching staff—"String" McDonnell.

It was a bitter quarrel, Whittier "shooting the works" in a desperate effort to prolong the playoffs, but in the final analysis class told. The Quakers' defense cracked wide open in the seventh and eighth innings, admitting Santa Ana's winning runs, while the hardy Stars, behind most of the way, tightened up in the late rounds and breezed in behind the amazing pitching of an amazing pitcher, "Iron Man" Joe Cornelius.

Joe Cornelius

Cornelius won his third straight game of the series and the twenty-third of the season last night.

In three games against the Quakers, Cornelius allowed a total of 14 hits, an average of less than five for each contest. He struck out 27, an average of 9. He walked two, an average of less than one.

Cornelius Finishes Fast

Whittier had him "on the spot" for awhile. Ellis' disciples were ahead in the fourth inning and again in the sixth but when the Stars took the lead again in the seventh, Cornelius closed tighter than a vise, putting a little flourish to his remarkable work by fanning five of the last six men to face him. He struck out 12 during the entire ordeal.

The Stars worked diligently for their first run which came in the third inning without the assistance of a hit. "Eeny" Wilcox walked, went to second on a passed ball, to third on Cornelius' sacrifice bunt and scored easily on Darwin Scott's sacrifice fly to Jertberg, a line drive on which Jertberg made a nice jumping catch.

Whittier equalled this with a rally which threatened for a moment to assume dangerous proportions. Rasmussen beat out a high bounder to Scott and scored all the way from first when McDonnell's grounder went between Hunter and Hill for a double. The Santa Ana outfield was playing deep for

Open Colton Series Here Friday, Plan

Santa Ana and Colton will play the first game of their Southern California night baseball championship series in the Santa Ana Bowl Friday, if tentative arrangements are approved at a meeting here tonight of team representatives and officials of the associations concerned.

Although these plans are not definitely official, tickets for reserved seats to the series opener probably will go on sale tomorrow at 8 a. m. at the El Corral service station and Baker's bakery.

"Gavvy" Cravath of Laguna Beach, president of the Southern California association; George Peterkin and Elmer Coble, presidents of the National and American leagues, and John Wilcox and Hubert Finley, Santa Ana and Colton business managers, assemble at the courthouse tonight to work out all plans for the "little world series."

M'GRAW'S CLUB FAILS TO PLAY UP TO ABILITY

BY DAVIS J. WALSH
(I. N. S. Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—Word is being bandied about today that Jewel Ens, who became manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates last year before his presence of mind could come to the rescue, may finish on the shady side of the eight-ball as far as the 1931 season is concerned, which reminds me that the Giants are back home with John McGraw after their collapse in Chicago. In order to keep the record straight, the Giants alone collapsed in Chicago. Mr. McGraw was exclusive. He did his collapsing here.

Anyhow, it is not my purpose to compare Mr. McGraw with Jewel Ens, who after all never suspected he was a manager until Barney Dreyfuss told him he was; yet the fact is that Ens will do no worse than fourth with a four-place club—considering its sundry injuries — whereas Mr. McGraw seems about to finish second with the best team in the National league, if not in all baseball.

McGraw's Interlude

I wouldn't care to say that the parade, so to speak, has passed Mr. McGraw. He has won no pennants in six years but he hasn't lost this one yet and, besides, it has always been a principle with me to make sure that a man is down before you kick him.

Assuming that the Cubs will win this time—and, after all, one is entitled to assume something for a team that wins six out of eight from the two clubs it has to beat

TON OF BOXERS ON FOUST CARD HERE THURSDAY

Always striving to strike a popular chord with fighting fandom, Promoter H. T. Foust of the Orange County Athletic club does another "unusual" this week when he sends to the post more than a ton of boxers.

Thursday night's program will consist of seven bouts having a grand total of 34 rounds. None but heavyweights, middleweights and welterweights are on the card.

Promoter Foust originally intended to use Romeo Lemon against Johnny DeCorsey in a main event that would have been Lemon's first match at Delhi this year but Foust scratched the affair when the fans failed to enthuse over the prospects.

Instead Foust brings on a program that fairly teems with color, especially as to nationality. White, black, brown and red men are among the participants. Some of them are new faces, some old.

Jack Haywood and Vic Pertley, 200-pounders, meet in the windup. Frank Rudzinski and Leroy Haynes, 190-pounders, collide in the semi-final, and Bert Smith and "Red Feather" Cadena have it in the special event. Smith and Cadena, 150-pounders, are the lightest men on the card, Haywood and Pertley the heaviest.

The rest of the lineup is "Wild Man" O'Hannigan vs. Benny Stinson, 155 pounds; Jack Dunseith vs. Glen Thompson, 175 pounds; Max Hernandez vs. John Todd, 160 pounds; Getsell Hood vs. Eddie Reinhart.

Foust believes the O'Hannigan match will steal the whole show. The Irish boy is said to be funnier than "Red" Millet or Melvin Bobo.

The promoter is using all the "beeg strong fellers" in an effort to qualify an opponent for "Dynamite" Jackson who is signed to show at Delhi in September. Foust also announces he has arranged to bring here next month Santiago Zorrilla and Tim Charles, both nationally ranked fighters.

AMERICAN AND BRITISH TRACK STARS GATHER

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—(INS)—Chicago received as its guests today the cream of track and field athletes of both the United States and the British empire.

Both squads, comprising the greatest group of stars which has been brought together in America, were to arrive here for the British-American track and field meet at Soldier field tomorrow night.

The United States team, 66

strong, chosen after Saturday's tests in the National A. A. U. meet at Pittsburgh, will arrive an hour before the British squad and will greet the empire squad when it detrains from Hamilton, Ont., Lord Burghley captains the British squad.

A day of entertainment, arranged by various Chicago civic organizations lay before the visiting athletes with a parade to their hotel.

Knute Rockne, football mentor of Notre Dame university, will be the principal speaker at a noon luncheon attended by Governor Louis Emmerson, Hon. Godfrey Haggard, British consul general in Chicago and Baron Latour, president of the International Amateur federation.

PIPING 'EM OFF

Wayne Nelson's injured shoulder was troubling the star outfielder and he was unable to take his usual station so Leavitt Daley was shifted from second base to patrol the important "beat" in center field, Darwin Scott breaking into the lineup again at second base. Both men attended to their chores brilliantly.

Joe Cornelius has won 23 games and lost 3 this season for an average of .885. The more the big fellow pitches the better he goes, always a good sign in a moundsman. He is very popular with the fans.

Tom Denney and "Red" Moon were "little cousins" to Cornelius and Randolph Bell a close relation to McDonnell during the series. Although these hitters are ordinarily dangerous, Bell fanned seven times and Denney and Moon expired six times. Bell and Moon both whiffed four times last night.

Catching as much as pitching decided the playoffs. "Eeny" Wilcox was so much better behind the bat than Ted Rasmussen there was hardly any comparison. Wilcox caught even more brilliantly than ever whereas poor Rasmussen got worse and worse. He let so many pitches go through him, "String" McDonnell finally lost his temper.

"Gavvy" Cravath, president of the Southern California Night Baseball association, was at the game. So was George W. Peterkin, prexy of the National Night league. Interested spectators, too, were Hubert Finley and Venn Botts, manager and ace pitcher, respectively, of the Colton Reds, next opponent for Santa Ana's Stars.

Umpire W. B. Wentz had a tough time at first base. The finest arbiter behind the bat in the lunar racket, Wentz booted three or four chances on the bases. He doesn't "kick" many, however, so the fans and players are inclined to pass up his few miscues. Wentz and "Shorty" Smith outclass the other guessers in the National Night league and should work the Southern California league games along with two officials from the American league.

McDonnell and Johns both went after "Rosy" Merrill's pop fly in the eighth inning, then let it fall through their gloves. That was a case where there were too many cooks.

Merrill is what is known as a "money player." The Rose has the exterior attitude of an old time professional ball player, taking good and bad as it happens to come along with the same nonchalance, but always goes better in the clinches. His double, with two on and two out, put the Stars back in the ball game last night. Teammates and opponents all agree that Merrill is the toughest man on the club to face in a pinch.

Bill Hunter is finding the eye that made him a much feared batsman with the champion Riverside team last summer. He hit the ball hard three times, twice safely. Hunter got a slow start because he had confined his playing to city league ball here and had not been looking at good pitching.

Scott also looks like the old Scott up there at the dish. Although he didn't get a hit, the little fellow smacked the ball right on the nose four times. His sacrifice fly to Jertberg missed being a home run by inches. It was a line drive that "Jerty" pulled down on the ends of his fingertips.

SHOOTING with SHUTE

by DENNY SHUTE

A problem among many golfers, particularly those of the duffer class, is relaxation. They understand that the word means the remission of tension, but they seem to have trouble in finding that spot at which they are relaxed but retain firm control of their movements.

One can be free of stiffness or locked joints and still maintain firmness. Firmness allows a freedom of motion that is not to be found when tension or strain is on any particular section.

I have seen golfers who thought they had to relax to the extent that they were inclined to collapse. The result is that their swings are punchless.

True, gripping the club too tightly is an evil, but good shots do not come from a flabby grip. There must be a firm grip that still permits the flexibility in the wrists.

With regard to the hands, the club can be firmly held and in complete control by just four fingers, the third and fourth on the left hand and the thumb and forefinger of the right hand. And the flexibility remains in the wrists.

Late News From Orange And Nearby Towns

ORANGE, Aug. 26.—With the return of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Huscroft to Orange this week from Hollywood, residents of Orange were reminded of the remarkable model house that Huscroft made from cigar boxes and presented to his brother, W. A. Huscroft, real estate broker, at 119 West Chapman avenue.

J. A. Huscroft has a hobby of fashioning toys, models and various objects from wood and has achieved some very intricate and wonderful pieces of work. He is moving to Orange in a few days and will live at 229 North Glassell avenue. The house is now being remodeled.

The model house is two stories in height and measures 24 inches high and 20 inches square. Every piece of wood in the building is from cigar boxes and was fashioned with only a knife. On the many-angled roof is a cupola with a railing and pole on it. There are 30 windows and doors, each having 30 small holes carved in it. The effect is further carried out with tinfoil in the windows to look like glass with the sun on them.

The carving on the railings, windows and gables is very painstaking. There are over 1250 small opening, designs and grillwork on the house, all cut out with a knife. A large veranda runs around three sides of the house and a slat fence surrounds the yard. The model is mounted on a square foundation. There stairways mount to the porches. Very few nails were used in the structure, glue being the main medium of connection.

The house is painted white with brown trimmings. Every detail is in its regular place and even the smallest accessories are to be found. The model was given to W. A. Huscroft three years ago for a Christmas present and it was placed in the windows of his office for some time.

TRANSFERRING OF LIGHTS IS STARTED TODAY

ORANGE, Aug. 26.—Work will start at once on the replacing and transferring of street light fixtures in various parts of Orange, it was learned today from C. C. Bonebrake, city engineer and street superintendent.

Some time ago, when the round globes on the standards in the plaza were replaced, the old globes were stored away. Having been authorized by the city council to change the globes in any manner he cared to, Bonebrake announced that the round lights from the old plaza standards will be put into service from the plaza to the railroad tracks on West Chapman avenue and the lights now in use on that street will be used for replacements over the eastern end of the city.

Bonebrake pointed out that the round globes are very similar to the General Electric fixtures now in use on North Orange street. The crew will start changing the lights this week.

Another step in the lighting system of Orange will be started when Bonebrake arranges an interview with Edison company officials relative to placing 17 new street lights on West Chapman boulevard from the Santa Ana boulevard to Orana. Lights are now on one side of the street and the new fixtures will be staggered on the other side. The lights will be of the overhead mast type with 250 candlepower globes. Arrangements are expected to be completed in a few days.

CHECK PASSER IS SOUGHT BY ORANGE POLICE

ORANGE, Aug. 26.—Police of Orange were searching today for a young man who appeared in Orange Sunday evening, cashed three worthless checks, tried to cash two more and then disappeared in a light sedan.

The three checks aggregated $15 and were all cashed in drug stores. Muellers, Harms and Dittmer's accepted the checks for $4.65 in payment for small articles but at Watson's and Simon's, the man was refused when he could produce no identification.

At the Watson store, Kellar Watson waited on the man, who bought castor oil and blackberry cordial. He signed the check George Woods but had an address on North Almond, which runs east and west. At all the stores, he used either the name Woods or Stoner while the checks were on the Bank of Italy, Orange branch.

The man was described as about 26 years of age, five feet seven inches tall, 150 pounds in weight and medium stature. He wore no coat, hat or tie and had a light shirt.

$300 FINE FOR MAN ACCUSED OF SELLING BOOZE

ORANGE, Aug. 26.—After being arrested Saturday afternoon at his service station at the intersection of Placentia avenue and the state highway for possession of intoxicating liquor, W. J. Meyer was brought before Justice of the Peace George Ingle yesterday and fined $300, after pleading guilty to the charge.

Meyer had plastered "Jernigan for Sheriff" signs over the building but this did not stop Chief Criminal Deputy Sheriff F. W. Howard and Deputies F. L. Humiston, Jess Buckles and Harry Carter from raiding the establishment. They found 20 pints of intoxicating liquor and a number of empty bottles in the service station, it was declared.

When brought before Ingle, Meyer was given the choice of a $300 fine or 300 days in jail. He chose the fine and promised to have the money on hand this morning. Carter appeared in court against him. It was said by Carter that Meyer was one of the largest distributors of alcohol in the northern section of Orange county.

BAKERY USES 2000 POUNDS FLOUR WEEKLY

ORANGE, Aug. 26.—It would take one hen over 20 months, if it layed one egg each day, to supply the eggs used in just one week at the bakery of the Alpha Beta store No. 10 at 118 East Chapman street.

And not only that, but quite a few heads of wheat are necessary to make the 2000 pounds of flour used weekly in bread, cake and other bakery products. Furthermore, 300 pounds of sugar came from a goodly number of sugar beets and one or two cows would have to work overtime to produce the 40 pounds of milk necessary.

In a small sunny room far back in the store, Kenneth Huston, Hooker Housley and Oran Asa tend to the big oven, mix doughs and batters and mold the loaves of bread. Their deft hands make short work of the heavy dough. Everything is accurately weighed before baking and the temperature of the oven is watched continually.

The dough is first allowed to rise in 80 degrees of heat. Cookies are baked at only 300 degrees, cakes take around 375 or 400 degrees and bread requires a mere 450 degrees. The pans are revolved in the oven on swinging trays resembling a miniature ferris wheel, which insures even baking and heat.

Besides the 2000 pounds of flour, 300 pounds of sugar and 40 gallons of milk each week, the bakery consumes 50 pounds of yeast, 25 pounds of raisins, 200 pounds of lard, 150 pounds of powdered sugar and $25 of gas for the oven.

About 500 loaves of bread are baked every day and 15 dozen buns. In a week's time, the bakery turns out over 1800 cookies, 300 pies, 100 chicken pies and a large number of cinnamon rolls. Parker house rolls and other forms of pastry.

A large mixer, resembling a cement mixer, is used to prepare the bread dough. Large curved arms revolve in the tub and mix the dough thoroughly. Another smaller machine is used for cake and pie doughs, being made to hold different types of mixers.

then they tried PARFAY

"Never before," they agree, "a cooking fat like this new-type BLENDED shortening!" . . . . . .

WE went to them to talk about shortening. Ten men and women, famous for their cooking skill! Gathered together, in a state famous for fine eating, to discuss the perfect shortening.

"Would it be possible," they asked, "to give the modern housewife an altogether modern product—to combine in one shortening all the special merits of every cooking fat she's ever tried?"

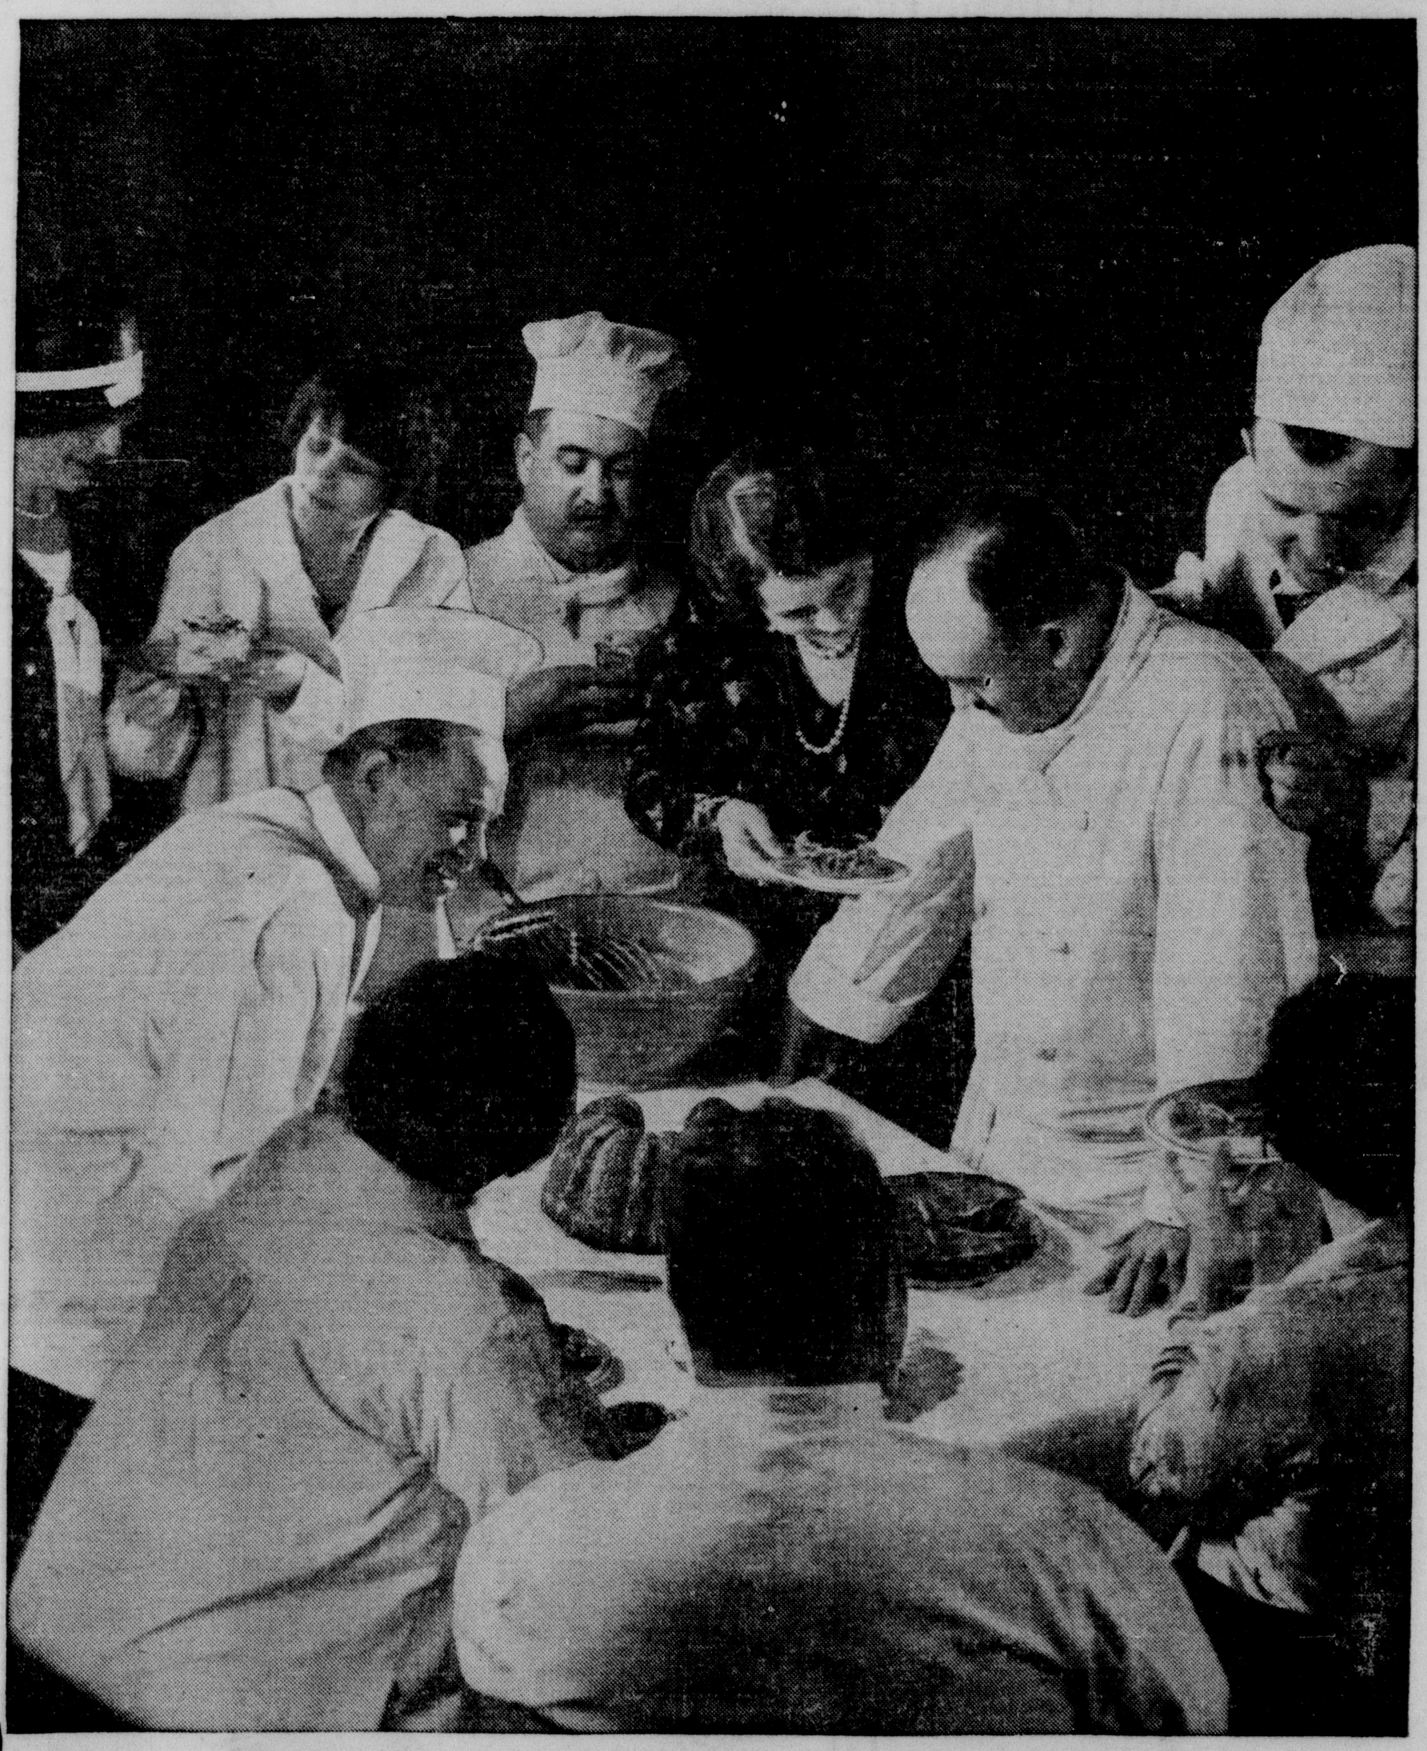

They listed their points—and all ten agreed on the qualities they wanted. Qualities you'd probably specify yourself. Yet no single shortening had ever possessed them all.

Then—Parfay was perfected! The new-type blended shortening, a product made in California to be passed upon by California experts!

They tested it in every conceivable fashion. They fried with it and mixed with it and baked with it. On every one of their points, Parfay scored beyond their hopes!

It creamed into sugar with a helpful spirit that turned cake making joyful. Dough slipped from the rolling pin in happy exuberance. Biscuits were marvels of fluffy tenderness. Doughnuts, fat circles with hunched brown shoulders, crisp and crunchy. Whatever they used Parfay for was irresistible. "Here, at last," they agreed, "is the ideal shortening!"

Parfay bears the Swift's Premium Quality Seal—the symbol of highest excellence and unvarying uniformity in food quality.

They all acclaim Parfay—these famous California cooking authorities! Belle de Graf, Maude D. Evans, Mildred Kitchen, and Prudence Penny, of Home Economics and newspaper fame; Mary K. Solari of Solari's, and Meyer of the Mark Hopkins; Iberti of the Hotel Oakland; Gregorio of Victor Hugo's, Ehlers of the Roosevelt, and Bassetti of the Ambassador.

Note the new convenience of Parfay's size and shape. A long and slim pound package which slips easily anywhere in the ice box. So easy to handle, and to cut from! Look for Parfay at your grocer's.

Now all these virtues in a single shortening

Everything these authorities had mentioned . . . advantages never before combined in a single shortening . . . are in Parfay:

- Its snow white purity comes triumphant through comparisons with all other cooking fats. Its utter absence of flavor gives other ingredients full play. Parfay retains its fresh neutrality—it keeps indefinitely, always sweet.
- Parfay creams and mixes so quickly and easily. It saves time and effort and gives cakes and cookies particular lightness and fine texture.
- Because Parfay heats to an intense degree, you have no odor and no smoke discomfort. Fried foods come out of the kettle crisp, greaseless and digestible.
- The springy quality of its dough gives you back old-fashioned flaky pastry. The pie crust most husbands are a little sentimental about.
- Parfay's slender blue and white container is wonderfully convenient in the ice box.

"Never before," says this exacting group of experts, "never before has there been such a shortening! Parfay has every quality we asked."

Because we're certain you'll feel that way, too, we've told your dealer to refund Parfay's purchase price if anyone tried it and isn't delighted. Buy Parfay today. Then see for yourself what results you get!

SET $1.82 AS LEVY ON EACH $100 IN VALUE

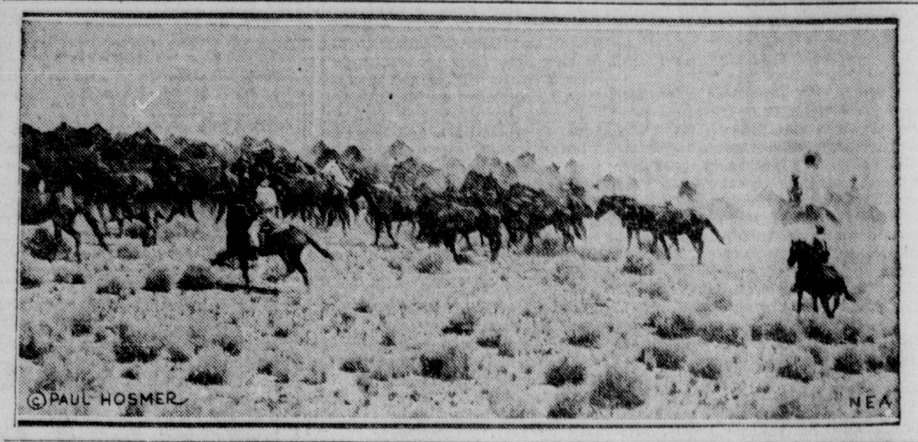

The city council at its regular meeting last night fixed the city's tax rate at $1.82 for each $100 of assessed valuation. This new rate for the current fiscal year is 11 cents less than the rate charged last year, set at $1.93. Included in last year's tax rate was four cents for the city's contribution toward the support of the Metropolitan Water district.

The tax rate for this year is distributed as follows: General expenses, including maintenance of the water, street and fire departments, $1.25; advertising four cents; parks 2.5 cents; city planning commission 0.5 cent; music four cents; library 14 cents; sewers two cents; interest and sinking fund 30 cents.

Because of an existing surplus in the city's water fund, it was decided to eliminate a proposed three-cent tax for support of the Metropolitan Water district, and take the amount, $6,683.82 assessed against Santa Ana as its share towards maintenance of the organization, from the water fund. But for the surplus in the water fund, the tax rate this year would have been $1.85, it was explained.

LAST BIG WILD HORSE ROUNDUP

The last big wild horse roundup, in which more than 500 were moved from the Oregon-Nevada line to Bend, Ore., across the Central Oregon desert, was accomplished with loss of but 11 horses—but kept the cowboys in the saddle 22 hours a day in keeping the wild stock together, averting stampedes and reaching water every second day. The horses were shipped by train from Bend to a Portland cannery. Photo shows the drive progressing across the desert.

CHURCH HONORS MISSIONARIES ON DEPARTURE

Following the sermon at the First Congregational church Sunday morning there was a service in connection with the departure of three young women, one a Santa Ana girl, who are going to Mexico as teachers in Congregational schools. It was a recognition ceremony, based on the work of the three teachers.

The sermon, given by the Rev. Perry F. Schrock, was on the subject "Building" and the texts were "You are a building which has been reared on the foundation of the Apostles and Prophets, the cornerstone being Christ Jesus Himself. You are being built up together to become a fixed abode for God through the Spirit," Eph. 2:20-22, and "In discharge of the task which God graciously entrusted to me, I—like a competent master builder—have laid a foundation, and others are building upon it," I Cor. 3:10. The special solo was also in the same theme, being "The Builder" a composition of Charles Wakefield Cadman, sung by Maurice Phillips.

The charge to the young women, Miss Virginia Powell of Santa Ana, Miss Catherine Poppleton of Portland, Ore., and Miss Bonnie Korns of San Gabriel, was delivered by Mrs. E. B. Allen, president of the Congregational Women's Missionary society of Southern California, second assistant moderator of the Southern California Congregational conference and member of the conference commission on Mexican missions.

The sermon and charge both emphasized that teaching is building; that the temple of God in humanity must be built; that God must live through human lives; that Mexico must learn how to overcome ignorance, superstition and poverty in order to be included in the temple of God; and that the Congregational church stands back of its schools and teachers.

Miss Powell, a graduate of the University of California at Berkeley, is going to Hermosillo; Miss Korns, who graduated from the University of Southern California, is going to Mazatlan; and the destination of Miss Poppleton, who graduated from the University of Oregon, is to go to Guadalajara. A welcome to the work in Mexico was extended to the three young women by A. B. Crawford, superintendent of mission work in Pomona valley, who said that the government of Mexico was making a great effort to extend educational facilities.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Vredenburgh, and son Robert, also were present at the service. They are en route to Guadalajara, where Mr. Vredenburgh, formerly a member of the faculty of the University of Nebraska, will take charge of the boys' school conducted by the Congregational church.

ON DREAM SHIP

LEGION LEADER SAYS FILIPINO REAL PROBLEM

Unrestricted immigration of Filipinos and its effect upon the economic, social and political life of California, is a question that should have the earnest thought of every citizen of California, according to Dr. Ralph S. Roberts, of Descanso, San Diego county, commander of the fifth area of the California department of American Legion, comprising the counties of Orange, Riverside, San Bernardino, Imperial and San Diego.

Because of the importance of this question, it was one of the main topics at the state convention held last week at Sacramento, he added. Dr. Roberts conferred today with local Legion officials on matters relating to organization activities.

Dr. Roberts expressed his satisfaction over the fact that Long Beach had been chosen as the convention city for the 1931 state meet. He also voiced approval of the consolidation of the various veteran welfare agencies in Washington, which step, he thought, would lead to more expeditious handling of veteran claims.

DEFER ACTION ON REGULATION OF CITY TAXIS

Two important measures, one regulating the operation of local taxi cabs in respect to competition with the bus company, and the other prescribing opening and closing hours for barber shops in the city, were discussed last night at the regular meeting of the city council.

The taxi situation was discussed earlier in the day at a conference held at the city hall, attended by C. H. Eckles, of Whittier, owner of the Santa Ana Bus company; representatives of the local taxi concerns and their counsel, Attorney Horace C. Head, and Earl R. Ruddy, secretary-manager of the Business Men's association.

The taxi concerns presented a petition, signed by about 400 residents, to the effect that they were dependent upon the type of transportation furnished by the taxi companies.

The greater portion of the conference was given over to the discussion of the provisions of a tentative ordinance submitted by City Attorney Charles D. Swanner. It was brought out that there is a need for both services and that any proposed regulation should be fair and just to all concerned. Stress was laid on the fact that the bus lines are covering a comparatively small portion of the city, and that the greater part is being served by the taxi companies.

Mayor Frank L. Purinton said that the bus company is handling one class of people and that the taxi concerns are carrying an entirely different class, hence the need of both services. He accentuated the point that whatever regulations were agreed upon should be made with a view more to serve the needs of the people than to protect the interests of the transportation concerns.

Following some further discussion, it was decided to postpone action on the ordinance for another week. In the meantime it was suggested that the taxi concerns study the provisions of the tentative ordinance drafted by City Attorney Swanner, and submit such changes as they think are necessary to enable them to operate at a fair profit.

Eckles, owner of the bus company, made the point that the taxi companies should be compelled to operate on the principle of individual service, serving and completing a call before another passenger is picked up. Replying to the objection that his lines do not cover the entire city, he intimated that he would be willing to supplement his bus service with a local taxi service.

No action was taken on a proposed ordinance to regulate the opening and closing hours of barber shops. Attorney D. G. Wettlin appeared before the council, representing the petitioners for the ordinance. City Attorney Swanner, representing the city, filed an adverse report, pointing out that legislation of this kind has been held to be unconstitutional in other states. Attorney Wettlin countered with a proposal that the city enact the ordinance and then have it taken to the courts for a test case, the petitioners to pay all costs.

Attorney Reeves Aylmore, speaking for the independent barbers in the city, opposed the proposed measure and denounced it as unconstitutional. This sort of legislation, the speaker declared, would discourage industries from coming here, in which connection he made reference to the Pittsburgh Plate Glass company. Further consideration of the project was postponed until all members of the council were present.

LATE REQUEST FOR PARK USE TURNED DOWN

Parties desiring to use Birch park for meeting or gatherings, including the listening to radio programs broadcast from out-of-town stations, should file proper applications with the city clerk in time enough to be acted upon by the council, was the advice given Charles Havens, local resident, who last night appeared before the city council with a request for use of the park in connection with campaign activities.

Havens told the council that he and other supporters of Buron Fitts for governor desired to make use of the park and the loud speakers installed there to listen in on an address scheduled to be given by the Rev. "Bob" Shuler on behalf of Fitts. Haven's request was received too late to be acted upon.

FINDS CAR ORDER AFTER 16 YEARS

DALLAS, Texas, Aug. 26.—(INS)—With a 16-year-old order in his possession, a Dallas automobile distributor is attempting to deliver a carload of 1931 automobiles on an order calling for an equal number of machines of the vintage of 1914.

The order has been lost in the mails all these years, and was delivered to the addressee only after an antiquated mail car had been sent to the wrecking house, where the letter was found in some hidden cranny.

Since the time the letter was mailed the original name of the addressee had been changed, but it found its way to him nevertheless. He immediately set about getting in contact with the firm which ordered the cars, in an attempt to deliver a flock of much newer models.

Two Persons Hurt In Auto Accident

Two persons were injured at Chestnut and Main streets at 1:15 o'clock yesterday afternoon when cars driven by Dona Peterson, of San Juan Capistrano, and Julian Klein, 812 Ramona street, San Gabriel, collided.

Mrs. R. J. Hackett, a passenger in the Klein machine, and Miss Peterson were cut and bruised, according to a report made to the police department.

Locate Paintings Hidden In Church

LEIPZIG, Aug. 26.—(INS)—During work preliminary to the restoration of the Romanesque St. Kunigunde church in Borna, which dates from the twelfth century, a number of mural paintings dating from the thirteenth century have been disclosed under the plaster covering the walls. The largest represents St. Christopher carrying the Child Jesus over a river. Other pictures are of the Virgin, the Crucifixion, a head of Christ and three saints.

BREAKFASTERS PLAN INFORMAL CEREMONIES

Breakfast club members and their friends will be given a treat Thursday morning at St. Ann's inn according to Bruce Switzler, general program chairman.

The meeting will be strictly an impromptu affair, members being called upon to entertain. There will be violin, banjo, piano and solo numbers with one number being a secret. One member is going to play an instrument that is over 40 years old.

Election results will be announced. B. Z. McKinney, president, urged a big attendance, as something of real importance will be announced, he said. The meeting will begin promptly at 7:30 a. m.

IRATE WIFE RAIDS PASTOR'S CHURCH

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 26.—(INS)—Because the Rev. Carl Walker, evangelist, revivalist and faith-healer, demurred at paying alimony his tabernacle, an improvised affair resembling a barn, is as bare as the innards of a bass drum.

Convinced that the Rev. Walker was sincere in his refusal to support her, Mrs. Walker, armed with a screwdriver, raided the tabernacle and removed from it the furnishings and sundry other articles.

Besides the furniture in the living quarters of the tabernacle, a xylophone, two pianos, a motion picture projector and about 200 folding chairs were taken by the enraged Mrs. Walker.

Mrs. Walker brought suit for divorce June 10 and was awarded temporary alimony of $50 a week. She charged that the Rev. Walker drank liquor, was cruel to her and associated with other women.

WATERMELONS SAVE LIFE OF PIONEER

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—(INS)—A book, and maybe watermelons, too, saved the life of one of Iowa's early settlers, according to records in the war department files.

The pioneer, it appeared from the records, was captured by Indians back in 1840, and their idea was to kill this strange paleface.

The settler, however, was unperturbed, and when an exhibition of seeds failed to divert the Indians' thoughts, he calmly picked up a book and started reading.

Occasional bursts of hearty laughter from the paleface as he read his volume mystified the superstitious Indians; they judged the man demented and left him severely alone.

Whatever lingering doubts they might have had on the question of allowing the white man to live were set definitely at rest some months later when he treated them to their first watermelon feast, grown from the seeds he brought with him into the west.

NOVEL APARTMENT BUILDING PLANNED

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—(INS)—If the plans of a Chicago building syndicate are realized, Chicago within a year will be able to boast of the first all-metal and glass apartment house in the world.

Glass and aluminum will be used for the exterior, according to the blueprints, and floors are to be of steel. Designed for 17 families, the structure will be 17 stories in height. It is to be located on the exclusive "gold coast."

The walls of the proposed building will be only 3 1-2 inches thick, whereas the usual stone and brick walls are about a foot thick. Narrow walls and floors will effect a saving of about 20 per cent in construction cost, according to the architects.

Electric heat will be provided in the apartments, and a ventilating system will guarantee a complete change of air every hour.

Bridge Luncheon Is Given Yesterday For Eastern Visitor

A charming party of yesterday was that honoring Mrs. John Wehrly, of Chicago, who is the guest of her sister, Mrs. A. L. Seward, 732 Eastwood avenue, when Mrs. J. W. Murphy, 915 Minter, entertained with a bridge luncheon, choosing as the setting Ketner's Blue room.

An abundance of lavender asters and brilliant yellow blossoms decked the tables and served as the first introduction of the delicate color scheme which was to be used throughout the luncheon. Tapers and holders continued in the motif, as did the nutcups and the attractive little place cards.

Following the luncheon, the bridge was played and results of the afternoon's diversion showed that Mrs. Nick Brock was eligible for first prize, Mrs. Robert Sandon, second, and Mrs. A. L. Steward, low. Awards were lovely pieces of crystal ware. Special guest gifts were given the honoree, Mrs. John Wehrly, and Mrs. C. A. Bennett, of Los Angeles.

Those sharing the pleasant afternoon with Mrs. J. P. Murphy, the hostess, and the honoree, Mrs. John Wehrly, were Mesdames A. L Stewart, C. A. Bennett, William Strain, Clyde Ashen, Robert Sandon, Nick Brock, Urbin Engleman, Clyde Taylor, Ernest Fosskuhler, Mary Dierker and Roy Heim.

Little Church of Ferns Is Setting For Recent Beautiful Wedding

The "Little Church of the Ferns," near Paso Robles, the interior of which was massed with ferns, roses, asters and lilies formed a perfect setting for the wedding of Miss Frieda Helen Claassen to Carlton C. Buck at 4:30 o'clock recently.

At the first sweet strains of the wedding march the bride and bridegroom and their attendants, entered and took their places under an arch of white ribbon and mountain fern. The bride, who is a very charming brunette, was clad in a gown of white satin and lace fashioned on long simple lines, and wore a filmy veil held in place with a wreath of orange blossoms.

Miss Ella Claassen, sister of the bride, as maid of honor, wore peach colored georgette and carried a bouquet of sweet peas. Little Edith Claassen as flower girl, wore a pink silk crepe dress. Mr. Everett Pearce, of this city, served Mr. Buck as best man.

Preceding the impressive ring ceremony, which was read by Rev. G. E. Jantzen, Miss Alice Jensen and Miss Gertrude Claassen, cousins of the bride, sang "Sweeter Day by Day." They were accompanied by Mrs. Lna Claassen, aunt of the bride, who also played the wedding march. With the masses of pastel-tinted flowers and mountain ferns, as the background an elaborate banquet was served to 250 guests. The newly wedded couple left immediately after the banquet for a motor trip to the Yosemite. Mrs. Buck traveled in a smart outfit of the new shade of tan. Returning after September 10, Mr. and Mrs. Buck will be at home at Maywood, Calif., where Mr. Buck is engaged in musical work.

Mrs. Buck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Claassen, Paso Robles, graduated with honors at the Paso Robles high school in 1928 and for the past two years attended Bible Institute of Los Angeles where she graduated this year after completing the general course of that institution. The MIXING BOWL by ANN MEREDITH

Eat Enough Vitamines and Enjoy Health

An amusing thought is this: Twenty-five years ago women "enjoyed poor health." And I mean enjoyed, when I write the word. Poor health was the burning subject in gatherings of women. But can we blame the poor things?

Their diet was pretty bad . . . too many sweets and starchy foods . . . the order of the Saturday Night Bath didn't do much for skin elimination . . . and tight corseting added to the misery of organic troubles. Today, we think the woman who loves to talk about her "last operation" just a little bit balmy.

It isn't good form to be sick any more, and it isn't necessary if a little care is given to diet and common sense health care. Get enough vitamines and high-residue foods first, and whatever space is left for cake and candy you are entitled to.

High-residue foods?

That is just another term for fruits, vegetables and cereals eaten as far as possible in their natural state, thus supplying a loose mass of bulky food low in fat forming elements.

Spinach, cabbage, green beans, lettuce, celery, etc., are in this class. Practically all fruits with the exception of bananas and grapes belong here. And all the flours carrying a high percentage of brans.

TODAY'S RECIPE

PINEAPPLE-CHEESE SALAD

1 cup crushed pineapple.
4 tablespoons sugar.
Juice of 1 1-2 lemons.
2 tablespoons gelatine.
1-2 cup cold water.
1-3 teaspoon salt.
1 cup grated cheese.
2 egg whites, beaten dry.
1 cup heavy cream, whipped stiff.

I have been intending to republish this salad recipe for months, but could not find it until today. I would advise lovers of unusual salads to cut out and save the recipe. It is the finest I have ever used.

Heat the pineapple and sugar. Soften the gelatine in cold water, add to the hot pineapple and stir until dissolved. Remove from the fire and cool. When the mixture is half jellied, whip in the lemon juice and the cup of grated cheese.

Beat the egg whites very stiff—so a knife will cut them—and fold them into the pineapple mixture with a beating motion. This part of the operation must leave the mixture spongy, you see. Put back into the ice box while the iced cream is being whipped, add salt to it, and fold smoothly through the jellied mixture.

Set it in a ring mould (rinsed first in cold water). To serve: Turn onto a lettuce garnished plate and serve with a bowl of mayonnaise mixed with finely chopped green pepper and canned pimento, a little of each, and make the mayonnaise acid with lemon juice.

This can be the important dish for a Sunday night supper, or served in tiny individual moulds, it is perfect for a luncheon menu.

The recipe makes eight portions, the calories total 1800. The individual calory total plus 2 tablespoons of mayonnaise, is 425. Most of the calories are energy and fat-makers . . . no place for a fat lady, I would say!

'THE DAWN PATROL' MAKES BIG HIT

Following close on the heels of such successes as "Weary River," "Drag," "Young Nowheres" and "Son of the Gods," the newest Barthelmess proruction is due to create a sensation and larger fan following than anything he has heretofore done. "The Dawn Patrol" teems with dramatic situations, action, and human interest. It tells the story of a group of young flyers in the early years of the World war. War is not its theme—it serves merely as the background against which star and director and author have painted a vivid picture of the soul-struggle of fighting men who soar above the clouds, face the enemy against great odds and in it finds something greater than war to make a sacrifice for.

"The Dawn Patrol" was written originally as a screen story by John Monk Saunders, author of "Wings" and other motion picture stories. It was directed by Howard Hawks, brother of the ill-fated Kenneth and himself a licensed pilot. The cast supporting Barthelmess is of superlative caliber including such names as Douglas Fairbanks jr., Neil Hamilton, Gardner James, Clyde Cook, James Finlayson, William Janney and others.

DOUBLE BILL CLOSES AT WALKER STATE

The double feature program closing tonight at Walker's State is one of the best.

Warner Bros. did well in selecting "Hearts in Exile" for the fair Dolores Costello. It is the first time she has appeared in the role of a Russian peasant girl and her performance proves that she is one of the most versatile of screen actresses. The picture is an exciting story of love and heartbreak, laid in the midst of the peasantly of Moscow and the great icy wastes of the Siberian prison camps.

'ANYBODY'S WOMAN' ATTRACTS CROWDS

"Anybody's Woman," starring Ruth Chatterton and Clive Brook, is the current attraction at the Fox West Coast theater. The picture opened there Monday and shows through tomorrow night.

Ruth Chatterton plays a more diversified part in "Anybody's Woman" than in any picture in which she has ever been seen here. While on a drunken party she marries Clive Brook, who plays the part of a big attorney. The next morning, he does not remember the wedding.

How she has in the past been "anybody's woman," but how she makes the man she marries love her and fight for her, are highlights of the production. Her part is particularly adapted to her style of acting and she will be liked by her many admirers for this picture even more than in "Sarah and Son" and some of her other pictures.

The plot, by Gouvernor Morris, is particularly interesting and entertaining throughout.

THE TINYMITES

STORY by HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES by KING

The Tinies spent most of the day in helping stack big loads of hay. When night time came the Travel Man said, "Say, I have a plan. Instead of back in our hotel, I think it really would be swell to sleep up in the hay stack. I feel fairly sure we can."

Of course the peasant said, "Why, sure! There's room enough for all. Just climb us there, high off the ground. I hope you all sleep good and sound. Then, when the sun comes up at dawn, I'll give you all a call."

The Travel Man said, "Thank you much! And I'll make sure the lads don't touch a single thing in your big barn. I know they'll all mind me." The driver of their big machine smiled broadly and he seemed real keen when he was asked to join them. "Sure!" he shouted. "That suits me!"

So, up into the hay they went, with every single one intent on getting heaps and heaps of sleep, so they would all feel great. The Travel Man said, "You all know that rest makes little fellows grow. Let's drift right into slumberland. It's getting pretty late."

At dawn they all were up again. They had a dandy breakfast. Then they started back to Athens in their rented touring car. At noon they jumped out to the ground to walk some more and look around. Poor Clowny said, "Let's walk real slow. I can't go very fast."

While strolling down one small side street, who should the Tinies chance to meet but quite a strange old vendor who sold baskets, big and small. He led a mule that trudged along. Said Clowny, "Gee, that mule is strong. The baskets are piled on its back and it doesn't care at all."

Missing Letter Links

RULES

1. In playing golf on the Missing Letter Links the object is to change one word to another in a given number of strokes which is par. For example, to go from TEE to PIN in three strokes sounds hard but isn't: TEE, TIE, PIE, PIN. It's probably more difficult on a real course.

2. Change but one letter at a time and be sure the word you have used is one in good usage.

3. The order of the letters cannot be changed.

CALM to REST—This hole isn't so nerve-wrecking that you'll need a CALM REST following it. However, it does require five careful strokes.

Late News From Orange County Communities

ENVIRONMENT IS BLAMED FOR CROWDED CELLS

ANAHEIM, Aug. 26.—Declaring that environment is the cause of the larger portion of the inmates of state institutions being there and urging communities to take more notice of their problems, Dr. Norman Fenton, director of the California Bureau of Juvenile Research, gave an address before the Anaheim Rotary club yesterday.

State penal institutions and insane asylums in 20 years from now will be inhabited by youths of today, declared Dr. Fenton, and whether the population of these institutions increases or decreases depends on how much children are helped at home and in their own community before they reach the gates of corrective institutions, he said. He pointed out that co-operation between parents, physicians and teachers, is essential if this great sociological problem is to be solved.

Another guest was Verne Landreth, director of physical education at Whittier college, who is engaged in making a survey of the recreational facilities of the state and the part they are playing in the problem of making good citizens of children.

Next Monday being a holiday there will be no meeting of the Rotary club but on Tuesday the club will visit Santa Ana Rotary.

FRANK C. JORDAN,
Secretary of State.

FOR THE VETERANS' WELFARE BOND ACT OF 1929. This act provides for a bond issue of twenty million dollars to be used by the veterans' welfare board in assisting California war veterans to acquire farms or homes. 1

AGAINST THE VETERANS' WELFARE BOND ACT OF 1929. This act provides for a bond issue of twenty million dollars to be used by the veterans' welfare board in assisting California war veterans to acquire farms or homes.

(Submitted to the people by the Legislature of the State of California, at its regular session commencing on the seventh day of January, 1929.)

An act authorizing the creation of a debt or debts, liability or liabilities, through the issuance and sale of state bonds, for the single object of creating a fund to provide farm and home aid for veterans in accordance with the provisions of the veterans' farm and home purchase act, approved May 30, 1921, and of any and all acts amendatory thereof or supplemental thereto; creating a veterans' welfare finance committee; defining the powers and duties of said committee and of the veterans' welfare board and of other state offices in respect to the administration of the provisions hereof; providing ways and means, exclusive of loans, for the payment of the interest of such debt or debts, liability or liabilities, as such interest falls due, and also for the payment and discharge of the principal of such debt or debts, liability or liabilities, as such principal matures; appropriating money for the expense of preparing and of advertising the sale of bonds herein authorized to be issued; and providing for the submission of this act to a vote of the people at the general election to be held in the month of November, one thousand nine hundred thirty.

SECTION 1. For the purpose of creating a fund to provide farm and home aid for veterans in accordance with the provisions of the veterans' farm and home purchase act approved May 30, 1921, and of any and all acts amendatory of or supplemental to said act, the veterans' welfare finance committee created by this act shall be and it hereby is authorized and empowered to create a debt or debts, liability or liabilities, of the State of California, in the manner and to the extent hereinafter provided, but not otherwise, nor in excess thereof.

SEC. 2. After the issuance of the proclamation of the governor, provided for in section 16 of this act, and immediately after adoption of any resolution by the veterans' welfare finance committee hereby created, provided for in section 11 of this act, the state treasurer shall prepare the requisite number of suitable bonds of the denomination of one thousand dollars in accordance with the specifications contained in such resolution. The aggregate par value of all bonds issued under this act shall not exceed the sum of twenty million dollars, and the bonds issued under any such resolution shall bear interest from the date of issuance of said bonds to the date of maturity thereof, at a rate to be determined by the said veterans' welfare finance committee and specified in such resolution, but in no case exceeding six per cent per annum. Both principal and interest shall be payable in gold coin of the United States, of the present standard of value, at the office of the state treasurer, or at the office of any duly authorized agent of the state treasurer, and shall be so payable at the times specified in said resolution or resolutions.

All bonds issued under this act shall bear the facsimile signature of the governor and the facsimile countersignature of the controller and shall be endorsed by the state treasurer either by original signature or by a signature stamp adopted for each particular bond issue under this act and the said bonds shall be signed, countersigned and endorsed by the officers who shall be in office on the date of issuance thereof, and each of said bonds shall bear an impress of the great seal of the State of California. The said bonds so signed, countersigned, endorsed and sealed, when sold, shall be and constitute a valid and binding obligation upon the State of California, although the sale thereof be made at a date or dates upon which the officers having signed, countersigned and endorsed said bonds, or any or either of said officers, shall have ceased to be the incumbents of the offices held by them at the time of signing, countersigning, or endorsing said bonds. Each bond issued under this act shall contain a clause or clauses stating that interest shall cease to accrue thereon from and after the date of maturity thereof and referring to this act and to the resolution of the veterans' welfare finance committee hereunder by virtue of which said bond is issued.

SEC. 3. The requisite number of suitable interest coupons, appropriately numbered, shall be attached to each bond issued under this act. Said interest coupons shall bear the facsimile signature of the state treasurer who shall be in office on the date of issuance of the bond to which said coupons pertain.

SEC. 4. All bonds issued under this act and sold shall be deemed to have been called in at their respective dates of maturity and the state treasurer shall, on the respective dates of maturity of said bonds, or as soon thereafter as said matured bonds are surrendered to him, pay the same out of the proceeds of the controller's warrants drawn in his favor as provided in section 5 hereof and perforate the bonds so paid with a suitable device in a manner to indicate such payment and the date thereof. He shall also, on the said respective dates of maturity, cancel all bonds bearing said dates of maturity and remaining unsold, by perforation with a suitable device in a manner to indicate such cancellation and the date thereof. The provisions of this section shall be applicable also to the interest coupons pertaining to the bonds authorized by this act to be issued, and shall be applicable, as far as practicable, to any duly authorized agent of the state treasurer.

SEC. 5. There is hereby appropriated from the general fund in the state treasury such sum annually as will be necessary to pay the principal of and the interest on the bonds issued and sold pursuant to the provisions of this act, as said principal and interest becomes due and payable.

There shall be collected annually in the same manner and at the same time as other state revenue is collected such a sum, in addition to the ordinary revenues of the state, as shall be required to pay the principal and interest on said bonds as herein provided, and it is hereby made the duty of all officers charged by law with any duty in regard to the collections of said revenue, to do and perform each and every act which shall be necessary to collect such additional sum.

On the several dates of maturity of said principal and interest in each fiscal year, there shall be returned into the general fund in the state treasury, all of the moneys in the specific fund into which the proceeds from the sale of the said bonds have been covered as herein prescribed, not in excess of the principal of and interest on the said bonds then due and payable and, in the event of such moneys so returned on said dates of maturity being less than the said principal and interest then due and payable, then the balance remaining unpaid shall be returned into the general fund in the state treasury out of said specific fund as soon thereafter as it shall become available, together with interest thereon, from such dates of maturity until so returned, at the rate of five per cent per annum, compounded semiannually.

Both principal and interest of said bonds shall be paid when due upon warrants duly drawn against said appropriation from the general fund by the controller of the state in favor of the state treasurer or in favor of any duly authorized agent of the state treasurer, upon demands audited by the state board of control, and the moneys to be returned into the general fund in the state treasury pursuant to the provisions of this section shall likewise be paid as herein provided upon warrants duly drawn by the controller of the state upon demands duly audited by the state board of control.

SEC. 6. The sum of thirty-five thousand dollars is hereby appropriated out of any money in the state treasury not otherwise appropriated to pay the expenses that may be incurred by the state treasurer in having said bonds prepared and in advertising their sale. Said amount shall be refunded to the general fund in the state treasury out of the specific funds into which the proceeds from the sale of said bonds shall be respectively covered in accordance with the provisions of this act on controller's warrant duly drawn for that purpose.

SEC. 7. When the bonds authorized to be issued under this act shall be duly executed, they shall be by the state treasurer sold at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, in such parcels and numbers as the said treasurer shall be directed by the governor of the state, under seal thereof, after a resolution requesting such sale shall have been adopted by the veterans' welfare board and approved by the governor of the state, but said treasurer must reject any and all bids for said bonds, or for any of them, which shall be below the par value of said bonds so offered plus the interest which has accrued thereon between the date of sale and the last preceding interest maturity date; and with the approval of the governor, he may from time to time, by public announcement at the place and time fixed for the sale, continue such sale, as to the whole of the bonds offered, or any part thereof offered, to such time and place as he may select. Before offering any of said bonds for sale the said treasurer shall detach therefrom all coupons which have matured or will mature before the day fixed for such sale.

SEC. 8. Due notice of the time and place of sale of all bonds must be given by said treasurer by publication in one newspaper published in the city and county of San Francisco and also by publication in one newspaper published in the city of Oakland and by publication in one newspaper published in the city of Los Angeles once a week during four weeks prior to such sale. In addition to the notice last above provided for, the state treasurer may give such further notice as he may deem advisable, but the expense and cost of such additional notice shall not exceed the sum of five hundred dollars for each sale so advertised. The proceeds of the sale of such bonds and such amount as may have been paid as accrued interest thereon shall be forthwith paid over by said treasurer into the veterans' farm and home building fund and must be used exclusively in aiding veterans in the acquisition of, or payments for, farms and homes, in accordance with the provisions of the veterans' farm and home purchase act, and of any and all acts amendatory or supplemental to said act; provided, that the proceeds from the sale of said bonds may be used to pay the debt created by the issuance and sale thereof.

SEC. 9. The veterans' welfare board shall be and hereby is authorized, with the approval of the state board of control, to invest any surplus moneys in any of the funds subject to or appropriated for its use in bonds of the United States, or of the State of California, or of the several counties or municipalities or other political subdivisions of the State of California, and to sell such bonds, or any of them, at the governing market rates, upon approval of the state board of control; or, the veterans' welfare board may, with the approval of the director of finance, invest moneys in any of the funds subject to the control of the veterans' welfare board or appropriated for its use, in interest bearing certificates of deposit of state banks having a paid up capital of five hundred thousand dollars or more; provided, that the total amount of money so deposited with any one bank shall not exceed a sum equal to fifty per cent of the paid up capital of such bank; provided, however, that nothing herein contained shall inhibit or be construed to inhibit the depositing in banks in accordance with the provisions of an act entitled "An act to authorize and control the depositing in banks of moneys belonging to or in the custody of the state and to repeal all acts or parts of acts conflicting with this act," approved April 12, 1923, and of any and all acts amendatory thereof or supplemental thereto, of moneys of any of the funds subject to the control of the veterans' welfare board or appropriated for its use.

Interest accruing upon the deposit of moneys appropriated for the use of the veterans' welfare board or of any of the funds subject to the control of said board shall be paid into and credited to the respective appropriation or fund to which the money so deposited belongs.

SEC. 10. There is hereby created a Veterans' Welfare Finance Committee composed of the governor, state controller, state treasurer, chairman of the state board of control, and chairman of veterans' welfare board, all of whom shall serve thereon without compensation and a majority of whom shall be empowered to act for said committee. The attorney general of the state shall be the legal adviser of the veterans' welfare finance committee.

Upon request of the veterans' welfare board, supported by a statement of the plans and projects of the veterans' welfare board with respect thereto, the veterans' welfare finance committee shall determine whether or not a bond issue under this act is necessary or desirable to carry such plans and projects into execution.

SEC. 11. Whenever the said veterans' welfare finance committee shall have determined that a bond issue under this act is necessary or desirable to carry such plans and projects into execution, it shall adopt a resolution to this effect. The said resolution shall authorize and direct the state treasurer to prepare the requisite number of suitable bonds and shall specify:

1. The aggregate number, aggregate par value, and the date of issuance of the bonds to be issued.

2. The date or dates of maturity of the bonds to be issued and the number and numerical sequence of the bonds maturing at each date of maturity.

3. The annual rate of interest which the bonds to be issued shall bear.

4. The number, numerical sequence, amount or amounts and the dates of maturity of the interest coupons to be attached to the said bonds.

5. The technical form and language of the bonds to be issued and of the interest coupons to be attached thereto.

In determining the date or dates of maturity of the said bonds and the amount of bonds maturing at each date of maturity, the veterans' welfare finance committee shall be guided by the amounts and dates of maturity of the revenues estimated to accrue to the veterans' welfare board from the project or projects to be financed by each issue, and shall fix and determine said dates and amounts in such manner that, together with the dates and amounts of interest payments on the said bond issue, they shall coincide, as nearly as practicable, with the dates and amounts of such estimated revenues; provided, that the bonds first to mature in each issue, shall mature not later than five years from the date of issuance thereof; provided, further, that specified numbers of bonds of specified numerical sequence shall thereafter mature at annual intervals; and provided, further, that the bonds last to mature in each issue shall mature not later than forty-five years from the date of issuance thereof.

The rate of interest to be borne by the said bonds shall be uniform for all the bonds of the same issue and shall be determined and fixed by the veterans' welfare finance committee according to the then prevailing market conditions, but shall in no case exceed six per cent per annum, and the determination of said committee as to the rate of interest shall be conclusive as to the then prevailing market conditions. The interest coupons to be attached to the said bonds shall be payable at semiannual intervals from the date of issuance of said bonds; provided, that the interest coupon first payable may, if the veterans' welfare finance committee shall so determine and specify, be payable one year after the date of issuance of said bonds.

SEC. 12. All actual and necessary expenses of the veterans' welfare finance committee and of the members thereof shall be paid out of the fund into which the proceeds from the sale of said bonds shall be covered, upon approval of the state board of control and on controller's warrant duly drawn for that purpose, and shall constitute expenses of the veterans' welfare board.

SEC. 13. The state controller, the state treasurer and the veterans' welfare finance committee shall keep full and particular account and record of all their proceedings under this act, and they shall transmit to the governor an abstract of all such proceedings thereunder, with an annual report, to be by the governor laid before the Legislature biennially; and all books and papers pertaining to the matter provided for in this act shall at all times be open to the inspection of any party interested, or the governor, or the attorney general, or a committee of either branch of the Legislature, or a joint committee of both, or any citizen of the state.

SEC. 14. This act, if adopted by the people, shall take effect on the fifteenth day of November, 1930, as to all its provisions except those relating to and necessary for its submission to the people, and for returning, canvassing, and proclaiming the votes, and as to said excepted provisions this act shall take effect immediately.

SEC. 15. This act shall be submitted to the people of the State of California for their ratification at the next general election, to be held in the month of November, 1930, and all ballots at said election shall have printed thereon and in a square thereof, the words: "For the veterans' welfare bond act of 1929," and in the same square under said words the following in brevier type: "This act provides for a bond issue of twenty million dollars to be used by the veterans' welfare board in assisting California war veterans to acquire farms or homes." Opposite the words "For the veterans' welfare bond act of 1929" and "Against the veterans' welfare bond act of 1929," there shall be left spaces in which the voters may place a cross in the manner required by law to indicate whether they vote for or against said act, and those voting for said act shall do so by placing a cross opposite the words "For the veterans' welfare bond act of 1929" and those voting against the said act shall do so by placing a cross opposite the words "Against the veterans' welfare bond act of 1929." The governor of this state shall include the submission of this act to the people, as aforesaid, in his proclamation calling for said general election.

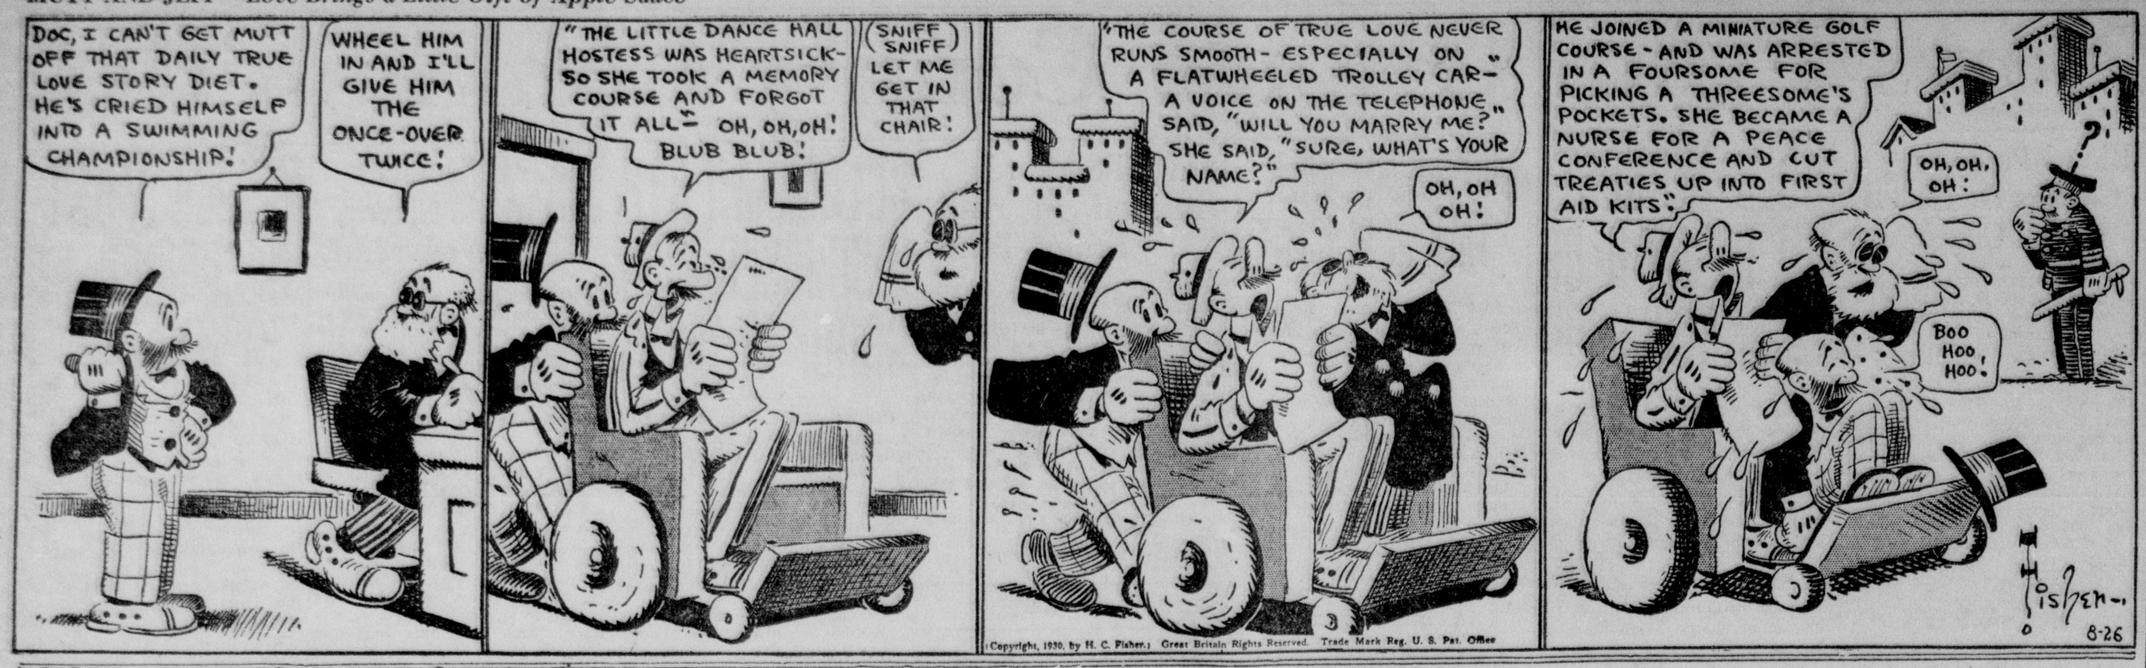

SEC. 16. The votes cast for or against this act shall be counted, returned and canvassed and declared in the same manner and subject to the same rules as votes cast for state officers; and if it appear that said act shall have received a majority of all the votes cast for and against it at said election as aforesaid, then the same shall have effect as hereinbefore provided, and shall be irrepealable until the principal and interest of the liabilities herein created shall be paid and discharged, and the governor shall make proclamation thereof; but if a majority of the votes cast as aforesaid are against this act then the same shall be and become void.

SEC. 17. It shall be the duty of the secretary of state in accordance with law to have this act published in at least one newspaper in each county, or city and county, if one be published therein, throughout this state, for three months next preceding the general election to be held in the month of November, 1930, the costs of publication shall be paid out of the general fund, on controller's warrants duly drawn for that purpose and shall be refunded to the general fund out of the veterans' farm and home building fund. Said refund shall be made upon controller's warrants duly drawn against said fund for said purpose upon demands audited by the state board of control.

SEC. 18. This act may be known and cited as the "Veterans welfare bond act of 1929."

SEC. 19. All acts and parts of acts in conflict with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed.

Santa Ana Beats Whittier, Wins Baseball League

McDonnell and had a hard time fielding "String's" slow bounder. Moon fanned for the first out and Denney hit into a speedy double play, Scott to Cole to Hunter, the Cole-Hunter part of it trapping McDonnell who overslid third base.

Davis Smashes Homer

"Brass" Davis' home run, a hard hit ball driven over Bell's head, put Whittier ahead, 2-1, in the fourth. Bell made a desperate effort to catch the sphere as he crashed into a group of fans lined up against the handball courts in deep left field but only succeeded in knocking the ball down. Davis' homer came with two away and none on.

Santa Ana went out in front again in the sixth, 3-2, when it scored twice after two were out. Daley singled infield and "Memphy" Hill beat out a bunt, Daley racing all the way to third. Hill took second unmolested on the first pitch to "Rosey" Merrill and then scored with Daley when Merrill doubled to left center.

Whittier was still fighting, however, and regained the lead almost immediately. Denney, first up in the last of the same frome, singled sharply to center and went to second on Arley Hill's long sacrifice fly to Daley. Sucksdorf banged a triple to left center to score Denney, and Sucksdorf went home with the 4-3 run on Davis' infield out, Scott to Cole.

Whittier's Defense Cracks

Whittier's defense, which had been pretty airtight until this juncture, collapsed in the first of the "lucky seventh" and the series was soon over. With one out, Hunter singled to left and went all the way to third on passed balls while McDonnell was walking Wilcox. Then another passed ball let Hunter scamper home with the tying run, 4-4, Wilcox going to second. Cornelius bunted in front of the plate and was safe, and Wilcox scored when Hill, charging in fast, failed to come up with the ball cleanly and "butter-fingered" it to the Whittier bench.

Again presented with the lead, Cornelius "born down" and held the Quakers helpless through the final three innings while his colleagues kept pecking away at McDonnell for another run, this one for good measure in the ninth. Hunter singled to right and Wilcox and Cornelius both beat out bunts to fill the pathways before a man had been retired. Scott's infield out scored Hunter but Daley and Hill perished peacefully, and the game ended 6-4.

In the last of the seventh, Cornelius got Jertberg on an easy infield ball to Hunter, Rasmussen on a pop fly to Merrill and McDonnell on strikes. Cornelius fanned Moon, Denney and A. Hill, the three lead-off men in the eighth, and then fanned Davis and Johns in the ninth after Sucksdorf had popped to Hill.

McGraw Club Fails To Enthuse Critics

—the test of McGraw and his type of leadership must come no later than 1931. If he loses again with the same outfit now under his control he will go down in the minds of lots of people as a losing manager.

The 1930 Giants are a young ball club and they ought to be better of another year of experience together. They at present are hitting away out beyond any rival in any league. They have one of the four great infields of all baseball. Their outfield is a little better than fair and their catching is a little better than good. Even the pitching has come along in recent weeks; yet the Giants this morning are five games behind the Cubs.

I don't profess to know the answer. Maybe there just isn't any. Even if that were true, however, it would constitute an indirect or negative reflection on the man in charge, for when success eludes an organization that should be successful, the field boss should have more than a remote idea why this is so. If he doesn't he is admitting tacitly that he doesn't know what is going on in his offical family.

Play Well At Home

At that, the Giants still have the month of September on the Polo Grounds and it is precedent that they always come with a rush under these conditions. In the last six years, the trouble has been that they had to come too far. But this time they still have a white man's chance, particularly with the Cubs finishing in the east.

As for Ens, it is my understanding that much depends on what he does with te Pirates during the same month. I suspect that much depends, too, on what the Pirates do with him. However, it has been no fault of his that a good ball club failed to prove it this year. First, little Waner was out for three months. Then a fool trade was made for Grimes. Followed then injuries to Traynor, Swetonic, Brame and others.

All in all, I should say Mr. Ens has done very well to finish before Christmas.

FINANCIAL AND MARKET NEWS

CHICAGO BD. OF TRADE

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—(UP)—A late rally in corn to around the previuos closing figures brought a corresponding rise in wheat on the Board of Trade today but the market again failed to hold and prices eased to close sharply lower. At one time December corn advanced ot a premium over the same delivery of wheat, the first time this year. The uncertainly of the hedging action of the pool was a disquieting factor during the session. The weakness in wheat checker the corn advance. Oats were lower with wheat.

At the close wheat was 1⅜ to 1⅝c lower, corn was ⅝ to 1c lower and oats were ½ to 1c lower. Provisions were firm.

EVENING SALUTATION

"My experience of life does not at all support the proposition that as a man grows older he grows wiser."

—PROF. JOHN MacMURRAY.

LET US GO FORWARD

Tonight when the returns come in, thousands of people in California will be disappointed. Regardless of who wins for governor, there are going to be two candidates defeated and their followers will be correspondingly disappointed. The same is true of the candidates in the county and their friends.

We are glad that the number of contests will be so limited following the primaries. It is possible, of course, that there will be no contest, except that in the state, but there is very likely to be a run-off for sheriff, district attorney, and the office of supervisor in the fifth district.

Regardless of who wins for the various offices today, The Register wants to offer its congratulations and to express the hope that all ill feelings may be buried, and that we shall promptly get together to work for the further development of Orange county and the state along every line of endeavor. Wherein we have differed upon candidates or wherein we differ upon principles which we feel that our particular candidates typify, we should do it with a recognition that all others who differ with us or have differed with us have a perfect right to their ideas and opinions, and that we should honor and respect them for their expression of them and for their fighting for them, and in whatever contest our convictions urge us, if contest there be after the primaries, let us carry it on in the same spirit.

On the whole, the various contests in the county have been conducted in a spirit of fair play and sportmanship and desire to present the personalities and claims of the candidates, and if in one or two instances this has not been the case, it may now be overlooked and forgotten. We are glad that this comes only once in four years as far as the county is concerned. We people in the newspaper profession are glad that it doesn't come often.

When Clarence De Mar, noted long distance runner, missed a train on his way to keep a lecture appointment, he ran more than the distance of a marathon to catch another. A miss is as good as miles to him.

THE OLD-TIME CHAUTAUQUA LITERARY CIRCLE

Thomas Edison's presence at a re-union of his class of the Chautauqua Literary and Scientific Circle recalls the place that institution had in the lives of many people of an earlier generation. Among the thousands who were not privileged to have a college education, there were many who tried to get some equivalent for it. The Chautauqua movement started in to fill that desire. Courses were outlined, text books were prepared and printed, groups in many hundreds of towns were organized, and for four years the members of the group met and shared some of the privileges enjoyed by those who spent four years in residence at some college or university.

The result was a great satisfaction to those who participated in such a course of study. At the end of the four years of study they gathered at some central place, usually some grove, and received their diplomas for the work done and the credits received. Those diplomas meant as much to the people receiving them as do the diplomas received by those who graduate from our colleges. Each year, or perhaps every five years, the members of these classes gathered at the same central place for their re-union, and the memories of their study together bound them into a fine fellowship of academic interest.

These courses are still given, but they no longer enlist the numbers of the earlier days. Life has become more busy and more distracted. Through correspondence courses, or through radio lectures given by college professors, something of this work is still being carried on. But among the institutions of the past, none recall pleasanter memories than these Chautauqua circles. And we have no doubt that Mr. Edison's re-union with his Chautauqua class was as happy as the 50th anniversary of the invention of the incandescent light held last year.

Eight Connecticut boys swimming in a dye-polluted river returned to their homes with green hair, green eyebrows and green eyelashes. Some day they'll be very typical freshmen.

A REAL MISHAP

A banker and an advertising man arrived in New York the other day somewhat embarrassed. When the men embarked at Chicago they gave their clothes to the valet. While the valet worked, a switch engine carried off the car in which he was, and the clothes of the two men who had hoped to arrive in New York in sartorial perfection. Instead, when they arrived one wore a train conductor's extra suit, somewhat of a misfit, and the other was swathed in blankets. He didn't look like a Roman senator, though, for he preferred riding in a wheel chair to walking through the station in the Roman manner.

The moral of this little tale should be "watch your clothes," but there are enough nervous travelers now.

One time in Europe, a party of sixty tourists were conspicuous in a station. They had been instructed to "watch their luggage," and when they checked it for a day in Dresden and the baggage-master hauled it away on a truck they flocked after the truck, keeping their eyes glued to their luggage.

HENRY FORD'S POST-GRADUATE COURSE

Henry Ford has suggested that he will be glad to educate the boy after he graduates from college. By this he means that the boy who has graduated from college has not been fitted for life. There is still much for him to learn before he can really become a useful member of society and a business or an industrial asset.

This is the natural attitude of the man who has made a certain success in life without the privilege of a college education. Mr. Ford's friend, Thomas Edison, shares it with him, for in the examinations for the Edison scholarship the questions put to the contestants are usually a test of their information and observation. It was President Lincoln who once characterized the college as an institution which polishes pebbles and dims diamonds.

No doubt much of what one acquires at college has no practical value, and much of what one gets is speedily forgotten. But, after all, a college education, despite its seeming impracticability, does do something for its possessor. A farmer who had graduated from a well-known Eastern college was asked if his college education had been of any value to him in his farming. He answered: "I don't know; but I do know that it has made life more worth living."

It can hardly be expected that men who have never had the privilege of a college education can appreciate its untabulated value. But if Mr. Ford could only add to his genius for organization the richness which a man gets from having associated in his early days with great and richly-stored minds, how much broader his vision would be, and how much richer his life. He would appreciate the meaning of the words of old Dr. South, the noted preacher of the days of Charles II, when he said: "God hath no need of a man's knowledge; but he hath far less need of man's ignorance." Any enrichment of the human mind is ultimately of advantage to the individual and to society as a whole.

PROHIBITION AN ISSUE

Senator Fess delivered a radio address last night out of Washington. In his address he said:

The President is uncompromising on the necessity of enforcement of law. No subject has appealed to him in a greater degree than the tendency toward violation of law. He appointed a commission of notable ability to investigate and report its findings on the subject of crime.

He has taken a strong stand on the enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment and has presented to Congress recommendations of legislation to more effectively enforce the law, chief of which is the transfer of the enforcement division from the Treasury to the legal department of the government. He has attempted to secure the best possible available talent for this service. In addition he has directed efforts to reach an agreement with Canada to reduce the importation of liquor. Some of his recommendations to Congress have already been enacted into law, while others remain for final action by the two houses.

It is strange with this emphasis placed upon this subject just as it is discussed by the president, that Senator Fess should have within the past week tried to put over the idea that prohibition and law enforcement were not an issue. The truth is that regardless of how we may wish, it is the most burning issue in America today. President Hoover recognizes it. Senator Fess is forced to speak on it, while between addresses he makes the foolish statement that it is not an issue.

Politicians and candidates do not make issues as a rule. Conditions and the people's opinion of the conditions do make the issues. It has been so with every great issue. The politicians can attempt to cover it up, put it in vaults, and bury it, but it stalks abroad in full life and energy and meets them, many times to their overthrow, unless they are brave enough to wrestle with it.

Old Story Recalled

Oakland Tribune

For those who may go back in their memories thirty-three years a brave story is recalled with the finding of the body of Andree in the far North.

It was before the days of the dirigible when his balloon drifted with the winds toward the Pole. With one unsuccessful start, and the months of preparation, the world was aware of every detail of the plans. Learned discussions centered on the sail arrangement he had fastened to his round balloon and on the theory his trailing ropes would be of aid.

Andree was confident, but the world feared for him. The North was a mystery and no one had ever made a balloon follow a course over a long distance. He set off and there was no wireless to speak of his progress. When he failed to return, romantic tales came from the North. Messages were found. Men believed that, somewhere in the wastes, the Andree party was alive. For months the hopes endured. In a day when airplanes and dirigible have crossed the Pole and when explorers talk to the world as they fly, the mystery of a first aerial expedition into the North is solved.

From Far Afield

San Diego Union

A curious feature of the Mooney-Billings hearing, now being prosecuted before the state supreme court, is the abundance of testimony dragged in from various sources to show that the two men were guilty of crimes other than that for which they were convicted. One witness testified that although her testimony at the original murder trial was mistaken, she had heard Mooney admit that he had made a practice of dumping acid on automobile motors. Mr. Cunha, one of the few prosecution agents who still stands pat, asserts he can prove that Billings was a member of a gang called the Blasters. This is all irrelevant though interesting.

If the original conviction of these men was honest and sound, might it not be well to confine the present review to establishing that fact beyond all new doubt?

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

ENOUGH IS ENOUGH

I once was strong for old John Smith,
Long years before I heard
That his great story was a myth
And false in every word.
I worshipped those brave men of old
The Knickerbocker Dutch,
But I have recently been told
That they were not so much.
And now to my regret I hear
Columbus was a buccaneer.

Yet still I think that Smith was great—
A bear-cat in a fight;
No matter what historians state
I still believe I'm right.
Columbus I revere a lot
With everything he did,
And I'm convinced that he was not
An earlier Captain Kidd.
No low-browed rough sea-faring crook.
Would take the chance Columbus took.

I had to learn my history once,
And I will not again
Review the bold and daring stunts
Of our heroic men.
They may, or they may not have won
The laurels on their brow,
But what they did or left undone
I'll not re-study now.
With history, as with A-B-C,
One learning is enough for me.

"Where Wealth Accumulates and Men Decay"

By WILLIAM TRUFANT FOSTER and WADDILL CATCHINGS

About 300,000 travelers from the United States have visited Europe in the past twelve months. About 200,000 of these, according to our estimate, have heard their country referred to as a land "where wealth accumulates and men decay."

"So-called American Prosperity," says one of these critics, "is a flashy thing."

Are these caustic critics right? Does our prosperity leave us rich as bankers, but poor as human beings? What, after all, is this "so-called American prosperity"? Let us pull it to pieces, and see if there is any substance under the flash.

First of all, it consists of better health. The years of suffering have been reduced. The years of life have been lengthened.

Second, it consists of increased production. In twenty years, the national income has risen from about 30 billion dollars to about 90 billion.

Third, the share of wage-earners in the national income has grown faster than the share of property owners. Real wages in the past two decades have risen at least 34 per cent.

Fourth, we must list other economic gains—life insurance, for example. It took us 80 years to accumulate the first 50 billions; seven years for the next fifty. Add to this the gains in accident, health, and employment insurance, in pensions and in savings bank deposits, and the gains of wage-earners in stock and bond ownership, and we have ample evidence—in spite of the inexcusable curse of unemployment—of increased economic security.

"That, however," replies the foreign critic, "is merely evidence of rich bank accounts, not of richer human beings. It tells us nothing about participation in the refined pleasures of life."

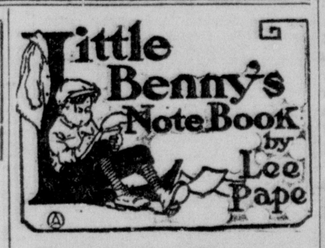

This comment brings us to a fifth item in American prosperity, namely, increased leisure. Evidence of this appears not only in the shorter working week, but also in the astounding increase in the numbers who go to college.

Participation in the refined pleasures of life, we must remember, requires leisure. Leisure is a by-product of economic efficiency. And leisure is not a flashy thing.

Incidentally, American prosperity during the past twenty years has been all bound up with the production of phonographs, radios, sound and motion pictures, automobiles, and facilities for scientific research. No other twenty years in all history have produced agencies so valuable as these for the eductation of ALL the people.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

THINGS THAT ARE GONE

There are some factors that underlay the prosperity of the last decade that America cannot count on, at least as heavily as before, in the decade ahead.

I am speaking now of something quite apart from the results of the market crash of last November; I am speaking of factors the force of which would today be markedly diminished even if the market mania had not given us a credit structure stretched to the breaking point.

Economic America took a spurt in the first three-fourths of 1929 that it was not in the cards for her to maintain.

This spurt of unprecedented production and unheard-of consumption was due to two major factors, viz:

First, particularly from 1922 to the late autumn of 1929 economic America was cashing in on the postponed building and buying into which we and the world were forced by the war.

Second, throughout the last decade economic America was reaping the prodigal rewards of a series of pioneer industrial and economic developments that opened up essentially virgin markets in which the producers had a long way to go before they bumped into the ghost of asturation or near-saturation. The more important of these industrial and economic developments were, viz:

(1) The automobile industry. During the last decade the automobile industry was coming in on the home stretch of an era in which the American people were getting stocked up with cars for the first time. This meant an expanding market that was bound to shrink when the ntaion became decently supplied with cars. Thereafter the industry had to look forward to a production to cover replacement and satisfy the new demand that growth of population would create.

(2) The suburban building boom. During the last decade economic America did a roaring business in suburban home-building because the war had delayed a vast amount of building and there was an active exodus of home-owners from cities to the suburbs. This meant that the suburban home building industry was profiting from an expanding business that was bound to shrink when postponed building was fairly well caught up and the exodus to the suburbs reached a point of relative stabilization.

(3) The radio industry. Here again was an industry that played to a market that was buying its products for the first time during the last few years. The radio industry was swelling with the sales of a pioneer market. It, too, faces the problem that the automobile industry faces, the problem of settling down, sooner or later, to the satisfaction of demand for replacement and the fresh demand that growth of population may produce.

All this does not mean, as a hasty reading might suggest, irretrievable loss; it means only that we must intelligently readjust economic America to her changed situation.

Tomorrow I shall speak of still other things that are gone, before going on to things that remain and things to come.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

CAN YOU LAUGH?

Unless you can laugh you will be in a bad way when the children begin to grow up. Sometimes that is all that is left for you to do. An adolescent child, those in the early stages are the worst, can think of more things to do, and do them in stranger ways, than the imagination of grown-ups can compass.

What would you do if your son and daughter, aged thirteen and fifteen, went down to the station to receive, in your absence a very special guest, one of the kind labelled important, dressed in father's and mother's best clothes, and manner?

Suppose your thirteen-year-old son went to the neighbor's asking for subscriptions for a hopeless magazine, telling them it was positively necessary for him to earn money to buy his clothes for school next term as father's business was very bad and mother had to economize strictly?

If your daughter gravely told you that now that she was fourteen she intended to entertain the boys once a week, and wanted to know what refreshments you would serve on the occasions, ices and sponge cake, and shrimp salad, and delicate sandwiches being preferred. The boys would always be expected to bring candy. Also that father and mother would please see that the living room, thirty-two by twenty-eight, was held sacred to the calling hour every Friday night.

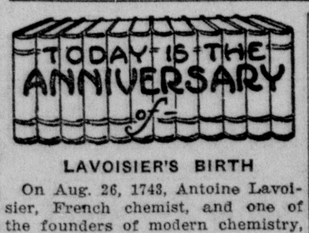

If you suddenly found a party of twenty children on your hands and your imperturbable youngster said, "I decided to have a party today and just called a few of them on the phone. What have you got to eat, mother?"

Could you laugh? You'd better. No matter what you think, no matter how hard hit you are, you would much better laugh at the absurdity of youth on its high horse than to storm and fret and weep. A good laugh is a tonic while rage and tears are a shocking waste of energy. Energy is precious indeed when one has to live with adolescent children.

Laugh first. Then face whatever situation has been created and in perfect good humor, let the weight of it fall on the youngster's shoulders. It will not be possible to do this completely but it is always possible to let him have some of it. If he invites a party to the house and calls for refreshments it is quite in order to say "You are welcome to what we have but you know I am not prepared for a party." Let him and his friends scour the refrigerator, let them exercise a little ingenuity, and enjoy themselves. Refreshments are not so important—a lemon and a pail of water, a box of crackers have been known to make a feast.

Make your corrective remarks in private. Some you will surely have to make, but keep them between yourselves. And cultivate healthy, kindly laughter, for your sake and theirs.

LAVOISIER'S BIRTH

On Aug. 26, 1743, Antoine Lavoisier, French chemist, and one of the founders of modern chemistry, was born in Paris, France.

Showing great precocity as a boy in mathematics and the physical sciences, Lavoisier was carefully educated at Mazarin College. When only 23 he received the prize offered by the French Academy of Sciences for the best and cheapest means of lighting city streets. Two years later he was elected a member of the academy.

He first turned his attention to chemistry in 1770, when he began experiments in combustion. After four years he published his Physical and Chemical Essays, in which he described his own theory of combustion which later was to form the cornerstone of modern chemistry. He determined that in all cases of combustion the matter with which the combustible substance combines is, in all instances, "vital air," termed today oxygen.

Lavoisier was of considerable service to his government. He introduced valuable improvements in the manufacture of gunpowder, improved methods of agriculture on scientific principles, participated in the preparation of the metric system and formed a plan for simplifying the collection of taxes. After the Revolution this connection with the government was the occasion of his indictment before the Revolutionary tribunal, by which he was condemned to the guillotin. He was executed on May 8, 1794.

Martial Law Enforced In Lima As President Resigns

FOUR DEATHS REPORTED IN MINOR CLASH

FOREIGNERS ARE SAFE

Whereabouts of Former President Uncertain But He and Sons Missing

LIMA, PERU, Aug. 25.—(UP)—Lima today as the new Peruvian military committee sought to prevent further bloodshed in the transfer of the government from civilian to military hands.

Four deaths in minor clashes ruined hopes for a bloodless revolution. But the authorities resorted promptly to the uncontrolled spirits of the exuberant Peruvians by immediately ordering the observance of all regulations of martial law.

The present whereabouts of former President Augusto B. Leguia, who resigned and then left the country, were uncertain. He was known to be aboard the Peruvian warcraft Admiral Grau. Together with at least two of his three sons and a few other supporters. But where the vessel was cruising or what disposition would be made of the man who ruled for 11 successive years was a problem.

Gen. Manuel Maria Ponce, president of the military committee, assured the students who acclaimed the revolution that the Admiral Grau still was in Peruvian waters, and added that Leguia would not be allowed to leave the jurisdiction of the government "unless the people desire it."

All foreigners here were safe since no calls for assistance were received at the various embassies and legations. Reliable sources stated that a number of foreign representatives, including the American charge d-affaires, Ferdinand L. Mayer, had requested the military government to guarantee the lives of various figures in Leguia's regime who had taken refuge in the legations. The request, it was said, was granted.

Word of the revolution's success was sent throughout the country by the new government.

GERMAN FLIERS HOP OFF FOR NEW YORK FROM NOVA SCOTIA

Plan To Be In New York This Evening

Flight Will Complete Trip Across North Atlantic From Germany

HALIFAX, N. S., Aug. 26.—(UP)—Captain Wolfgang Von Gronau and his three companions departed in their veteran Dornier Wahl seaplane today, bound for New Work harbor and the end of their flight from Germany.

With the same unconcern that marked their quiet flight across the Atlantic ocean to the American coast, the German aviators started the 600-mile flight to New York at 10:45 a. m. today.

The German plane, which arrived here yesterday after a flight via Iceland, Greenland, Labrador, and Queensport, was fuelled at Bedford basin before departing on the last stage of the transatlantic venture.

Rising from the basin, the big ship flew over the city and then turned southward over the harbor. The weather was clearing rapidly after dense fog that hampered the flight here from Labrador and there was a slight breeze.

A Moth plane from Halifax rose to accompany the German plane on the first few miles of its trip.

Captain Von Gronau was expected to bring his plane down in New York harbor, near the Statue of Liberty, late in the afternoon. He described the flight from Germany which started a week ago yesterday, as a "trial flight" such as is customary for students at the aviation school which he conducts in Germany.

The German flyer has communicated with Dornier company officials in New York and asked that arrangements be made for landing in the harbor there.

The flight was considered remarkable inasmuch as the northern route followed often offers serious weather hazards, such as the thick fog that forced the Dornier craft down at Queensport en route from Cartwright, Labrador. Capt. Von Gronau and his companions, however, made steady and almost uninterrupted progress across the ocean.

LON CHANEY, FAMOUS STAR, PASSES AWAY

"Man of Thousand Faces" Called By Death After Blood Transfusion

The end came with a hemorrhage of the throat at St. Vincent's hospital where he was taken last Wednesday when he became seriously ill.

Just a few minutes before his death he was conversing quietly with members of his family.

Although it was known that the noted character actor was suffering from carcanoma of the bronchial tubes and that his life was to be shortened by that form of cancer, his passing was unexpected.

Physicians did not believe he could live more than several months but they considered that he was temporarily out of danger when a blood transfusion was made successfully after a hemorrhage last Saturday.

Mrs. Chaney and their son, Creighton, were with the character actor when the hemorrhage started.

They immediately called Dr. John C. Webster but Chaney already was beyond medical aid.

Film Favorite

Chaney's death was a shock to all Hollywood. He was one of the most beloved and successful of the film favorites.

News of the actor's serious illness first was generally known in the screen colony shortly after he finished work on his initial talking picture, "The Unholy Three."

He had planned to take a long vacation before working again but instead hastened to New York to consult with specialists about his throat ailment.

Apparently much improved, he returned from the east three weeks ago and went to his cabin in the high Sierras.

The first of three hemorrhages forced him to enter the hospital last Wednesday. His condition was regarded then as critical but when blood transfusions were successful, optimistic reports were given out.

Late yesterday, the improvement appeared so pronounced that Dr. Webster, in an official bulletin, said "Mr. Chaney spent the best afternoon since he came to the hospital."

Wife Prostrated

Mrs. Chaney and the son were broken up by the actor's death. The Chaneys had been married more than 22 years.

Chaney was born in Colorado Springs, Colo., April 1, 1883.

He always was interested in the stage and shortly after he concluded his education in Colorado he went with a stock company.

His histrionic ability was recognized immediately and he acted as a property man for the company. He was fond of reminiscing about how expert he became at shifting scenery.

He graduated to the dual role of transportation agent and actor with another small stock company and finally was hired as a dancing comedian by the famous team of Kolb and Dill.

His turn from the stage to motion pictures was quite unexpected and resulted only from becoming stranded with another stock company in Santa Ana, Calif.

Calvin Coolidge Says

BY CALVIN COOLIDGE
Former President of the United States

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Aug. 26.—The reports of a revolution making headway in Peru are disquieting and discouraging.

Revolutions have long been the curse of some sections south of the Rio Grande. They indicate at their best that the orderly and lawful method of conducting changes in the form or the officers of the government affected have broken down and that there is no remedy for alleged abuses except an appeal to force. At their worst they are an attempt to seize a government that is doing as well as it can under all the circumstances surrounding it for the purpose of getting the power and spoils of office.

Too often these outbreaks are accompanied by a confiscation of private property and much suffering by innocent persons. If a revolution meant a cleaning up of a bad situation and the substitution of a stable, permanent and free government it would have some merit. But when it means only a loss of life and property in order to substitute a new regime that is no better than the old it accomplishes no constructive purpose. That is the reason our people regard revolutions with so much suspicion. They do not consider them as productive of genuine reform.

CLOSE RACES CALLING OUT ELECTORATE

ORANGE COUNTY voters today, favored by ideal weather, went to the polls to nominate, and in some instances, elect, state and county officials. A heavier vote than had been anticipated by political workers and County Clerk J. M. Backs seemed to be rolling in when a check of the situation was made shortly before noon.

The check, made at 17 of the 56 polling places in Santa Ana, revealed that just a fraction under 25 per cent of the total registered vote for the 17 precincts had been cast at 11:30 a. m. This is at least five per cent more than at the same time during the primary election four years ago.

An unusually heavy morning vote also was reported at the office of the county clerk from various parts of the county. A check made by The Register at noon in various points throughout the county, showed that approximately the same percentage as in Santa Ana applied in Fullerton and the Newport harbor district, with unusually heavy voting at Anaheim and Laguna Beach. In Orange there had been a 15 per cent vote cast at 11:30 a. m. All points indicated that there would be an extremely large vote cast during the afternoon and evening before the polls closed at 7 o'clock.

In Santa Ana the 17 precincts checked showed that 1035 voters had visited the polls during the usually quiet morning hours, out of a total registered vote of 4288 for these precincts. A heavy vote during the noon hour, was anticipated when many workers will avail themselves of the noon day pause to cast their ballots for their favorites in the primary. Another rush is expected by election workers after industries, shops and offices close at 5 p. m. The unusually heavy vote is regarded in some quarters as possibly accounting for some changes in the anticipated results.

The precincts checked in Santa Ana and the results shown were as follows: No. 1—Sycamore street fire station, votes cast, 50, registered vote, 180; No. 2—Willard junior high school, votes cast 86, registered 272; No. 3—Buick garage.

QUARTET QUITS PAN AMERICAN TRADE PARLEY

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Aug. 26.—(UP)—The first clash in the Pan-American reciprocal trade conference, in session here this week, today had resulted in the withdrawal of four members of the Argentine delegation including Dr. Huan Carlos Godoy, consul general for that country at San Francisco.

No definite reason was given by the resigning delegates for their action, but it is known that Dr. Godoy was keenly disappointed in the failure of his delegation to support his candidacy for permanent president of the organization in opposition to Simon J. Lubin, of Sacramento, elected to the post Sunday.

The other delegates who withdrew were Dr. Jose C. Castellano, Cordoba; Eduardo Blanchard,

Returns From Election To Be Broadcast

Comprehensive election returns will be furnished to the voters of Santa Ana tonight by The Register.

Polls will close at 7 o'clock, but it is doubtful if any indicating reports will be received much before 8:30 o'clock.

Returns from all parts of the state will be furnished by the United Press over its leased, high-speed wire.

Approximately 40 trained workers will gather the returns in Santa Ana and flash them into The Register office.

Correspondents throughout the entire county also will send in returns from the outside precincts.

Results will be megaphoned at The Register and in addition Radio Station KREG will give the latest returns from time to time.

PUBLISHER IS NOT PERMITTED TO CAST VOTE

J. F. BURKE, PUBLISHER of The Register and Mabel S. Burke, his wife, were registered from the Register building in precinct No. 4, their voting place being the Buick garage of the Reid Motor Company. Upon presenting themselves to vote this morning, they were promptly challenged by H. D. Conneil, inspector of the board at that precinct.

This was done before their names were looked up in the register. The challenge was made on the ground of the legal residence being in Panorama Heights, rather than in this precinct, and that they should have registered in the other precinct and so voted.

Mr. Burke said it had not been his intention to change his legal residence from Santa Ana, and had taken it up with the County Clerk, who had assured him that the intent would govern the legal

MAN STABS WIFE IN L. A. POLICE STATION

Strauss, a dagger in his hand, was arrested on a charge of assault with intent to commit murder, while his wife was removed to the receiving hospital for treatment of a wound in her side.

The Strauss couple, married six months, met in the station and were advised by police to settle their differences amicably. They walked into an anteroom and a few minutes later the officers heard Mrs. Strauss scream. They ran in to find her dangerously wounded. Strauss offered no resistance.

POLICE RESERVES, STRIKERS IN CLASH

Several of the strikers, many of them girls, were reported to have been injured when police broke up the strikers' demonstration.

When police ordered the strikers not to congregate in front of their places of employment, the crowd rushed police. A committee went to the West Thirtieth street police station to protest against what they charged was unnecessary violence by police. More than 8000 dressmakers and raincoat makers are out on strike, which began this morning. The raincoat makers are trying to renew their old agreement with the Manufacturers' association, while the dressmakers are trying to force union condition in their industry, which is overwhelmingly non-union.

MRS. SCHROEDER AND DAGUE FILE APPEAL

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Aug. 26.—(UP)—Defense counsel today began its final fight to save Irene Schroeder, former Wheeling, W. Va., waitress, and gun-girl, from the electric chair. An appeal from the decision refusing a retrial of her death sentence verdict was filed with the supreme court here.

Similar action was filed for Glenn Dague, who with Mrs. Schroeder, was convicted of first degree murder in the Brady Paul slaying last December. The appeal asked a stay of execution until the case had been received by the high court.

OIL PRODUCTION IN OKLAHOMA BOOSTED

TULSA, Okla., Aug. 26.—(UP)—Stringent probation rules failed to have much effect on new producers in Oklahoma during the past week and oil production increased 28,530 barrels over the previous week, the weekly report of the Oil and Gas Journal showed today.

Total production for Oklahoma for the week ending August 23 was 566,335 barrels compared to 537,755 for the previous week. The Oklahoma City field showed the largest increase with a jump of 37,595 barrels, due mostly to new completions.

ARIZONA CANDIDATES WAGE BITTER FIGHT

PHOENIX, Ariz., Aug. 26.—(UP)—Democratic gubernatorial candidates have entered the final two weeks of their campaign activities with a verbal barrage on their stand against or for certain measures.

Fred D. Coulter, who addressed a large audience at Scottsdale last night, declared those who have been charged with safeguarding of Arizona's fights in the Colorado river, "had failed miserably."

"The future of Arizona is doomed unless her great water supply is conserved," he declared. "The demand for water is increasing daily. The Colorado is our only source of supply and the only hope for the future."

RESCUE SHIP GETS HONOLULU CHEERS

HONOLULU, Aug. 26.—(UP)—The Ventura, rescue ship for the passengers of the stricken Tahiti that floundered recently in the South seas, arrived here today amid cheers from a large crowd that assembled to welcome Capt. W. R. Meyer and his crew.

A special tug, loaded with an official committee and 15 Hawaiian maidens who sang Alohas, advanced into the bay to meet the rescue ship.

Eighty-eight passengers from the Tahiti were aboard. As many of them as space will permit will continue to San Francisco when the Ventura leaves this afternoon. The rest will follow on the steamer Maui, which departs for the same destination Wednesday.

FLOWERS SENT "MA" KENNEDY BY EVANGELIST

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 26.—(UP)—Mrs. Minnie A. Kennedy, surrounded by $100 worth of flowers sent by her evangelist daughter, Aimee Semple McPherson, indicated today that the family quarrel is all over—except for one little detail.

"I shall insist," Mrs. Kennedy said, "that sister pay for my two nasal operations, even if I have to sue."

Mrs. Kennedy has charged she received the injuries to her nose in an altercation with her daughter. Mrs. McPherson insists the injury was received when her mother

FRANKIE CAMPBELL, FIGHTER, DIES FROM INJURIES IN BOUT

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 26.—Frankie Campbell, 25, local heavyweight boxer, died today from injuries received when he was knocked out last night in the fifth round of his fight with Max Baer of Livermore.

Police were immediately dispatched to the downtown hotel where Baer has been detained since the fight, instructed to arrest him on a technical charge of manslaughter.

At St. Joseph's hospital, Campbell never rallied from cerebral concussion induced by one or several heavy head blows administered in the course of a close and savage battle.

Aith his young wife and aged mother waiting in an anteroom, Campbell died at 11:45 a. m.

In addition to ordering Baer's arrest, Police Chief William J. Quinn also ordered that everyone connected with staging the fight be brought to the hall of justice for questioning.

DEATHS

A WORD OF COMFORT

It would be stupid to invite a blind man to look at a beautiful picture or to suggest to a cripple that he be entered in a footrace.

It is no less vain for people to urge you, a broken-hearted man, to rise in your own strength and make something splendid and fine of yourself. You simply can not do it.

But God has not left you alone. When you take Him into your confidence and enter into His the story is different. Even that seemingly impossible thing of transforming and uplifting your life is within His power, and He yearns to give you the satisfaction of your deepest needs.

SMITH—In Santa Ana, August 25, Mary Alameda Smith, aged 66 years. Mrs. Smith, a resident of this city for more than twenty years, is survived by her husband, Ernest W. Gilbank, of Arcadia, California; one sister, Mrs. W. L. Valentine, of Hiawatha, Kansas; two brothers, the Rev. E. L. Geyer, of Baldwin, Kansas, and N. H. Geyer, of Leavenworth, Kansas. Services will be held from the Winbigler Funeral home, Wednesday, August 27, at 10 a. m., followed by interment in the Fairhaven Cemetery.

COCHRAN—August 25, 1930, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John L. Cochran, Rural Route No. 5, Santa Ana; Vada Ruth Cochran, age 15 months. MARKEL GIVEN CONTRACT FOR NEW BUILDING

Awarding of the contract for the erection of a three-story and basement, 40 foot addition, to the Santa Ana telephone building to Jules Markel and son was announced by E. S. Morrow, district manager of the Southern California Telephone company. Approximately $30,000 will be expended for the new structure, work on which was started yesterday.

The new portion of the building will be similar in design to the present building. It will be of reinforced concrete and brick and will be placed directly to the rear of the present central office. Rapid growth of the Santa Ana exchange and increase in long distance traffic has created a need for additional space for switchboard

Work on the addition is to be completed about the middle of October, in time to start the installation of three additional sections of long distance switchboard about November 1. The equipment will be placed in service during the early part of 1931 and will provide facilities to care for long distance traffic growth for the next few years. Today the Santa Ana operators handle approximately 35,500 inter-exchange, 12,100 incoming and 2550 originating long distance calls daily, a total of more than 50,000 calls. Five years ago they handled approximately 18,400 local, 2600 incoming, and 1100 long distance calls daily, or a total of more than 22,100 calls. There are now more than 7068 telephones in the Santa Ana exchange, while five years ago the number was 4604.

Three calculagraphs, or large time clocks, have been ordered for the new section of long distance switchboard. A ticket, giving a complete record, is made out for each long distance call at the time it is placed with the operator. The ticket is laid alongside the calculagraph, located in front of the operator, and the time stamped at the moment the conversation commences. When both parties have finished talking, the operator makes a second record on the ticket by use of the machine. Thus the exact hour, minute and second the conversation began and ended are recorded.

Arab Steed Given French President

PARIS, Aug. 26.—(INS)—The president's new Arab steed recently presented to him by a Chieftain on his visit to Algeria, marched in the big parade on Bastille Day and then went off to his new stables of the president near the Pont de l'Alma. There is no accommodations for horses at the Elysee Palace. The horse will be one of a company which can boast of illustrious masters, for these are the quarters where live the chargers of the Marshals of France. One of his near neighbors will be the horse of Papa Joffre which the Marshall has not ridden for two years.

AUDIENCE UNABLE TO HEAR SHULER

A group of people who gathered in Birch park last night with the understanding they were to hear over the radio an address by the Rev. "Bob" Shuler, on behalf of Buron Fitts, were unable to hear the address when it was found that lights in the park had not been turned on and the amplifying equipment was not ready for use.

Charles Havens, one of those interested in the meeting, appeared before the city council at its meeting last night and the council informed him that it then was too late to act on his request for use of the park inasmuch as the custodian had not been notified to make arrangements for the proposed meeting. Havens said he had talked to a member of the council about the meeting several days ago, but the council explained to him that a formal request should be acted on by that body before the park could be used.

BLIND STUDENT IS DOUBLE FOR LINDY

BATON ROUGE, La., Aug. 26.—(INS)—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh has a double in Diedrich Ramke, a 23-year-old senior at the Louisiana State university, who strikingly resembles the famous aviator in appearance.

And Ramke is like the "Lone Eagle" in courage and persistence for, despite the fact that he is totally blind, he has proved himself a leader on the campus and in the classroom.

Ramke has a deep admiration for Lindbergh, his famous double, whom he hopes to meet some day.

Engaged in its fourth contest with other offices of the same company throughout California, the Santa Ana office of the Jefferson Standard Life Insurance company, of Greensboro, N. C., is running neck and neck with the Los Angeles office. The local branch, which is under the direction of James H. Sewell, Southern California agency supervisor, has shown its heels to all other offices in the state in the three previous contests.

In the present contest, which resulted from a challenge issued by Sewell, the San Francisco office is running in third place. The contest will close on the last day of August and the Santa Ana workers are again expecting victory. Men who are assisting in the contest are E. C. Cornett, who has been in life insurance business for the past eight years; George T. DeRoulhac, former Orange county manager for a vacuum cleaner company and D. B. Mason, formerly connected with a Santa Ana roofing concern. M. E. Beebe is the Anaheim agent for the company.

Since the Santa Ana office opened at the first of the year, the men working out of this office have written $600,000 in insurance, Sewell reported. The company with which he is connected has made an unusual growth during the first six months of the year, as shown by reports to the semi-annual meeting of the directors at the home office. Julian Price, president of the company, reported a gain of $2,067,000 in assets for that period, reaching a total of $50,813,000. New business amounting to $28,653,700 is in force in the 25 states in which this company operates.

DOLLAR STORE MAN ACQUIRES HILL INTEREST

E. H. Elmer, who has for the past three years been in charge of the Santa Ana branch of one of the large Dollar store chains, has acquired an interest along with J. S. Hill in the Hills Dollar store at Fourth and Broadway, which has been in operation for the past two years.

Elmer has had a wide and varied experience in the Dollar store field of merchandising. This, and his unlimited confidence in the future growth of Santa Ana, he states will make it possible to give patrons even greater values in his new store.

Plans have been completed for extensive interior and exterior alterations in the present Hill store. New merchandise from eastern markets is now enroute to Santa Ana, and when completed, Elmer stated the Hill Dollar store will be one of the most up to date dollar stores in Orange county.

A close out sale of the present stock of the Hill store will start Thursday at 9 a. m., under the direct supervision of Elmer, who stated that the contractors and carpenters must have room quickly so all profits and costs will be forgotten for this sale.

Elmer expressed to the people of this city his appreciation for the wonderful support given him during his three years of serving them in his former position and stated that, with the fine and modern Dollar store that he formerly managed and the newly remodeled Hill Dollar store under his supervision, the thrifty shoppers of Santa Ana will be asured of values equaled by no other city in Orange county, for one dollar.

MAKES CHANGE

POSTPONE GAME IN LOCAL CITY LEAGUE

Santa Ana City leaguers preferred watching the Stars play Whittier to playing themselves last night and as a result only one end of a scheduled double-header was run off and that was semi-official, neither the umpire nor the scorekeeper appearing at the park.

The Dennis Printers unexpectedly defeated the strong Richfield Oil company, 8 to 2. Everett Lutz, making his debut as a pitcher, stopped the Oilers with four hits.

The Auto club-Excelsior creamery game was postponed.

U. S. Cars Travel 168 Billion Miles

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—(INS)—The 26,501,443 passenger cars, motor trucks and buses in the United States traveled approximately 168 billion miles last year, according to estimates just completed by the Chicago Motor club.

Average gasoline consumption for the machines was 12 miles per gallon, according to the club's calculators.

Authority to discontinue its street car service between Santa Ana and Orange, substituting therefore an adequate bus service, to be operated by the Motor Transit company, was granted the Pacific Electric at the regular city council meeting held last night. The authority for abandoning the street car service was contained in a resolution adopted by the council.

It was granted, however, on the distinct understanding that the Pacific Electric remove the double track on North Main between Fourth and Sixth streets, and replace the same with a single track, the change to be made at such time as requested by the city authorities.

While no time was set for the abandoning of the street car service, the communication from the Pacific Electric stated that the company is desirous of making the change at the earliest practicable date.

While it was the desire of the city authorities to have the transportation company remove the street car tracks on North Main street, a request to that end was withdrawn because the tracks are needed for handling freight traffic. Such traffic, however, will only be handled at night, it was explained.

Dr. K. H. Sutherland, county health officer, who also is acting as city health officer, appeared before the council with a request that the present ordinance governing the keeping of animals and fowls, including chickens, on residence lots, be changed to extend the distances prescribed in which animals may be near dwellings used for residence purposes. In case of larger animals, such as horses, cows and the like, the distance was changed from 50 to 75 feet from a dwelling, and in case of fowls, including chickens, the distance was changed from 25 to 50 feet. The prohibitory clause applies to any dwelling used for residence purposes, including that occupied by the owner of the animals and irrespective whether located on the owner's lot or adjoining property. Dr. Sutherland said that a number of complaints had reached his office regarding noise as well as other undesirable conditions resulting from keeping chickens on small lots.

A request was received from the Santa Ana board of education, asking that steps be taken to put in sidewalks on all streets surrounding new schools now under construction. The request, the communication stated, was prompted as a safety measure for the children going to school. Lack of sidewalks would force the children to walk on the streets, it was explained.

Contract for paving Parton and St. Andrews streets, including a number of half-block streets, was awarded to P. P. Janich, Long Beach contractor, at $47,543.91. The improvement includes curbs and sidewalks. Altogether six bids were received.

BY RUTH ANDREWS

Announcement was made today that the regular weekly concert program which will be offered in Birch park next Thursday at 7:30 p. m. by Santa Ana Municipal band, under the direction of D. C. Cianfoni, will be especially dedicated to members of Santa Ana service clubs. Musical selections chosen for presentation are of popular nature, several having been taken from modern light operas.

James Sewell, local baritone, who is a favorite on service club programs, and who will be remembered for his leading role in "The Belle of Havana," light opera by Charles Wakefield Cadman, which was featured here in Santa Ana so successfully during last Music week festival, will appear as soloist on next Thursday evening's concert. Sewell will be accompanied by Miss Ruth Armstrong.

One of the most interesting selections from light opera to be offered will be a band arrangement from the appealing "Maytime," by Sigmund Romberg, composer of the sensationally popular "Desert Song." "Maytime" is equally admired for its many gems of melodic beauty.

Romberg, its composer, who has produced many very successful modern operettas, was born in Saga, Hungary, and as a young man studied engineering at the University of Vienna. Great love for piano and violin influenced him, however, toward a musical career.

Coming to American 14 years ago, Romberg's musical compositions were brought out in rapid succession. His first production, "The Whirl of the World" was quickly followed by eleven productions for the famous Winter Garden of New York City.

In addition to the famous "Desert Song" and "Maytime," some of Romberg's best-known works include "Blossom Time," "The Blue Paradise," "Sinbad," "Her Soldier Boy," "The Student Prince," "Robinson Crusoe, Jr.," "Bombo" and "Princess Flavia."

The overture "Morning, Noon and Night in Vienna," by F. von Suppe, another popular Austrian composer, will be offered, also a unique descriptive fantasie of modern style, "A Vision of Salone," by J. Bodewalt Lampe, suggested to its composer by the picturesque story of John the Baptist and Salome, the exotic dancing girl of Hebrew Bible lore.

AIR DISORDERS MINIMIZED BY MODERN PILOTS

DENVER, Aug. 26.—(INS)—Danger from "rolling sky ceilings"—an air condition that has been a bugbear to airplane pilots in mountainous states since the birth of aviation—has been reduced to an absolute minimum.

No longer are pilots who are flying over a country where the variation in the topography make the sky ceiling resemble a turbulent ocean forced to explore the upper regions and find to just what altitude they may elevate their planes before becoming engulfed in clouds of fog that once made mountain flying such a hazardous business.

Instead of following the old policy of "first hand exploration" the pilots need but look to the United States weather bureaus located along the arteries of air travel for the needed information. Every three hours the score of stations issue bulletins to transmountain flyers and thus add another victory in the battle to make transcontinental flying a safe undertaking.

Three years ago Julius M. Sherier, Denver district weather forecaster, began the development of such a series of aerial forecasts—forecasts that after passing through a long experimental stage have at last become practically infallible. The frequent reports supplied by the weather bureaus are of such accuracy and timeliness that they obviate any excuse for ignorance of air conditions.

A rough estimate of the ceiling may be made by the measurement of the altitude of the overhanging clouds, but in its safety campaign, the observation posts have developed a new and more precise system of calculation. Government forecasters now employ small balloons with a known rate of ascent, similiar to those that delight children. At night the height of the cloud covering is found by means of a ceiling protractors. This apparatus resembles a search light and reflects a beam of light upon the base of the clouds.

CLERK WORKS FOR 50 CENTS MONTHLY

PARIS, Aug. 26.—(INS)—Jean Delure, a clerk here, is not permitted to receive a salary greater than 2 cents a day. No matter how hard or how late he works, his pay check remains 12 cents a week, a possible 50 cents a month. M. Delure is forbidden to receive more, by the government, because he has a small income on which he can just live.

A law, passed in 1924, prevents any clerk benefitting from an income or pension, from receiving a salary which, added to that money, will amount to a greater sum than he earned previously. Many professors and other employes are suffering under this law. The case of Delure is being taken up by deputies here as an example of the evil wrought by such a law, and a movement is under way to take it off the books.

BEAR LATEST GOLF HAZARD

"Quit puttering-a-round and bear down on that club," is what Pronto, a small brown bear, guardian of the ninth hole at a miniature golf links in Los Angeles, probably was saying as he posed for this picture. Pronto is America's most unusual golf hazard and has a yearning for golf balls, which was developed when he was given one dipped in syrup to play with.

Tustin, California,
August 21, 1930.

Editor Register:—I wish to thank you for your editorial, "An Arraignment of American Education," in your issue of August 20. It shows an understanding of the situation that is necessary before the remedy can be used.

Mark Sullivan says in his book, "Our Times," that it was through William McGuffey's influence that our country gained its prestige. Why not have his readers made over and cut out the dead stuff and follow his advice about teaching the children to read, teaching the alphabet and the spelling of the words as he advises in footnotes and in his "First Reader?" He says "spelling is of the utmost importance in securing the progress of the young learners." Now the children must not learn to spell a word the first year and many children never get over the wrong start. I would add that the thorough teaching in mental arithmetic had a great deal to do with the thorough teaching of his (McGuffey's) time. Arthur Brisbane in L. A. Examiner, July 28, quotes Einstein as saying "The most important work the world has on hand is to improve the education of the young."

It is almost six years since I began to work for the children.

Sincerely yours,
ETTA GRIFFITH.

CHAPTER 22

Max Everett paced back and forth in the open space across the front of the darkening courtroom. He had thrust the empty chairs to one side to leave a clear passage for his tramping feet. From the rail of the jury box, past the deserted lawyers' table, to the side windows—from the windows past the table to the railing—sixteen paces, turn, sixteen paces.

He forced himself to cross the room and return ten times before looking again at the watch which he held open in his hand. There was a clock on the back wall of the courtroom, but its minute hand moved in a series of jerks, between which time stood still. The racing second hand of his watch was better—at least he could watch it move.

The jury had been out two hours and forty-three minutes. For two hours and forty-three minutes they had been balancing Aline's life in their hands. "No prejudice against the death penalty." But they couldn't do that to her? He veered sharply, shuddering away from the thought. The corner of the table struck his side, but he did not feel the pain of the blow; he merely pushed at the obstruction, blindly, and continued his tramping from railing to wall. Prison—prison would be a living death.

"Beyond reasonable doubt." What were they finding to say for two hours and forty-three minutes? How could those twelve minds determine her guilty or innocence—they, who did not even know her? Nine—ten. Two hours and forty-seven minutes now. Would they never come? Could he bear to have them come?

Midway between the judge's bench and the side wall he crossed a slanting oblong patch of light on the floor, from the open door of the judge's chambers. After accompanying Aline and the sheriff across the yard to the jail when the jury retired, he had slipped back to the courtroom, unnoticed by the newspapermen and lawyers who were whiling away the time of waiting inside. The courtroom was dark now, and he could consult his watch only when, once in ten times, he paused on the rim of the patch of light. Four of the men within were playing cards, the others were smoking and talking. Fragments of their chatter pierced his consciousness dimly.

"The wisest thing you ever did was not to cross-examine Kurtner. I've seen that done too often. He's an old hand at the game, and you can't trip him anywhere," someone was telling Linforth.

"Once when I was a boy I accepted a suggestion to put my tongue on a frosty iron pump handle—once was enough," Linforth laughed.

"It was great stuff, pulling Kurtner as a surprise witness—but all that technical jargon sometimes goes over the jury's head."

"That was a top-hole speech you made, anyhow—I wouldn't be surprised if it fetched 'em."

"I wouldn't bet a plugged nickel on the way any jury in creation is going to jump."

Max tried to recall just what it was that Linforth had said in his closing argument. He had held himself in his chair by main force while he listened—his hands had twitched to knock the man down. But he listened again in his mind now, trying to hear how it would sound to the jury.

"Would not any woman lie to save not only her reputation but her life? Her story of an unselfish motive which led her to take a gun in her hand and shoot down an unarmed man is an obvious attempt to play upon your sympathies. Against that tale of outraged sisterly love is a misconduct so bold, so brazen that it has come to the knowledge of all of you."

Travis had objected to that. Objected! Linforth had dragged her through the mud, and Max could not save her. He could only sit, white-lipped, and hear Travis "object." The objection was sustained, but what did that matter? The mud had found its mark.

"Will you allow her pretty face to free this woman from the consequences of a brutal crime?" Linforth had turned even her beauty against her, had taunted the jury until they would be ashamed to free her lest they be suspected of weak susceptibility. "A high priced, smart city lawyer has come to you, has presented as evidence the technical jargon of a college professor. But it dosen't take a knowledge of chemistry to see plain facts. It doesn't take a college education. Hard common sense which the citizens of Hangtown possess in good measure, even if they don't wear silk shirts, is quite sufficient."

Thus he had enflamed the age-old antagonism between city and country—the antagonism which had already flared against Aline, and which, to be fair to them, she had done nothing to alleviate.

"Ladies and gentlemen, I will not try to impress and confuse you with talk of forensic ballistics and chemical analysis. I will speak to you of simple facts. It requires no laboratory to place before you a woman with motive, opportunity and disposition to commit this murder. Her act, by her own showing, was not unpremeditated. She had to find her husband's pistol, take it with her, walk down the path to the lodge—and, to make her evil purpose sure of accomplishment, fire not one shot but two, at a helpless, unarmed man. The defense of temporary insanity is too often invoked in such cases; but she did not even dare to plead that threadbare defense—it would be too absurd in the face of her conduct.

"By her own confession she killed Don Mortison. She does not deny that she fired the shot into his lung which, regardless of any other shot, would in itself have been a mortal wound."

Travis had objected to that as an opinion for which there was no evidence. They had wrangled about "reasonable inference," Max remembered. The judge had separated them like quarreling children, and Linforth had gone on to his horrible conclusion.

"Even her own version of the events of that afternoon is not a legal defense. Ladies and gentlemen, there is no question of justifiable homicide in this case, no question of the protection of another. She had tried to whitewash her motive, to make you believe that it was outraged love, not hate, which took her down that path with the pistol in her hand. It was indeed outraged love, but not sisterly love. It was jealousy, fear of discovery of her liasion, the guilt in her heart before guilt had yet touched her hands, which led Aline Everett to commit wilful and premeditated murder!"

The steps of the man in the dark courtroom insensibly quickened. He remembered that Travis' hand had clutched his arm in a vice of steel, or he would have jumped from his place and struck Linforth full across the mouth.

Three hours and five minutes. Were they recalling Linforth's words, even as he recalled them?

The voices of the bridge players drifted out to him, suddenly loud.

"Well, I went down two," Travis' clear, unruffled voice was saying, "but I got every trick to be had out of the hand—against any defense."

Yes, Travis had got every trick out of the hand, but he had lost it nevertheless. "Against any defense." The words repeated themselves with symbolic meaning to the rhythm of Max's tread. Travis had daring and subtlety; he appraised every detail of the situation before him, took into account every minute effect. But he was not at his best as a jury leader; the one element outside his control was his own nature. He knew well the value of emotional appeal—but such an appeal, falling from his lips, would have been a burlesque, defeating its own purpose by its incongruity.

Yet there had been a sense of restrained power in the man as he stood before the jury and addressed them without gesticulation, in his clear, incisive voice. The drive of intellect was there—but would it sway the man and women of a Hangtown jury? Could he compel them to follow by the sheer force of his terse reasoning? He had cut clean as a scalpel to the vital points of the case—but would they feel those sure knife-thrusts as they had felt the bludgeoning of Linforth's appeal to their emotions?

"I do not ask your sympathy for my client," he had said. "There have been times, as we all know, when the youth and beauty of a defendant have swayed the deliberations of such a body as this, leading them away from the strict and narrow path of justice. The prosecution has warned you to beware of this appeal to your instincts of chivalry. But I warn you that if personal attractiveness does not imply innocence, neither is it an indication of guilt. I warn you lest in your commendable determination to stand upright you should bend backwards, and commit the injustice which you are most anxious to avoid. I do not ask that you show her mercy because she is a woman. I ask that you judge her, not according to her sex and age and personality, but only according to the facts before you. I ask that you do not condemn her for those things to which she was born and which she cannot help. I do not ask you to approve those things—I only ask that you dissociate them from the one question with which we are concerned.

"Would you condemn her because he rtraining has been different from yours? You may visit on the results of that training the full weight of your moral condemnation. But remember, we are not here to judge of Mrs. Everett's character. We are here to decide only one thing—not whether she is such a woman as you admire, but only whether she killed Don Mortison.

"Insinuations of her misconduct have been allowed to reach your ears in this court, although you have been cautioned to disregard them. Against that gossip I would call to your attention only one thing—the attitude of the husband who has sat beside her throughout this trial. Max Everett, though he came among you as a stranger, is the type of man whom you can all understand. Would any man, deceived and betrayed, a man whose wife had slain her lover, uphold her with the absolute, unaltered confidence which Max Everett has displayed?

"Look in your own hearts, and then look upon the face of this husband—and tell me whether the faces of any one of you could fail to show the torment of jealousy, of outraged trust, if there was justification for these suspicions. Against the gossip of outsiders I place the belief in her integrity of the person who knows her best, and who would be most sensitive to her failure to keep faith with him."

Thank God—thank God for that! Max had felt so passive, so helpless; but perhaps he had been of some aid after all.

Then, as if he had cleared the ground for the single vital issue, Travis had thrown back his shoulders and raised his tall, lean figure to its full height. His voice was not raised, but it seemed to burn with a white, vibrant flame, like an acetylene torch.

"I tell you frankly, ladies and gentlemen, that the defense stands or falls by the testimony of one man—Emil Kurtner. I do not ask you to bow to him as an expert; I only ask you to understand him. The prosecution has cast slurs upon the 'technicalities' of this testimony. But that testimony is supported by two witnesses who are far from technical. Remember that Mr. Piper, a disinterested witness, noted that the body of Don Mortison was already stiffening when he found it. Remember that Mrs. Everett was puzzled because Mortison did not look up when she stood in the doorway and fired through the window. And remember that when they noted these things, neither one of them knew the meaning of what they saw!

"The prosecution has asked you to rely on common sense against the findings of experts. True, you have not made an intensive study of bullets nor of chemistry. But you are also experts. You know sheep—and you know mines. You grade those sheep according to certain characteristics. Suppose I came to you and told you that you were wrong—that it was impossible to tell a good sheep from a bad one, because all sheep look alike to me. Suppose I came to you with a bit of rock in my hands, and you told me that the shining streak across its surface was not gold, but worthless quartz. These things are beyond my knowledge, but they are not beyond yours—therefore I would believe you, because you know. And if you explained to me how you knew, I would listen and try to understand."

Yes, he had somehow made Emil Kurtner one of them. He had not touched upon the great criminologist's record of wizardy, his lofty attainments and international reputation. Max wondered what Kurtner would have thought if he had heard himself placed on a level with ranchmen and prospectors. And then, at the end, Travis had swung back to the tone of his beginning.

"I do not ask you to approve of this woman. But I offer you a challenge. I challenge you, because you disapprove of much that she has done, to make a special effort therefore to be fair to her—to find her not guilty of the crime which was beyond her power to commit, since it had already been committed."

As Travis' voice dropped, Max had looked at the jury with agony in his eyes. With dull and inscrutable faces they had filed from the room. And a sthe familiar words were intoned, "Remember the admonition of the court—" Aline had faced them, and, withdrawing a red-and-gold cylinder from her bag, had deliberately rouged her lips.

She asked no quarter! There was magnificence in the sublime folly of her pride. But did they see—as Max saw—that the arched line of the lip-stick wavered and broke in an unguided smear of red across her mouth?

Nine—ten. As Max bent to look at his watch in the oblong path of light, he shook his head impatiently. He could not see. A shadow blocked the doorway. He flung out his arm as if to brush the shadow away, as Peter, with a casual glanceb ackward to make sure that his departure was unobserved, lounged from the light into the darkness of the courtroom.

Some OILS won't do....

An oil you may not be able to find when you want it, simply won't fill the bill. And if it won't meet the strain of summer driving — heat and speed — it won't do either.

SHAFER TALKS ON FARM EDUCATION

Editor's Note: The complete text of the talk by Ross Shafer, of which an extract is printed below, will be published in full on the Farm page of the Register next Saturday.

In a talk over KREG last night Ross Shafer, prominent Tustin orange grower and Farm bureau leader, discussed agricultural education and the need for it in Orange county.

"The educational committee of the Orange County Farm bureau, with the assistance and advice of some of the best specialists in agricultural education in California, have come to the conclusion that the introduction of a system of agricultural education in the schools of the county could best be brought about by making a start in one of the junior colleges," Shafer said.

He also pointed out that the cost of agricultural education had led the Farm bureau directorate to the consideration of a union of junior college districts.

SANTA ANA WINS LEAGUE CHAMPIONSHIP

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

One of the longest home runs ever hit was one Ruth socked over the right field wall at Shibe park, Philadelphia . . . The onion sailed over a row of apartment houses and landed on top of a house facing the second street beyond the park. . . . Customers sitting on the roofs of the houses to watch the ball game marked the spot where the ball landed, and the next day the distance it carried was measured. . . The apple flew just 481 feet before it fell. . . Jimmy Foxx once hit a ball over the double-decked left field stand. . . They measured that one also . . . and the tape showed 467 feet. . . Betting Commissioner Tom Shaw, in a fit of beautiful generosity, gave a bettor 150 to 1 on Jim Dandy in that race. . . . The gent laid 50 at that figure . . . which is better than a punt in the jodhpurs, but not for Tom Shaw.

BASEBALL REPARTEE

This Dan Taylor, they tell us, is a mean man with a word. His wise-cracking on and off the diamond has done much to relieve the strain under which the Cubs have been battling.

Dan is the new face and voice in the Cub outfield. He has been taking the place of "Old Hoss" Stephenson, who hasn't been feeling so well lately. Dan came to the Cubs this year from Reading, where he led the league in hitting last season with a mark of .367. He was up in the big show once before, with Washington, but drifted to Memphis. His home is Lash, Pa.

Dan is new to the big leagues, but a member of a very old school of baseball players, the same school that graduated "Rabbit" Maranville and some others with a quick tongue and the ability to use the right word in a tough spot. During the recent crucial series in which the Cubs battled Brooklyn, Dan got off what "Gabby" Hartnett tells us he thinks is the best wisecrack of the season.

It popped out while the Cubs were at bat. There was a runner on third and one out, with "Hack" Wilson at bat. The Brooklyn infielders moved in. Dan Taylor shouted over to your Uncle Wilbert:

"Hey, Robbie! Do you see who's at bat? You better move back those infielders or next thing you'll have to pry one of your boys off the fence with a putty knife."

MINCES NO WORDS

As choir leader of the raucous-voiced kidders of the big leagues, we nominate Mickey Cochrane, with Dan Taylor in the role of what track handicappers call a "keen contender." His crack during the last world series cannot be forgotten.

It seems that during the game at which President and Mrs. Hoover were spectators, some very off-color language was being passed around by the players. Judge Landis heard it plainly from his box seat, figured the presidential party must be hearing it too, and told Messrs. McCarthy and Mack to have their boys be more discreet.

After the message was relayed to the players between innings, Cochrane put on his armor and went to the plate. The first Cub batsman was a little slow getting to the dish, and Mickey turned and called out in a quavering soprano voice, "Come on, girls, let's be up and doing."

GETTING GOATS

Sometimes kidding wins ball games. It was Dan Taylor's remark to Adolfo Luque, the hot-tempered Cuban, that sent Adolfo up in the air in the tenth inning of one of those hectic Cub-Dodger tilts.

Luque buzzed a fast one close to Danny's skull and Mrs. Taylor's boy shouted a few words to the Cuban that turned the back of Adolfo's neck a violent red. On the next pitch Luque, blind with rage, laid one through the middle and Danny drive in the winning run.

What di d Danny say to Adolfo? It went something like this:

"Hey, there, Luque, did anybody ever tell you you're a ? ! " * ??"

FEAR FOR LIFE OF FIGHTER IN RING CONTEST

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 26.—Frankie Campbell, heavyweight boxer who has been unconscious since he was knocked out here last night by Max Baer, has only a fighting chance to live.

Following an examination at 9 a. m., when Campbell had been unconscious for 10 hours, the three physicians in attendance announced that it was doubtful that Campbell ever would regain consciousness.

A withdrawal of Campbell's spinal fluid, physicians reported, showed that blood from the brain pan has entered the spinal column. The spinal fluid, it was reported, is badly discolored by blood.

The brain is suffused with blood clots.

Campbell Falls Unconscious

Campbell slumped to the ring, unconscious, during the fifth round of a scheduled 10-round match. Baer's right and left handed punches to his head as he sagged against the ropes in a corner and forced him to drop his hands and his knees suddenly collapsed under him.

"He is suffering from cerebral contusions," Dr. Frank Sheehy, surgeon, said tersely after a three-hour examination. "The prognosis is poor. The critical stage will continue 24 hours."

Baer, who had gone to his home in Oakland, shortly after the fight, returned here early today at the request of Captain Frederick Lemon of the police department. Lemon asked that Baer spend the remainder of the night with Ancil Hoffman, promoter of the match, at a downtown hotel so that he would be close at hand if officials wanted him.

Outcome Stuns Fans

The outcome of the contest stunned 15,123 fans who had paid $35,106.74 to see the bout and jammed Recreation park.

For more than 15 minutes Dr. Sheehy tried to bring Campbell back to consciousness while he lay in the ring. Almost forgotten was the fact that Campbell had lost his claim as the outstanding heavyweight in the far west to the youthful and comparatively inexperienced Baer.

An emergency hospital ambulance was called when those at the ringside became more apprehensive and Campbell was taken to St. Joseph's hospital.

Dr. Edmund Morrissey, brain specialist, was asked to help in the attempt to save the San Francisco boxer's life, endangered by hemorrhages in the brain.

Priest Is Summoned

Dr. Tilton Tillman, family physician, reached the hospital with close relatives of Campbell and joined the other two physicians.

Campbell, 25 years old and a local pride, has been in the ring for five years. He had knocked out his last 13 opponents. Baer, who weighed 197 pounds, or 15 pounds more than his opponent, has only been boxing professionally for a year but in that time he has been considered as having the possibilities of Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion who started on his road to fame in the same park, and has scored 19 knockouts in 26 fights. He is 21.

Floored In First Round

In the first round Baer sent Campbell down for a nine count but the local boxer came back, apparently still strong. He smashed hard punches against Baer's jaw a half dozen times and was plainly discouraged when they failed to slow up his opponent. He held the margin in the third round.

Then in the fifth Campbell fell back against the ropes and, as many near the ringside shouted for Referee Toby Irwin to stop the contest, he collapsed.

STARS BEAT QUAKERS, 6-4, CAPTURE TITLE SERIES IN THREE SUCCESSIVE GAMES

Santa Ana's Stars today were in the green pastures of honey and plenty—the promised land of night baseball.

Undisputed champions of the National Night league as a result of their third successive triumph over Whittier, 6-4, at Whittier last night, the Stars rested on laurels honorably won after a 39-game, four-month season while their board of strategy prepared to go in executive session tonight to determine when and where they start against Colton a series for the Southern California championship.

"Absence makes the heart grow fonder," sings the terrible radio tenor—but he doesn't know the half of it.

None but the Santa Ana Stars themselves know the tremendous satisfaction derived from their return to Championland, vacated after a year of occupancy in 1928. None but the players realize the obstacles, the difficulties, the problems surmounted in this pellmell drive to the top—an offensive inspired by developments of the most interesting and unusual season in the history of after-dinner baseball.

Beat "String" Again

The Stars cinched the series by beating for the second time the lanky ace of "Rube" Ellis' pitching staff—"String" McDonnell.

It was a bitter quarrel, Whittier "shooting the works" in a desperate effort to prolong the playoffs, but in the final analysis class told. The Quakers' defense cracked wide open in the seventh and eighth innings, admitting Santa Ana's winning runs, while the hardy Stars, behind most of the way, tightened up in the late rounds and breezed in behind the amazing pitching of an amazing pitcher, "Iron Man" Joe Cornelius.

Joe Cornelius

Cornelius won his third straight game of the series and the twenty-third of the season last night.

In three games against the Quakers, Cornelius allowed a total of 14 hits, an average of less than five for each contest. He struck out 27, an average of 9. He walked two, an average of less than one.

Cornelius Finishes Fast

Whittier had him "on the spot" for awhile. Ellis' disciples were ahead in the fourth inning and again in the sixth but when the Stars took the lead again in the seventh, Cornelius closed tighter than a vise, putting a little flourish to his remarkable work by fanning five of the last six men to face him. He struck out 12 during the entire ordeal.

The Stars worked diligently for their first run which came in the third inning without the assistance of a hit. "Eeny" Wilcox walked, went to second on a passed ball, to third on Cornelius' sacrifice bunt and scored easily on Darwin Scott's sacrifice fly to Jertberg, a line drive on which Jertberg made a nice jumping catch.

Whittier equalled this with a rally which threatened for a moment to assume dangerous proportions. Rasmussen beat out a high bounder to Scott and scored all the way from first when McDonnell's grounder went between Hunter and Hill for a double. The Santa Ana outfield was playing deep for

Santa Ana and Colton will play the first game of their Southern California night baseball championship series in the Santa Ana Bowl Friday, if tentative arrangements are approved at a meeting here tonight of team representatives and officials of the associations concerned.

Although these plans are not definitely official, tickets for reserved seats to the series opener probably will go on sale tomorrow at 8 a. m. at the El Corral service station and Baker's bakery.

"Gavvy" Cravath of Laguna Beach, president of the Southern California association; George Peterkin and Elmer Coble, presidents of the National and American leagues, and John Wilcox and Hubert Finley, Santa Ana and Colton business managers, assemble at the courthouse tonight to work out all plans for the "little world series."

M'GRAW'S CLUB FAILS TO PLAY UP TO ABILITY

BY DAVIS J. WALSH
(I. N. S. Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—Word is being bandied about today that Jewel Ens, who became manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates last year before his presence of mind could come to the rescue, may finish on the shady side of the eight-ball as far as the 1931 season is concerned, which reminds me that the Giants are back home with John McGraw after their collapse in Chicago. In order to keep the record straight, the Giants alone collapsed in Chicago. Mr. McGraw was exclusive. He did his collapsing here.

Anyhow, it is not my purpose to compare Mr. McGraw with Jewel Ens, who after all never suspected he was a manager until Barney Dreyfuss told him he was; yet the fact is that Ens will do no worse than fourth with a four-place club—considering its sundry injuries — whereas Mr. McGraw seems about to finish second with the best team in the National league, if not in all baseball.

McGraw's Interlude

I wouldn't care to say that the parade, so to speak, has passed Mr. McGraw. He has won no pennants in six years but he hasn't lost this one yet and, besides, it has always been a principle with me to make sure that a man is down before you kick him.

Assuming that the Cubs will win this time—and, after all, one is entitled to assume something for a team that wins six out of eight from the two clubs it has to beat

TON OF BOXERS ON FOUST CARD HERE THURSDAY

Always striving to strike a popular chord with fighting fandom, Promoter H. T. Foust of the Orange County Athletic club does another "unusual" this week when he sends to the post more than a ton of boxers.

Thursday night's program will consist of seven bouts having a grand total of 34 rounds. None but heavyweights, middleweights and welterweights are on the card.

Promoter Foust originally intended to use Romeo Lemon against Johnny DeCorsey in a main event that would have been Lemon's first match at Delhi this year but Foust scratched the affair when the fans failed to enthuse over the prospects.

Instead Foust brings on a program that fairly teems with color, especially as to nationality. White, black, brown and red men are among the participants. Some of them are new faces, some old.

Jack Haywood and Vic Pertley, 200-pounders, meet in the windup. Frank Rudzinski and Leroy Haynes, 190-pounders, collide in the semi-final, and Bert Smith and "Red Feather" Cadena have it in the special event. Smith and Cadena, 150-pounders, are the lightest men on the card, Haywood and Pertley the heaviest.

Foust believes the O'Hannigan match will steal the whole show. The Irish boy is said to be funnier than "Red" Millet or Melvin Bobo.

The promoter is using all the "beeg strong fellers" in an effort to qualify an opponent for "Dynamite" Jackson who is signed to show at Delhi in September. Foust also announces he has arranged to bring here next month Santiago Zorrilla and Tim Charles, both nationally ranked fighters.

AMERICAN AND BRITISH TRACK STARS GATHER

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—(INS)—Chicago received as its guests today the cream of track and field athletes of both the United States and the British empire.

Both squads, comprising the greatest group of stars which has been brought together in America, were to arrive here for the British-American track and field meet at Soldier field tomorrow night.

The United States team, 66

strong, chosen after Saturday's tests in the National A. A. U. meet at Pittsburgh, will arrive an hour before the British squad and will greet the empire squad when it detrains from Hamilton, Ont., Lord Burghley captains the British squad.

Knute Rockne, football mentor of Notre Dame university, will be the principal speaker at a noon luncheon attended by Governor Louis Emmerson, Hon. Godfrey Haggard, British consul general in Chicago and Baron Latour, president of the International Amateur federation.

PIPING 'EM OFF

Wayne Nelson's injured shoulder was troubling the star outfielder and he was unable to take his usual station so Leavitt Daley was shifted from second base to patrol the important "beat" in center field, Darwin Scott breaking into the lineup again at second base. Both men attended to their chores brilliantly.

Joe Cornelius has won 23 games and lost 3 this season for an average of .885. The more the big fellow pitches the better he goes, always a good sign in a moundsman. He is very popular with the fans.

Tom Denney and "Red" Moon were "little cousins" to Cornelius and Randolph Bell a close relation to McDonnell during the series. Although these hitters are ordinarily dangerous, Bell fanned seven times and Denney and Moon expired six times. Bell and Moon both whiffed four times last night.

Catching as much as pitching decided the playoffs. "Eeny" Wilcox was so much better behind the bat than Ted Rasmussen there was hardly any comparison. Wilcox caught even more brilliantly than ever whereas poor Rasmussen got worse and worse. He let so many pitches go through him, "String" McDonnell finally lost his temper.

"Gavvy" Cravath, president of the Southern California Night Baseball association, was at the game. So was George W. Peterkin, prexy of the National Night league. Interested spectators, too, were Hubert Finley and Venn Botts, manager and ace pitcher, respectively, of the Colton Reds, next opponent for Santa Ana's Stars.

Umpire W. B. Wentz had a tough time at first base. The finest arbiter behind the bat in the lunar racket, Wentz booted three or four chances on the bases. He doesn't "kick" many, however, so the fans and players are inclined to pass up his few miscues. Wentz and "Shorty" Smith outclass the other guessers in the National Night league and should work the Southern California league games along with two officials from the American league.

McDonnell and Johns both went after "Rosy" Merrill's pop fly in the eighth inning, then let it fall through their gloves. That was a case where there were too many cooks.

Merrill is what is known as a "money player." The Rose has the exterior attitude of an old time professional ball player, taking good and bad as it happens to come along with the same nonchalance, but always goes better in the clinches. His double, with two on and two out, put the Stars back in the ball game last night. Teammates and opponents all agree that Merrill is the toughest man on the club to face in a pinch.

Bill Hunter is finding the eye that made him a much feared batsman with the champion Riverside team last summer. He hit the ball hard three times, twice safely. Hunter got a slow start because he had confined his playing to city league ball here and had not been looking at good pitching.

Scott also looks like the old Scott up there at the dish. Although he didn't get a hit, the little fellow smacked the ball right on the nose four times. His sacrifice fly to Jertberg missed being a home run by inches. It was a line drive that "Jerty" pulled down on the ends of his fingertips.

BERRY SETS RECORD AT S. A. SKEET CLUB

Walter W. Berry set a new Santa Ana Skeet club record when he broke a sensational string of 39 consecutive birds Sunday. His perfect mark of 25 was his second such record at the West Fifth street range.

SHOOTING with SHUTE

by DENNY SHUTE

A problem among many golfers, particularly those of the duffer class, is relaxation. They understand that the word means the remission of tension, but they seem to have trouble in finding that spot at which they are relaxed but retain firm control of their movements.

One can be free of stiffness or locked joints and still maintain firmness. Firmness allows a freedom of motion that is not to be found when tension or strain is on any particular section.

I have seen golfers who thought they had to relax to the extent that they were inclined to collapse. The result is that their swings are punchless.

True, gripping the club too tightly is an evil, but good shots do not come from a flabby grip. There must be a firm grip that still permits the flexibility in the wrists.

With regard to the hands, the club can be firmly held and in complete control by just four fingers, the third and fourth on the left hand and the thumb and forefinger of the right hand. And the flexibility remains in the wrists.

ORANGE, Aug. 26.—With the return of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Huscroft to Orange this week from Hollywood, residents of Orange were reminded of the remarkable model house that Huscroft made from cigar boxes and presented to his brother, W. A. Huscroft, real estate broker, at 119 West Chapman avenue.

J. A. Huscroft has a hobby of fashioning toys, models and various objects from wood and has achieved some very intricate and wonderful pieces of work. He is moving to Orange in a few days and will live at 229 North Glassell avenue. The house is now being remodeled.

The model house is two stories in height and measures 24 inches high and 20 inches square. Every piece of wood in the building is from cigar boxes and was fashioned with only a knife. On the many-angled roof is a cupola with a railing and pole on it. There are 30 windows and doors, each having 30 small holes carved in it. The effect is further carried out with tinfoil in the windows to look like glass with the sun on them.

The carving on the railings, windows and gables is very painstaking. There are over 1250 small opening, designs and grillwork on the house, all cut out with a knife. A large veranda runs around three sides of the house and a slat fence surrounds the yard. The model is mounted on a square foundation. There stairways mount to the porches. Very few nails were used in the structure, glue being the main medium of connection.

The house is painted white with brown trimmings. Every detail is in its regular place and even the smallest accessories are to be found. The model was given to W. A. Huscroft three years ago for a Christmas present and it was placed in the windows of his office for some time.

AIR SAFETY CONGRESS

PARIS, Aug. 23.—The first air safety congress is to be held here from December 10 to 25, under the patronage of President Doumergue. It is expected that representatives from all the countries of Europe, the United States, Japan, Canada, and other nations will attend. Devices and methods of promoting safety for planes will be discussed.

Birthday Party Held In Orange

ORANGE, Aug. 26.—Celebrating the birthday of G. A. Frerking, of 413 South Orange street, Miss Emma June Wettlin of 163 North Harvard street, held a birthday party Sunday afternoon and evening at her home.

Six couples enjoyed the three-course dinner at the Wettlin home, after which the party journeyed to a theater in Santa Ana. Those enjoying the hospitality of the Wettlin home were G. A. Frerking, John Tomblin, Miss Florence Campbell, Al Amling, Miss Isabell Jardine, Harold Leichtfuss, Miss Louise McKinley, Mike Santa Cruz, Miss Mary Malsed, Bris Richardson and Miss Betty Garroway.

TRANSFERRING OF LIGHTS IS STARTED TODAY

ORANGE, Aug. 26.—Work will start at once on the replacing and transferring of street light fixtures in various parts of Orange, it was learned today from C. C. Bonebrake, city engineer and street superintendent.

Some time ago, when the round globes on the standards in the plaza were replaced, the old globes were stored away. Having been authorized by the city council to change the globes in any manner he cared to, Bonebrake announced that the round lights from the old plaza standards will be put into service from the plaza to the railroad tracks on West Chapman avenue and the lights now in use on that street will be used for replacements over the eastern end of the city.

Bonebrake pointed out that the round globes are very similar to the General Electric fixtures now in use on North Orange street. The crew will start changing the lights this week.

Another step in the lighting system of Orange will be started when Bonebrake arranges an interview with Edison company officials relative to placing 17 new street lights on West Chapman boulevard from the Santa Ana boulevard to Orana. Lights are now on one side of the street and the new fixtures will be staggered on the other side. The lights will be of the overhead mast type with 250 candlepower globes. Arrangements are expected to be completed in a few days.

CHECK PASSER IS SOUGHT BY ORANGE POLICE

ORANGE, Aug. 26.—Police of Orange were searching today for a young man who appeared in Orange Sunday evening, cashed three worthless checks, tried to cash two more and then disappeared in a light sedan.

The three checks aggregated $15 and were all cashed in drug stores. Muellers, Harms and Dittmer's accepted the checks for $4.65 in payment for small articles but at Watson's and Simon's, the man was refused when he could produce no identification.

At the Watson store, Kellar Watson waited on the man, who bought castor oil and blackberry cordial. He signed the check George Woods but had an address on North Almond, which runs east and west. At all the stores, he used either the name Woods or Stoner while the checks were on the Bank of Italy, Orange branch.

The man was described as about 26 years of age, five feet seven inches tall, 150 pounds in weight and medium stature. He wore no coat, hat or tie and had a light shirt.

Meyer was brought before Justice of the Peace George Ingle yesterday and fined $300, after pleading guilty to the charge.

Meyer had plastered "Jernigan for Sheriff" signs over the building but this did not stop Chief Criminal Deputy Sheriff F. W. Howard and Deputies F. L. Humiston, Jess Buckles and Harry Carter from raiding the establishment. They found 20 pints of intoxicating liquor and a number of empty bottles in the service station, it was declared.

When brought before Ingle, Meyer was given the choice of a $300 fine or 300 days in jail. He chose the fine and promised to have the money on hand this morning. Carter appeared in court against him. It was said by Carter that Meyer was one of the largest distributors of alcohol in the northern section of Orange county.

BAKERY USES 2000 POUNDS FLOUR WEEKLY

ORANGE, Aug. 26.—It would take one hen over 20 months, if it layed one egg each day, to supply the eggs used in just one week at the bakery of the Alpha Beta store No. 10 at 118 East Chapman street.

And not only that, but quite a few heads of wheat are necessary to make the 2000 pounds of flour used weekly in bread, cake and other bakery products. Furthermore, 300 pounds of sugar came from a goodly number of sugar beets and one or two cows would have to work overtime to produce the 40 pounds of milk necessary.

In a small sunny room far back in the store, Kenneth Huston, Hooker Housley and Oran Asa tend to the big oven, mix doughs and batters and mold the loaves of bread. Their deft hands make short work of the heavy dough. Everything is accurately weighed before baking and the temperature of the oven is watched continually.

The dough is first allowed to rise in 80 degrees of heat. Cookies are baked at only 300 degrees, cakes take around 375 or 400 degrees and bread requires a mere 450 degrees. The pans are revolved in the oven on swinging trays resembling a miniature ferris wheel, which insures even baking and heat.

Besides the 2000 pounds of flour, 300 pounds of sugar and 40 gallons of milk each week, the bakery consumes 50 pounds of yeast, 25 pounds of raisins, 200 pounds of lard, 150 pounds of powdered sugar and $25 of gas for the oven.

About 500 loaves of bread are baked every day and 15 dozen buns. In a week's time, the bakery turns out over 1800 cookies, 300 pies, 100 chicken pies and a large number of cinnamon rolls. Parker house rolls and other forms of pastry.

A large mixer, resembling a cement mixer, is used to prepare the bread dough. Large curved arms revolve in the tub and mix the dough thoroughly. Another smaller machine is used for cake and pie doughs, being made to hold different types of mixers.

then they tried PARFAY

WE went to them to talk about shortening. Ten men and women, famous for their cooking skill! Gathered together, in a state famous for fine eating, to discuss the perfect shortening.

"Would it be possible," they asked, "to give the modern housewife an altogether modern product—to combine in one shortening all the special merits of every cooking fat she's ever tried?"

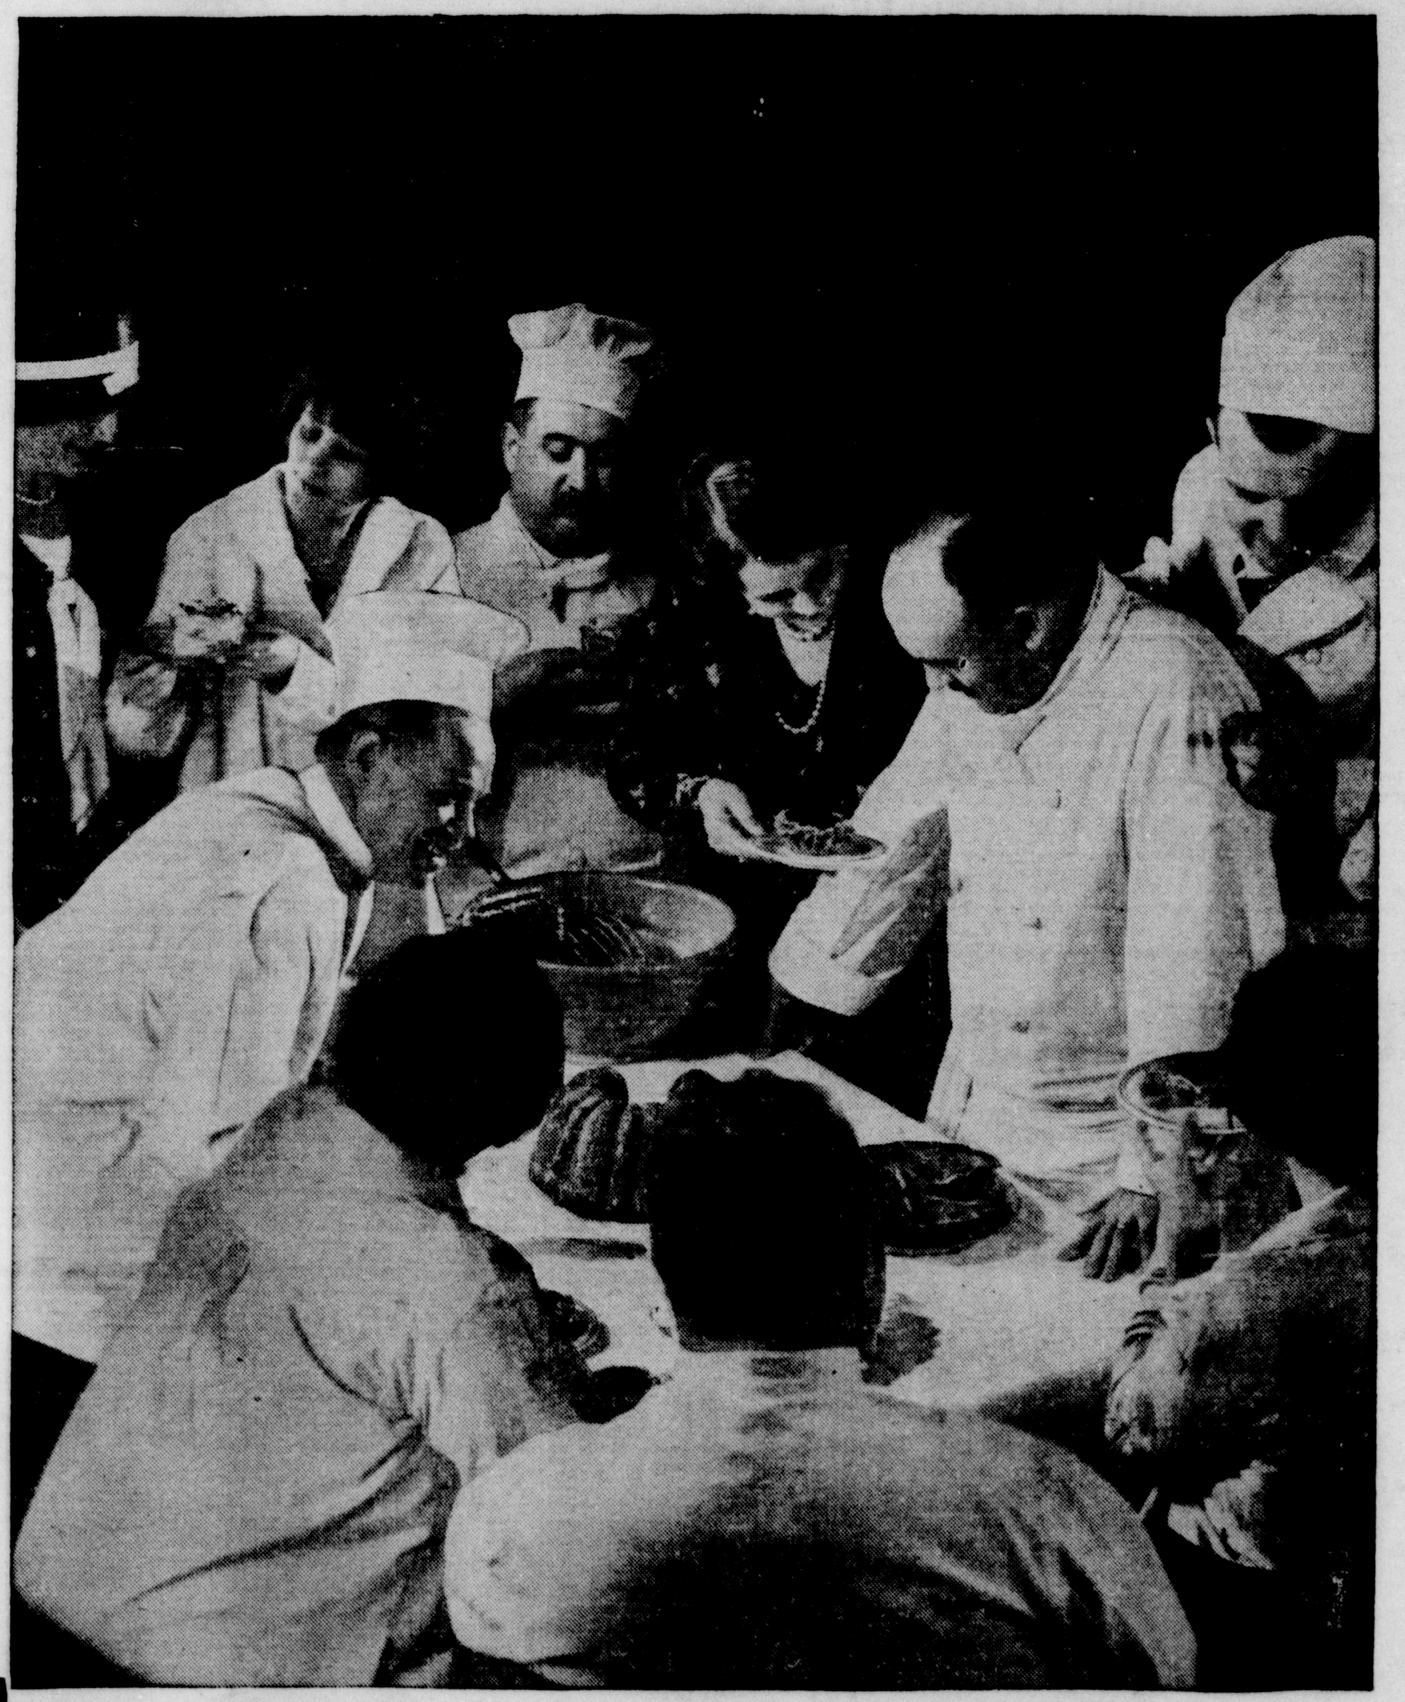

They listed their points—and all ten agreed on the qualities they wanted. Qualities you'd probably specify yourself. Yet no single shortening had ever possessed them all.

Then—Parfay was perfected! The new-type blended shortening, a product made in California to be passed upon by California experts!

They tested it in every conceivable fashion. They fried with it and mixed with it and baked with it. On every one of their points, Parfay scored beyond their hopes!

It creamed into sugar with a helpful spirit that turned cake making joyful. Dough slipped from the rolling pin in happy exuberance. Biscuits were marvels of fluffy tenderness. Doughnuts, fat circles with hunched brown shoulders, crisp and crunchy. Whatever they used Parfay for was irresistible. "Here, at last," they agreed, "is the ideal shortening!"

Parfay bears the Swift's Premium Quality Seal—the symbol of highest excellence and unvarying uniformity in food quality.

They all acclaim Parfay—these famous California cooking authorities! Belle de Graf, Maude D. Evans, Mildred Kitchen, and Prudence Penny, of Home Economics and newspaper fame; Mary K. Solari of Solari's, and Meyer of the Mark Hopkins; Iberti of the Hotel Oakland; Gregorio of Victor Hugo's, Ehlers of the Roosevelt, and Bassetti of the Ambassador.

Note the new convenience of Parfay's size and shape. A long and slim pound package which slips easily anywhere in the ice box. So easy to handle, and to cut from! Look for Parfay at your grocer's.

Now all these virtues in a single shortening

Everything these authorities had mentioned . . . advantages never before combined in a single shortening . . . are in Parfay:

- Its snow white purity comes triumphant through comparisons with all other cooking fats. Its utter absence of flavor gives other ingredients full play. Parfay retains its fresh neutrality—it keeps indefinitely, always sweet.
- Parfay creams and mixes so quickly and easily. It saves time and effort and gives cakes and cookies particular lightness and fine texture.
- Because Parfay heats to an intense degree, you have no odor and no smoke discomfort. Fried foods come out of the kettle crisp, greaseless and digestible.
- The springy quality of its dough gives you back old-fashioned flaky pastry. The pie crust most husbands are a little sentimental about.
- Parfay's slender blue and white container is wonderfully convenient in the ice box.

"Never before," says this exacting group of experts, "never before has there been such a shortening! Parfay has every quality we asked."

Because we're certain you'll feel that way, too, we've told your dealer to refund Parfay's purchase price if anyone tried it and isn't delighted. Buy Parfay today. Then see for yourself what results you get!

SET $1.82 AS LEVY ON EACH $100 IN VALUE

The city council at its regular meeting last night fixed the city's tax rate at $1.82 for each $100 of assessed valuation. This new rate for the current fiscal year is 11 cents less than the rate charged last year, set at $1.93. Included in last year's tax rate was four cents for the city's contribution toward the support of the Metropolitan Water district.

The tax rate for this year is distributed as follows: General expenses, including maintenance of the water, street and fire departments, $1.25; advertising four cents; parks 2.5 cents; city planning commission 0.5 cent; music four cents; library 14 cents; sewers two cents; interest and sinking fund 30 cents.

Because of an existing surplus in the city's water fund, it was decided to eliminate a proposed three-cent tax for support of the Metropolitan Water district, and take the amount, $6,683.82 assessed against Santa Ana as its share towards maintenance of the organization, from the water fund. But for the surplus in the water fund, the tax rate this year would have been $1.85, it was explained.

LAST BIG WILD HORSE ROUNDUP

The last big wild horse roundup, in which more than 500 were moved from the Oregon-Nevada line to Bend, Ore., across the Central Oregon desert, was accomplished with loss of but 11 horses—but kept the cowboys in the saddle 22 hours a day in keeping the wild stock together, averting stampedes and reaching water every second day. The horses were shipped by train from Bend to a Portland cannery. Photo shows the drive progressing across the desert.

DEFER ACTION ON REGULATION OF CITY TAXIS

Two important measures, one regulating the operation of local taxi cabs in respect to competition with the bus company, and the other prescribing opening and closing hours for barber shops in the city, were discussed last night at the regular meeting of the city council.

The taxi situation was discussed earlier in the day at a conference held at the city hall, attended by C. H. Eckles, of Whittier, owner of the Santa Ana Bus company; representatives of the local taxi concerns and their counsel, Attorney Horace C. Head, and Earl R. Ruddy, secretary-manager of the Business Men's association.

The taxi concerns presented a petition, signed by about 400 residents, to the effect that they were dependent upon the type of transportation furnished by the taxi companies.

The greater portion of the conference was given over to the discussion of the provisions of a tentative ordinance submitted by City Attorney Charles D. Swanner. It was brought out that there is a need for both services and that any proposed regulation should be fair and just to all concerned. Stress was laid on the fact that the bus lines are covering a comparatively small portion of the city, and that the greater part is being served by the taxi companies.

Mayor Frank L. Purinton said that the bus company is handling one class of people and that the taxi concerns are carrying an entirely different class, hence the need of both services. He accentuated the point that whatever regulations were agreed upon should be made with a view more to serve the needs of the people than to protect the interests of the transportation concerns.

Following some further discussion, it was decided to postpone action on the ordinance for another week. In the meantime it was suggested that the taxi concerns study the provisions of the tentative ordinance drafted by City Attorney Swanner, and submit such changes as they think are necessary to enable them to operate at a fair profit.

Eckles, owner of the bus company, made the point that the taxi companies should be compelled to operate on the principle of individual service, serving and completing a call before another passenger is picked up. Replying to the objection that his lines do not cover the entire city, he intimated that he would be willing to supplement his bus service with a local taxi service.

No action was taken on a proposed ordinance to regulate the opening and closing hours of barber shops. Attorney D. G. Wettlin appeared before the council, representing the petitioners for the ordinance. City Attorney Swanner, representing the city, filed an adverse report, pointing out that legislation of this kind has been held to be unconstitutional in other states. Attorney Wettlin countered with a proposal that the city enact the ordinance and then have it taken to the courts for a test case, the petitioners to pay all costs.

Attorney Reeves Aylmore, speaking for the independent barbers in the city, opposed the proposed measure and denounced it as unconstitutional. This sort of legislation, the speaker declared, would discourage industries from coming here, in which connection he made reference to the Pittsburgh Plate Glass company. Further consideration of the project was postponed until all members of the council were present.

Locate Paintings Hidden In Church

LEIPZIG, Aug. 26.—(INS)—During work preliminary to the restoration of the Romanesque St. Kunigunde church in Borna, which dates from the twelfth century, a number of mural paintings dating from the thirteenth century have been disclosed under the plaster covering the walls. The largest represents St. Christopher carrying the Child Jesus over a river. Other pictures are of the Virgin, the Crucifixion, a head of Christ and three saints.

Two Persons Hurt In Auto Accident

Two persons were injured at Chestnut and Main streets at 1:15 o'clock yesterday afternoon when cars driven by Dona Peterson, of San Juan Capistrano, and Julian Klein, 812 Ramona street, San Gabriel, collided.

Mrs. R. J. Hackett, a passenger in the Klein machine, and Miss Peterson were cut and bruised, according to a report made to the police department.

LATE REQUEST FOR PARK USE TURNED DOWN

Parties desiring to use Birch park for meeting or gatherings, including the listening to radio programs broadcast from out-of-town stations, should file proper applications with the city clerk in time enough to be acted upon by the council, was the advice given Charles Havens, local resident, who last night appeared before the city council with a request for use of the park in connection with campaign activities.

Havens told the council that he and other supporters of Buron Fitts for governor desired to make use of the park and the loud speakers installed there to listen in on an address scheduled to be given by the Rev. "Bob" Shuler on behalf of Fitts. Haven's request was received too late to be acted upon.

FINDS CAR ORDER AFTER 16 YEARS

DALLAS, Texas, Aug. 26.—(INS)—With a 16-year-old order in his possession, a Dallas automobile distributor is attempting to deliver a carload of 1931 automobiles on an order calling for an equal number of machines of the vintage of 1914.

The order has been lost in the mails all these years, and was delivered to the addressee only after an antiquated mail car had been sent to the wrecking house, where the letter was found in some hidden cranny.

Since the time the letter was mailed the original name of the addressee had been changed, but it found its way to him nevertheless. He immediately set about getting in contact with the firm which ordered the cars, in an attempt to deliver a flock of much newer models.

CHURCH HONORS MISSIONARIES ON DEPARTURE

Following the sermon at the First Congregational church Sunday morning there was a service in connection with the departure of three young women, one a Santa Ana girl, who are going to Mexico as teachers in Congregational schools. It was a recognition ceremony, based on the work of the three teachers.

The sermon, given by the Rev. Perry F. Schrock, was on the subject "Building" and the texts were "You are a building which has been reared on the foundation of the Apostles and Prophets, the cornerstone being Christ Jesus Himself. You are being built up together to become a fixed abode for God through the Spirit," Eph. 2:20-22, and "In discharge of the task which God graciously entrusted to me, I—like a competent master builder—have laid a foundation, and others are building upon it," I Cor. 3:10. The special solo was also in the same theme, being "The Builder" a composition of Charles Wakefield Cadman, sung by Maurice Phillips.

The charge to the young women, Miss Virginia Powell of Santa Ana, Miss Catherine Poppleton of Portland, Ore., and Miss Bonnie Korns of San Gabriel, was delivered by Mrs. E. B. Allen, president of the Congregational Women's Missionary society of Southern California, second assistant moderator of the Southern California Congregational conference and member of the conference commission on Mexican missions.

The sermon and charge both emphasized that teaching is building; that the temple of God in humanity must be built; that God must live through human lives; that Mexico must learn how to overcome ignorance, superstition and poverty in order to be included in the temple of God; and that the Congregational church stands back of its schools and teachers.

Miss Powell, a graduate of the University of California at Berkeley, is going to Hermosillo; Miss Korns, who graduated from the University of Southern California, is going to Mazatlan; and the destination of Miss Poppleton, who graduated from the University of Oregon, is to go to Guadalajara. A welcome to the work in Mexico was extended to the three young women by A. B. Crawford, superintendent of mission work in Pomona valley, who said that the government of Mexico was making a great effort to extend educational facilities.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Vredenburgh, and son Robert, also were present at the service. They are en route to Guadalajara, where Mr. Vredenburgh, formerly a member of the faculty of the University of Nebraska, will take charge of the boys' school conducted by the Congregational church.

HAVANA, Aug. 26.—When it's necessary to cut salaries and the president cuts his first, it's news. That's what happened here recently when President Machado of Cuba, finding the country in difficulty in trying to keep within the $76,000,000 national budget, cut his salary from $25,000 a year to $12,000. Other government officials received cuts in proportion.

BREAKFASTERS PLAN INFORMAL CEREMONIES

Election results will be announced. B. Z. McKinney, president, urged a big attendance, as something of real importance will be announced, he said. The meeting will begin promptly at 7:30 a. m.

IRATE WIFE RAIDS PASTOR'S CHURCH

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 26.—(INS)—Because the Rev. Carl Walker, evangelist, revivalist and faith-healer, demurred at paying alimony his tabernacle, an improvised affair resembling a barn, is as bare as the innards of a bass drum.

Convinced that the Rev. Walker was sincere in his refusal to support her, Mrs. Walker, armed with a screwdriver, raided the tabernacle and removed from it the furnishings and sundry other articles.

Besides the furniture in the living quarters of the tabernacle, a xylophone, two pianos, a motion picture projector and about 200 folding chairs were taken by the enraged Mrs. Walker.

Mrs. Walker brought suit for divorce June 10 and was awarded temporary alimony of $50 a week. She charged that the Rev. Walker drank liquor, was cruel to her and associated with other women.

WATERMELONS SAVE LIFE OF PIONEER

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—(INS)—A book, and maybe watermelons, too, saved the life of one of Iowa's early settlers, according to records in the war department files.

The pioneer, it appeared from the records, was captured by Indians back in 1840, and their idea was to kill this strange paleface.

The settler, however, was unperturbed, and when an exhibition of seeds failed to divert the Indians' thoughts, he calmly picked up a book and started reading.

Occasional bursts of hearty laughter from the paleface as he read his volume mystified the superstitious Indians; they judged the man demented and left him severely alone.

Whatever lingering doubts they might have had on the question of allowing the white man to live were set definitely at rest some months later when he treated them to their first watermelon feast, grown from the seeds he brought with him into the west.

LEGION LEADER SAYS FILIPINO REAL PROBLEM

Unrestricted immigration of Filipinos and its effect upon the economic, social and political life of California, is a question that should have the earnest thought of every citizen of California, according to Dr. Ralph S. Roberts, of Descanso, San Diego county, commander of the fifth area of the California department of American Legion, comprising the counties of Orange, Riverside, San Bernardino, Imperial and San Diego.

Because of the importance of this question, it was one of the main topics at the state convention held last week at Sacramento, he added. Dr. Roberts conferred today with local Legion officials on matters relating to organization activities.

Dr. Roberts expressed his satisfaction over the fact that Long Beach had been chosen as the convention city for the 1931 state meet. He also voiced approval of the consolidation of the various veteran welfare agencies in Washington, which step, he thought, would lead to more expeditious handling of veteran claims.

NOVEL APARTMENT BUILDING PLANNED

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—(INS)—If the plans of a Chicago building syndicate are realized, Chicago within a year will be able to boast of the first all-metal and glass apartment house in the world.

Glass and aluminum will be used for the exterior, according to the blueprints, and floors are to be of steel. Designed for 17 families, the structure will be 17 stories in height. It is to be located on the exclusive "gold coast."

The walls of the proposed building will be only 3 1-2 inches thick, whereas the usual stone and brick walls are about a foot thick. Narrow walls and floors will effect a saving of about 20 per cent in construction cost, according to the architects.

Electric heat will be provided in the apartments, and a ventilating system will guarantee a complete change of air every hour.

FAIR ENOUGH!

FOR A LITTLE MORE, I'll give you something to remember me by — and when you remember me, you'll smile, and when you smile, your false teeth will look real and natural. Of course $10.00 is my lowest price. I'll go higher if you say the word.

—The corn on the cob season is rapidly approaching.
—Can you afford to meet this delectable dish with a smile if your "Plate" is ill fitting and poorly constructed?
—You'll answer "No" in the long run. So, my advice is, pay just a little more and get from me a plate that fits accurately, that is snug and tight and that will be a pleasure to you at meals, instead of a nuisance. Believe me—make them right, that's my policy. Come in.

The "Little Church of the Ferns," near Paso Robles, the interior of which was massed with ferns, roses, asters and lilies formed a perfect setting for the wedding of Miss Frieda Helen Claassen to Carlton C. Buck at 4:30 o'clock recently.

At the first sweet strains of the wedding march the bride and bridegroom and their attendants, entered and took their places under an arch of white ribbon and mountain fern. The bride, who is a very charming brunette, was clad in a gown of white satin and lace fashioned on long simple lines, and wore a filmy veil held in place with a wreath of orange blossoms.

Preceding the impressive ring ceremony, which was read by Rev. G. E. Jantzen, Miss Alice Jensen and Miss Gertrude Claassen, cousins of the bride, sang "Sweeter Day by Day." They were accompanied by Mrs. Lna Claassen, aunt of the bride, who also played the wedding march. With the masses of pastel-tinted flowers and mountain ferns, as the background an elaborate banquet was served to 250 guests. The newly wedded couple left immediately after the banquet for a motor trip to the Yosemite. Mrs. Buck traveled in a smart outfit of the new shade of tan. Returning after September 10, Mr. and Mrs. Buck will be at home at Maywood, Calif., where Mr. Buck is engaged in musical work.

Mrs. Buck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Claassen, Paso Robles, graduated with honors at the Paso Robles high school in 1928 and for the past two years attended Bible Institute of Los Angeles where she graduated this year after completing the general course of that institution. The MIXING BOWL by ANN MEREDITH

An amusing thought is this: Twenty-five years ago women "enjoyed poor health." And I mean enjoyed, when I write the word. Poor health was the burning subject in gatherings of women. But can we blame the poor things?

Their diet was pretty bad . . . too many sweets and starchy foods . . . the order of the Saturday Night Bath didn't do much for skin elimination . . . and tight corseting added to the misery of organic troubles. Today, we think the woman who loves to talk about her "last operation" just a little bit balmy.

It isn't good form to be sick any more, and it isn't necessary if a little care is given to diet and common sense health care. Get enough vitamines and high-residue foods first, and whatever space is left for cake and candy you are entitled to.

High-residue foods?

That is just another term for fruits, vegetables and cereals eaten as far as possible in their natural state, thus supplying a loose mass of bulky food low in fat forming elements.

Spinach, cabbage, green beans, lettuce, celery, etc., are in this class. Practically all fruits with the exception of bananas and grapes belong here. And all the flours carrying a high percentage of brans.

TODAY'S RECIPE

PINEAPPLE-CHEESE SALAD

1 cup crushed pineapple.
4 tablespoons sugar.
Juice of 1 1-2 lemons.
2 tablespoons gelatine.
1-2 cup cold water.
1-3 teaspoon salt.
1 cup grated cheese.
2 egg whites, beaten dry.
1 cup heavy cream, whipped stiff.

I have been intending to republish this salad recipe for months, but could not find it until today. I would advise lovers of unusual salads to cut out and save the recipe. It is the finest I have ever used.

Heat the pineapple and sugar. Soften the gelatine in cold water, add to the hot pineapple and stir until dissolved. Remove from the fire and cool. When the mixture is half jellied, whip in the lemon juice and the cup of grated cheese.

Beat the egg whites very stiff—so a knife will cut them—and fold them into the pineapple mixture with a beating motion. This part of the operation must leave the mixture spongy, you see. Put back into the ice box while the iced cream is being whipped, add salt to it, and fold smoothly through the jellied mixture.

Set it in a ring mould (rinsed first in cold water). To serve: Turn onto a lettuce garnished plate and serve with a bowl of mayonnaise mixed with finely chopped green pepper and canned pimento, a little of each, and make the mayonnaise acid with lemon juice.

This can be the important dish for a Sunday night supper, or served in tiny individual moulds, it is perfect for a luncheon menu.

The recipe makes eight portions, the calories total 1800. The individual calory total plus 2 tablespoons of mayonnaise, is 425. Most of the calories are energy and fat-makers . . . no place for a fat lady, I would say!

Spoon breads, the most perfect food you can hope to serve with fried chicken, or alone, is fully described in the leaflet for this week. I have something very special to tell you in this leaflet—a new way of cooking green corn, combining it with the spoon bread.

The leaflet is free all week—just send along a stamped, self-addressed envelope to bring it home.

Wednesday, Lemon Coffee Loaf will be the subject of the cooking lesson.

'THE DAWN PATROL' MAKES BIG HIT

Following close on the heels of such successes as "Weary River," "Drag," "Young Nowheres" and "Son of the Gods," the newest Barthelmess proruction is due to create a sensation and larger fan following than anything he has heretofore done. "The Dawn Patrol" teems with dramatic situations, action, and human interest. It tells the story of a group of young flyers in the early years of the World war. War is not its theme—it serves merely as the background against which star and director and author have painted a vivid picture of the soul-struggle of fighting men who soar above the clouds, face the enemy against great odds and in it finds something greater than war to make a sacrifice for.

"The Dawn Patrol" was written originally as a screen story by John Monk Saunders, author of "Wings" and other motion picture stories. It was directed by Howard Hawks, brother of the ill-fated Kenneth and himself a licensed pilot. The cast supporting Barthelmess is of superlative caliber including such names as Douglas Fairbanks jr., Neil Hamilton, Gardner James, Clyde Cook, James Finlayson, William Janney and others.

DOUBLE BILL CLOSES AT WALKER STATE

Warner Bros. did well in selecting "Hearts in Exile" for the fair Dolores Costello. It is the first time she has appeared in the role of a Russian peasant girl and her performance proves that she is one of the most versatile of screen actresses. The picture is an exciting story of love and heartbreak, laid in the midst of the peasantly of Moscow and the great icy wastes of the Siberian prison camps.

'ANYBODY'S WOMAN' ATTRACTS CROWDS

Ruth Chatterton plays a more diversified part in "Anybody's Woman" than in any picture in which she has ever been seen here. While on a drunken party she marries Clive Brook, who plays the part of a big attorney. The next morning, he does not remember the wedding.

How she has in the past been "anybody's woman," but how she makes the man she marries love her and fight for her, are highlights of the production. Her part is particularly adapted to her style of acting and she will be liked by her many admirers for this picture even more than in "Sarah and Son" and some of her other pictures.

The plot, by Gouvernor Morris, is particularly interesting and entertaining throughout.

THE TINYMITES

STORY by HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES by KING

The Tinies spent most of the day in helping stack big loads of hay. When night time came the Travel Man said, "Say, I have a plan. Instead of back in our hotel, I think it really would be swell to sleep up in the hay stack. I feel fairly sure we can."

Of course the peasant said, "Why, sure! There's room enough for all. Just climb us there, high off the ground. I hope you all sleep good and sound. Then, when the sun comes up at dawn, I'll give you all a call."

The Travel Man said, "Thank you much! And I'll make sure the lads don't touch a single thing in your big barn. I know they'll all mind me." The driver of their big machine smiled broadly and he seemed real keen when he was asked to join them. "Sure!" he shouted. "That suits me!"

So, up into the hay they went, with every single one intent on getting heaps and heaps of sleep, so they would all feel great. The Travel Man said, "You all know that rest makes little fellows grow. Let's drift right into slumberland. It's getting pretty late."

At dawn they all were up again. They had a dandy breakfast. Then they started back to Athens in their rented touring car. At noon they jumped out to the ground to walk some more and look around. Poor Clowny said, "Let's walk real slow. I can't go very fast."

While strolling down one small side street, who should the Tinies chance to meet but quite a strange old vendor who sold baskets, big and small. He led a mule that trudged along. Said Clowny, "Gee, that mule is strong. The baskets are piled on its back and it doesn't care at all."

RULES

1. In playing golf on the Missing Letter Links the object is to change one word to another in a given number of strokes which is par. For example, to go from TEE to PIN in three strokes sounds hard but isn't: TEE, TIE, PIE, PIN. It's probably more difficult on a real course.

2. Change but one letter at a time and be sure the word you have used is one in good usage.

3. The order of the letters cannot be changed.

CALM to REST—This hole isn't so nerve-wrecking that you'll need a CALM REST following it. However, it does require five careful strokes.

Late News From Orange County Communities

ENVIRONMENT IS BLAMED FOR CROWDED CELLS

ANAHEIM, Aug. 26.—Declaring that environment is the cause of the larger portion of the inmates of state institutions being there and urging communities to take more notice of their problems, Dr. Norman Fenton, director of the California Bureau of Juvenile Research, gave an address before the Anaheim Rotary club yesterday.

State penal institutions and insane asylums in 20 years from now will be inhabited by youths of today, declared Dr. Fenton, and whether the population of these institutions increases or decreases depends on how much children are helped at home and in their own community before they reach the gates of corrective institutions, he said. He pointed out that co-operation between parents, physicians and teachers, is essential if this great sociological problem is to be solved.

Another guest was Verne Landreth, director of physical education at Whittier college, who is engaged in making a survey of the recreational facilities of the state and the part they are playing in the problem of making good citizens of children.

Next Monday being a holiday there will be no meeting of the Rotary club but on Tuesday the club will visit Santa Ana Rotary.

HOLD INQUEST IN DEATH OF MONROVIA BOY

Bennett, who was swimming with his companion, Miss Faye Carmack, also of Monrovia, was nearly saved by the girl, who held him up but she finally had to save herself and Bennett drowned. His body was recovered by life guards who worked over the young man for 35 minutes but he had been submerged too long to recover.

AGAINST THE VETERANS' WELFARE BOND ACT OF 1929. This act provides for a bond issue of twenty million dollars to be used by the veterans' welfare board in assisting California war veterans to acquire farms or homes.

(Submitted to the people by the Legislature of the State of California, at its regular session commencing on the seventh day of January, 1929.)

An act authorizing the creation of a debt or debts, liability or liabilities, through the issuance and sale of state bonds, for the single object of creating a fund to provide farm and home aid for veterans in accordance with the provisions of the veterans' farm and home purchase act, approved May 30, 1921, and of any and all acts amendatory thereof or supplemental thereto; creating a veterans' welfare finance committee; defining the powers and duties of said committee and of the vetserans' welfare board and other state offices in respect to the administration of the provisions hereof; providing ways and means, exclusive of loans, for the payment of the interest of such debt or debts, liability or liabilities, as such interest falls due, and also for the payment and discharge of the principal of such debt or debts, liability or liabilities, as such principal matures; appropriating money for the expense of preparing and of advertising the sale of bonds herein authorized to be issued; and providing for the submission of this act to a vote of the people at the general election to be held in the month of November, one thousand nine hundred thirty.

The aggregate par value of all bonds issued under this act shall not exceed the sum of twenty million dollars, and the bonds issued under any such resolution shall bear interest from the date of issuance of said bonds to the date of maturity thereof, at a rate to be determined by the said veterans' welfare finance committee and specified in such resolution, but in no case exceeding six per cent per annum. Both principal and interest shall be payable in gold coin of the United States, of the present standard of value, at the office of the state treasurer, or at the office of any duly authorized agent of the state treasurer, and shall be so payable at the times specified in said resolution or resolutions.

Each bond issued under this act shall contain a clause or clauses stating that interest shall cease to accrue thereon from and after the date of maturity thereof and referring to this act and to the resolution of the veterans' welfare finance committee hereunder by virtue of which said bond is issued.

SEC. 3. The requisite number of suitable interest coupons, appropriately numbered, shall be attached to each bond issued under this act. Said interest coupons shall bear the facsimile signature of the state treasurer who shall be in office on the date of issuance of the bond to which said coupons pertain.

The provisions of this section shall be applicable also to the interest coupons pertaining to the bonds authorized by this act to be issued, and shall be applicable, as far as practicable, to any duly authorized agent of the state treasurer.

SEC. 5. There is hereby appropriated from the general fund in the state treasury such sum annually as will be necessary to pay the principal of and the interest on the bonds issued and sold pursuant to the provisions of this act, as said principal and interest becomes due and payable.

There shall be collected annually in the same manner and at the same time as other state revenue is collected such a sum, in addition to the ordinary revenues of the state, as shall be required to pay the principal and interest on said bonds as herein provided, and it is hereby made the duty of all officers charged by law with any duty in regard to the collections of said revenue, to do and perform each and every act which shall be necessary to collect such additional sum.

Both principal and interest of said bonds shall be paid when due upon warrants duly drawn against said appropriation from the general fund by the controller of the state in favor of the state treasurer or in favor of any duly authorized agent of the state treasurer, upon demands audited by the state board of control, and the moneys to be returned into the general fund in the state treasury pursuant to the provisions of this section shall likewise be paid as herein provided upon warrants duly drawn by the controller of the state upon demands duly audited by the state board of control.

Said amount shall be refunded to the general fund in the state treasury out of the specific funds into which the proceeds from the sale of said bonds shall be respectively covered in accordance with the provisions of this act on controller's warrant duly drawn for that purpose.

SEC. 7. When the bonds authorized to be issued under this act shall be duly executed, they shall be by the state treasurer sold at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, in such parcels and numbers as the said treasurer shall be directed by the governor of the state, under seal thereof, after a resolution requesting such sale shall have been adopted by the veterans' welfare board and approved by the governor of the state, but said treasurer must reject any and all bids for said bonds, or for any of them, which shall be below the par value of said bonds so offered plus the interest which has accrued thereon between the date of sale and the last preceding interest maturity date; and with the approval of the governor, he may from time to time, by public announcement at the place and time fixed for the sale, continue such sale, as to the whole of the bonds offered, or any part thereof offered, to such time and place as he may select. Before offering any of said bonds for sale the said treasurer shall detach therefrom all coupons which have matured or will mature before the day fixed for such sale.

Due notice of the time and place of sale of all bonds must be given by said treasurer by publication in one newspaper published in the city and county of San Francisco and also by publication in one newspaper published in the city of Oakland, and by publication in one newspaper published in the city of Los Angeles once a week during four weeks prior to such sale. In addition to the notice last above provided for, the state treasurer may give such further notice as he may deem advisable, but the expense and cost of such additional notice shall not exceed the sum of five hundred dollars for each sale so advertised. The proceeds of the sale of such bonds and such amount as may have been paid as accrued interest thereon shall be forthwith paid over by said treasurer into the veterans' farm and home building fund and must be used exclusively in aiding veterans in the acquisition of, or payments for, farms and homes, in accordance with the provisions of the veterans' farm and home purchase act, and of any and all acts amendatory or supplemental to said act; provided, that the proceeds from the sale of said bonds may be used to pay the debt created by the issuance and sale thereof.

SEC. 11. Whenever the said veterans' welfare finance committee shall have determined that a bond issue under this act is necessary or desirable to carry such plans and projects into execution, it shall adopt a resolution to this effect. The said resolution shall authorize and direct the state treasurer to prepare the requisite number of suitable bonds and shall specify:

The rate of interest to be borne by the said bonds shall be uniform for all the bonds of the same issue and shall be determined and fixed by the veterans' welfare finance committee according to the then prevailing market conditions, but shall in no case exceed six per cent per annum, and the determination of said committee as to the rate of interest shall be conclusive as to the then prevailing market conditions. The interest coupons to be attached to the said bonds shall be payable at semiannual intervals from the date of issuance of said bonds; provided, that the interest coupon first payable may, if the veterans' welfare finance committee shall so determine and specify, be payable one year after the date of issuance of said bonds.

McDonnell and had a hard time fielding "String's" slow bounder. Moon fanned for the first out and Denney hit into a speedy double play, Scott to Cole to Hunter, the Cole-Hunter part of it trapping McDonnell who overslid third base.

Davis Smashes Homer

"Brass" Davis' home run, a hard hit ball driven over Bell's head, put Whittier ahead, 2-1, in the fourth. Bell made a desperate effort to catch the sphere as he crashed into a group of fans lined up against the handball courts in deep left field but only succeeded in knocking the ball down. Davis' homer came with two away and none on.

Santa Ana went out in front again in the sixth, 3-2, when it scored twice after two were out. Daley singled infield and "Memphy" Hill beat out a bunt, Daley racing all the way to third. Hill took second unmolested on the first pitch to "Rosey" Merrill and then scored with Daley when Merrill doubled to left center.

Whittier was still fighting, however, and regained the lead almost immediately. Denney, first up in the last of the same frome, singled sharply to center and went to second on Arley Hill's long sacrifice fly to Daley. Sucksdorf banged a triple to left center to score Denney, and Sucksdorf went home with the 4-3 run on Davis' infield out, Scott to Cole.

Whittier's Defense Cracks

Whittier's defense, which had been pretty airtight until this juncture, collapsed in the first of the "lucky seventh" and the series was soon over. With one out, Hunter singled to left and went all the way to third on passed balls while McDonnell was walking Wilcox. Then another passed ball let Hunter scamper home with the tying run, 4-4, Wilcox going to second. Cornelius bunted in front of the plate and was safe, and Wilcox scored when Hill, charging in fast, failed to come up with the ball cleanly and "butter-fingered" it to the Whittier bench.

Again presented with the lead, Cornelius "born down" and held the Quakers helpless through the final three innings while his colleagues kept pecking away at McDonnell for another run, this one for good measure in the ninth. Hunter singled to right and Wilcox and Cornelius both beat out bunts to fill the pathways before a man had been retired. Scott's infield out scored Hunter but Daley and Hill perished peacefully, and the game ended 6-4.

In the last of the seventh, Cornelius got Jertberg on an easy infield ball to Hunter, Rasmussen on a pop fly to Merrill and McDonnell on strikes. Cornelius fanned Moon, Denney and A. Hill, the three lead-off men in the eighth, and then fanned Davis and Johns in the ninth after Sucksdorf had popped to Hill.

McGraw Club Fails To Enthuse Critics

—the test of McGraw and his type of leadership must come no later than 1931. If he loses again with the same outfit now under his control he will go down in the minds of lots of people as a losing manager.

The 1930 Giants are a young ball club and they ought to be better of another year of experience together. They at present are hitting away out beyond any rival in any league. They have one of the four great infields of all baseball. Their outfield is a little better than fair and their catching is a little better than good. Even the pitching has come along in recent weeks; yet the Giants this morning are five games behind the Cubs.

I don't profess to know the answer. Maybe there just isn't any. Even if that were true, however, it would constitute an indirect or negative reflection on the man in charge, for when success eludes an organization that should be successful, the field boss should have more than a remote idea why this is so. If he doesn't he is admitting tacitly that he doesn't know what is going on in his offical family.

Play Well At Home

At that, the Giants still have the month of September on the Polo Grounds and it is precedent that they always come with a rush under these conditions. In the last six years, the trouble has been that they had to come too far. But this time they still have a white man's chance, particularly with the Cubs finishing in the east.

As for Ens, it is my understanding that much depends on what he does with te Pirates during the same month. I suspect that much depends, too, on what the Pirates do with him. However, it has been no fault of his that a good ball club failed to prove it this year. First, little Waner was out for three months. Then a fool trade was made for Grimes. Followed then injuries to Traynor, Swetonic, Brame and others.

All in all, I should say Mr. Ens has done very well to finish before Christmas.

CHICAGO BD. OF TRADE

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—(UP)—A late rally in corn to around the previuos closing figures brought a corresponding rise in wheat on the Board of Trade today but the market again failed to hold and prices eased to close sharply lower. At one time December corn advanced ot a premium over the same delivery of wheat, the first time this year. The uncertainly of the hedging action of the pool was a disquieting factor during the session. The weakness in wheat checker the corn advance. Oats were lower with wheat.

At the close wheat was 1⅜ to 1⅝c lower, corn was ⅝ to 1c lower and oats were ½ to 1c lower. Provisions were firm.

LET US GO FORWARD

Tonight when the returns come in, thousands of people in California will be disappointed. Regardless of who wins for governor, there are going to be two candidates defeated and their followers will be correspondingly disappointed. The same is true of the candidates in the county and their friends.

We are glad that the number of contests will be so limited following the primaries. It is possible, of course, that there will be no contest, except that in the state, but there is very likely to be a run-off for sheriff, district attorney, and the office of supervisor in the fifth district.

Regardless of who wins for the various offices today, The Register wants to offer its congratulations and to express the hope that all ill feelings may be buried, and that we shall promptly get together to work for the further development of Orange county and the state along every line of endeavor. Wherein we have differed upon candidates or wherein we differ upon principles which we feel that our particular candidates typify, we should do it with a recognition that all others who differ with us or have differed with us have a perfect right to their ideas and opinions, and that we should honor and respect them for their expression of them and for their fighting for them, and in whatever contest our convictions urge us, if contest there be after the primaries, let us carry it on in the same spirit.

On the whole, the various contests in the county have been conducted in a spirit of fair play and sportmanship and desire to present the personalities and claims of the candidates, and if in one or two instances this has not been the case, it may now be overlooked and forgotten. We are glad that this comes only once in four years as far as the county is concerned. We people in the newspaper profession are glad that it doesn't come often.

When Clarence De Mar, noted long distance runner, missed a train on his way to keep a lecture appointment, he ran more than the distance of a marathon to catch another. A miss is as good as miles to him.

THE OLD-TIME CHAUTAUQUA LITERARY CIRCLE

Thomas Edison's presence at a re-union of his class of the Chautauqua Literary and Scientific Circle recalls the place that institution had in the lives of many people of an earlier generation. Among the thousands who were not privileged to have a college education, there were many who tried to get some equivalent for it. The Chautauqua movement started in to fill that desire. Courses were outlined, text books were prepared and printed, groups in many hundreds of towns were organized, and for four years the members of the group met and shared some of the privileges enjoyed by those who spent four years in residence at some college or university.

The result was a great satisfaction to those who participated in such a course of study. At the end of the four years of study they gathered at some central place, usually some grove, and received their diplomas for the work done and the credits received. Those diplomas meant as much to the people receiving them as do the diplomas received by those who graduate from our colleges. Each year, or perhaps every five years, the members of these classes gathered at the same central place for their re-union, and the memories of their study together bound them into a fine fellowship of academic interest.

These courses are still given, but they no longer enlist the numbers of the earlier days. Life has become more busy and more distracted. Through correspondence courses, or through radio lectures given by college professors, something of this work is still being carried on. But among the institutions of the past, none recall pleasanter memories than these Chautauqua circles. And we have no doubt that Mr. Edison's re-union with his Chautauqua class was as happy as the 50th anniversary of the invention of the incandescent light held last year.

Eight Connecticut boys swimming in a dye-polluted river returned to their homes with green hair, green eyebrows and green eyelashes. Some day they'll be very typical freshmen.

A REAL MISHAP

A banker and an advertising man arrived in New York the other day somewhat embarrassed. When the men embarked at Chicago they gave their clothes to the valet. While the valet worked, a switch engine carried off the car in which he was, and the clothes of the two men who had hoped to arrive in New York in sartorial perfection. Instead, when they arrived one wore a train conductor's extra suit, somewhat of a misfit, and the other was swathed in blankets. He didn't look like a Roman senator, though, for he preferred riding in a wheel chair to walking through the station in the Roman manner.

The moral of this little tale should be "watch your clothes," but there are enough nervous travelers now.

One time in Europe, a party of sixty tourists were conspicuous in a station. They had been instructed to "watch their luggage," and when they checked it for a day in Dresden and the baggage-master hauled it away on a truck they flocked after the truck, keeping their eyes glued to their luggage.

HENRY FORD'S POST-GRADUATE COURSE

Henry Ford has suggested that he will be glad to educate the boy after he graduates from college. By this he means that the boy who has graduated from college has not been fitted for life. There is still much for him to learn before he can really become a useful member of society and a business or an industrial asset.

This is the natural attitude of the man who has made a certain success in life without the privilege of a college education. Mr. Ford's friend, Thomas Edison, shares it with him, for in the examinations for the Edison scholarship the questions put to the contestants are usually a test of their information and observation. It was President Lincoln who once characterized the college as an institution which polishes pebbles and dims diamonds.

No doubt much of what one acquires at college has no practical value, and much of what one gets is speedily forgotten. But, after all, a college education, despite its seeming impracticability, does do something for its possessor. A farmer who had graduated from a well-known Eastern college was asked if his college education had been of any value to him in his farming. He answered: "I don't know; but I do know that it has made life more worth living."

It can hardly be expected that men who have never had the privilege of a college education can appreciate its untabulated value. But if Mr. Ford could only add to his genius for organization the richness which a man gets from having associated in his early days with great and richly-stored minds, how much broader his vision would be, and how much richer his life. He would appreciate the meaning of the words of old Dr. South, the noted preacher of the days of Charles II, when he said: "God hath no need of a man's knowledge; but he hath far less need of man's ignorance." Any enrichment of the human mind is ultimately of advantage to the individual and to society as a whole.

PROHIBITION AN ISSUE

Senator Fess delivered a radio address last night out of Washington. In his address he said:

The President is uncompromising on the necessity of enforcement of law. No subject has appealed to him in a greater degree than the tendency toward violation of law. He appointed a commission of notable ability to investigate and report its findings on the subject of crime.

He has taken a strong stand on the enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment and has presented to Congress recommendations of legislation to more effectively enforce the law, chief of which is the transfer of the enforcement division from the Treasury to the legal department of the government. He has attempted to secure the best possible available talent for this service. In addition he has directed efforts to reach an agreement with Canada to reduce the importation of liquor. Some of his recommendations to Congress have already been enacted into law, while others remain for final action by the two houses.

It is strange with this emphasis placed upon this subject just as it is discussed by the president, that Senator Fess should have within the past week tried to put over the idea that prohibition and law enforcement were not an issue. The truth is that regardless of how we may wish, it is the most burning issue in America today. President Hoover recognizes it. Senator Fess is forced to speak on it, while between addresses he makes the foolish statement that it is not an issue.

Politicians and candidates do not make issues as a rule. Conditions and the people's opinion of the conditions do make the issues. It has been so with every great issue. The politicians can attempt to cover it up, put it in vaults, and bury it, but it stalks abroad in full life and energy and meets them, many times to their overthrow, unless they are brave enough to wrestle with it.

Old Story Recalled

Oakland Tribune

For those who may go back in their memories thirty-three years a brave story is recalled with the finding of the body of Andree in the far North.

It was before the days of the dirigible when his balloon drifted with the winds toward the Pole. With one unsuccessful start, and the months of preparation, the world was aware of every detail of the plans. Learned discussions centered on the sail arrangement he had fastened to his round balloon and on the theory his trailing ropes would be of aid.

Andree was confident, but the world feared for him. The North was a mystery and no one had ever made a balloon follow a course over a long distance. He set off and there was no wireless to speak of his progress. When he failed to return, romantic tales came from the North. Messages were found. Men believed that, somewhere in the wastes, the Andree party was alive. For months the hopes endured. In a day when airplanes and dirigible have crossed the Pole and when explorers talk to the world as they fly, the mystery of a first aerial expedition into the North is solved.

From Far Afield

San Diego Union

A curious feature of the Mooney-Billings hearing, now being prosecuted before the state supreme court, is the abundance of testimony dragged in from various sources to show that the two men were guilty of crimes other than that for which they were convicted. One witness testified that although her testimony at the original murder trial was mistaken, she had heard Mooney admit that he had made a practice of dumping acid on automobile motors. Mr. Cunha, one of the few prosecution agents who still stands pat, asserts he can prove that Billings was a member of a gang called the Blasters. This is all irrelevant though interesting.

If the original conviction of these men was honest and sound, might it not be well to confine the present review to establishing that fact beyond all new doubt?

It's An Ill Wind That Blows, But—!

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

ENOUGH IS ENOUGH

I once was strong for old John Smith,
Long years before I heard
That his great story was a myth
And false in every word.
I worshipped those brave men of old
The Knickerbocker Dutch,
But I have recently been told
That they were not so much.
And now to my regret I hear
Columbus was a buccaneer.

Yet still I think that Smith was great—
A bear-cat in a fight;
No matter what historians state
I still believe I'm right.
Columbus I revere a lot
With everything he did,
And I'm convinced that he was not
An earlier Captain Kidd.
No low-browed rough sea-faring crook.
Would take the chance Columbus took.

I had to learn my history once,
And I will not again
Review the bold and daring stunts
Of our heroic men.
They may, or they may not have won
The laurels on their brow,
But what they did or left undone
I'll not re-study now.
With history, as with A-B-C,
One learning is enough for me.

By WILLIAM TRUFANT FOSTER and WADDILL CATCHINGS

About 300,000 travelers from the United States have visited Europe in the past twelve months. About 200,000 of these, according to our estimate, have heard their country referred to as a land "where wealth accumulates and men decay."

Are these caustic critics right? Does our prosperity leave us rich as bankers, but poor as human beings? What, after all, is this "so-called American prosperity"? Let us pull it to pieces, and see if there is any substance under the flash.

First of all, it consists of better health. The years of suffering have been reduced. The years of life have been lengthened.

Second, it consists of increased production. In twenty years, the national income has risen from about 30 billion dollars to about 90 billion.

Third, the share of wage-earners in the national income has grown faster than the share of property owners. Real wages in the past two decades have risen at least 34 per cent.

Fourth, we must list other economic gains—life insurance, for example. It took us 80 years to accumulate the first 50 billions; seven years for the next fifty. Add to this the gains in accident, health, and employment insurance, in pensions and in savings bank deposits, and the gains of wage-earners in stock and bond ownership, and we have ample evidence—in spite of the inexcusable curse of unemployment—of increased economic security.

"That, however," replies the foreign critic, "is merely evidence of rich bank accounts, not of richer human beings. It tells us nothing about participation in the refined pleasures of life."

This comment brings us to a fifth item in American prosperity, namely, increased leisure. Evidence of this appears not only in the shorter working week, but also in the astounding increase in the numbers who go to college.

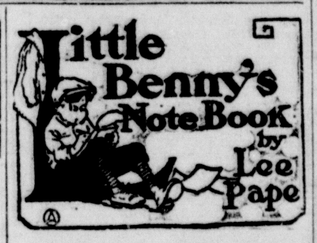

Participation in the refined pleasures of life, we must remember, requires leisure. Leisure is a by-product of economic efficiency. And leisure is not a flashy thing.

Incidentally, American prosperity during the past twenty years has been all bound up with the production of phonographs, radios, sound and motion pictures, automobiles, and facilities for scientific research. No other twenty years in all history have produced agencies so valuable as these for the eductation of ALL the people.

Little Benny's Note Book by Lee Pape

Well then gosh, maybe you better eat it, I sed. Whats 5 or 6 pounds more when you got so many any ways? I sed, and she sed, 5 or 6 pounds are the whole differents between success and failure, the ideer, 5 or 6 pounds. Now Im just going to be unyielding with myself and not touch it, she sed.

Me thinking, G, herray 2 slices for me, and pop sed, Well I know where I could use a little weight, pass me your slice.

Wich ma did, pop saying Id share it with Benny, ony that mite lay him open to suspicion of not acting from the very noblest motives in his tender solicitude concerning our weight.

And she ate it anyways, pop laffing like anything and giving me a corner off the end of his slice.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

THINGS THAT ARE GONE

There are some factors that underlay the prosperity of the last decade that America cannot count on, at least as heavily as before, in the decade ahead.

I am speaking now of something quite apart from the results of the market crash of last November; I am speaking of factors the force of which would today be markedly diminished even if the market mania had not given us a credit structure stretched to the breaking point.

Economic America took a spurt in the first three-fourths of 1929 that it was not in the cards for her to maintain.

This spurt of unprecedented production and unheard-of consumption was due to two major factors, viz:

First, particularly from 1922 to the late autumn of 1929 economic America was cashing in on the postponed building and buying into which we and the world were forced by the war.

Second, throughout the last decade economic America was reaping the prodigal rewards of a series of pioneer industrial and economic developments that opened up essentially virgin markets in which the producers had a long way to go before they bumped into the ghost of asturation or near-saturation. The more important of these industrial and economic developments were, viz:

(1) The automobile industry. During the last decade the automobile industry was coming in on the home stretch of an era in which the American people were getting stocked up with cars for the first time. This meant an expanding market that was bound to shrink when the ntaion became decently supplied with cars. Thereafter the industry had to look forward to a production to cover replacement and satisfy the new demand that growth of population would create.

(2) The suburban building boom. During the last decade economic America did a roaring business in suburban home-building because the war had delayed a vast amount of building and there was an active exodus of home-owners from cities to the suburbs. This meant that the suburban home building industry was profiting from an expanding business that was bound to shrink when postponed building was fairly well caught up and the exodus to the suburbs reached a point of relative stabilization.

(3) The radio industry. Here again was an industry that played to a market that was buying its products for the first time during the last few years. The radio industry was swelling with the sales of a pioneer market. It, too, faces the problem that the automobile industry faces, the problem of settling down, sooner or later, to the satisfaction of demand for replacement and the fresh demand that growth of population may produce.

All this does not mean, as a hasty reading might suggest, irretrievable loss; it means only that we must intelligently readjust economic America to her changed situation.

Tomorrow I shall speak of still other things that are gone, before going on to things that remain and things to come.

OUR CHILDREN

CAN YOU LAUGH?

Unless you can laugh you will be in a bad way when the children begin to grow up. Sometimes that is all that is left for you to do. An adolescent child, those in the early stages are the worst, can think of more things to do, and do them in stranger ways, than the imagination of grown-ups can compass.

What would you do if your son and daughter, aged thirteen and fifteen, went down to the station to receive, in your absence a very special guest, one of the kind labelled important, dressed in father's and mother's best clothes, and manner?

Suppose your thirteen-year-old son went to the neighbor's asking for subscriptions for a hopeless magazine, telling them it was positively necessary for him to earn money to buy his clothes for school next term as father's business was very bad and mother had to economize strictly?

If your daughter gravely told you that now that she was fourteen she intended to entertain the boys once a week, and wanted to know what refreshments you would serve on the occasions, ices and sponge cake, and shrimp salad, and delicate sandwiches being preferred. The boys would always be expected to bring candy. Also that father and mother would please see that the living room, thirty-two by twenty-eight, was held sacred to the calling hour every Friday night.

If you suddenly found a party of twenty children on your hands and your imperturbable youngster said, "I decided to have a party today and just called a few of them on the phone. What have you got to eat, mother?"

Could you laugh? You'd better. No matter what you think, no matter how hard hit you are, you would much better laugh at the absurdity of youth on its high horse than to storm and fret and weep. A good laugh is a tonic while rage and tears are a shocking waste of energy. Energy is precious indeed when one has to live with adolescent children.

Laugh first. Then face whatever situation han been created and in perfect good humor, let the weight of it fall on the youngster's shoulders. It will not be possible to do this completely but it is always possible to let him have some of it. If he invites a party to the house and calls for refreshments it is quite in order to say "You are welcome to what we have but you know I am not prepared for a party." Let him and his friends scour the refrigerator, let them exercise a little ingenuity, and enjoy themselves. Refreshments are not so important—a lemon and a pail of water, a box of crackers have been known to make a feast.

Make your corrective remarks in private. Some you will surely have to make, but keep them between yourselves. And cultivate healthy, kindly laughter, for your sake and theirs.

LAVOISIER'S BIRTH

On Aug. 26, 1743, Antoine Lavoisier, French chemist, and one of the founders of modern chemistry, was born in Paris, France.

Showing great precocity as a boy in mathematics and the physical sciences, Lavoisier was carefully educated at Mazarin College. When only 23 he received the prize offered by the French Academy of Sciences for the best and cheapest means of lighting city streets. Two years later he was elected a member of the academy.

He first turned his attention to chemistry in 1770, when he began experiments in combustion. After four years he published his Physical and Chemical Essays, in which he described his own theory of combustion which later was to form the cornerstone of modern chemistry. He determined that in all cases of combustion the matter with which the combustible substance combines is, in all instances, "vital air," termed today oxygen.

Lavoisier was of considerable service to his government. He introduced valuable improvements in the manufacture of gunpowder, improved methods of agriculture on scientific principles, participated in the preparation of the metric system and formed a plan for simplifying the collection of taxes. After the Revolution this connection with the government was the occasion of his indictment before the Revolutionary tribunal, by which he was condemned to the guillotin. He was executed on May 8, 1794.

Time To Smile

TO A GOOD PURPOSE

CLERK: I can't help being sleepy in the office. My baby is teething and cries every five minutes of the night and wakes me up.

CHIEF: If that is so you had better bring him to the office.—Der Wahre Jacob, Berlin.
